RECORD LOAN ACCOUNT BUT STOCKS RISE

Vigorous Advance in Face Also of Three-Day Holiday—Active Shares Range Up 2 to 15 Points.

NEARLY TWO SCORE OF NEW HIGH RECORDS

Pool Operations Resumed on a Broad Scale in a Wide Assortment of Securities.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The stock market did the unexpected again today by advancing vigorously in the face of a three day holiday and a record-breaking total of Federal Reserve broker's loans. Such week-end profit-taking as came into the market was readily absorbed and prices of active shares were advanced 2 to 15 points, nearly two score of them to new high records, on a turnover of well over 4,000,000 shares.

Many traders had expected an irregular or reactionary market today with the result that many stocks were pressed for sale at the opening, but the market quickly steadied and started upward when pool observations were resumed on a broad scale in a wide assortment of public utilities, chemicals, rails, foods, steels, farm implements and specialties. Final quotations were generally around the highest of the day, although a few of the fast steppers sold off 2 to 5 points in a last minute wave of realizing.

Although loans increased $132,000,000 to a new high record, the gain caused little surprise as the market has been heading upward for the past two weeks and nearly $160,000,000 in stock subscription "rights" had to be taken up last week. Market operators found encouragement in the weekly bank statement which showed that the Federal Reserve System had increased its purchases of bills.

Call Money 9 Per Cent.

Call money held steady at 9 per cent all day. There was no change in other money rates. Further heaviness developed in sterling exchange as a result of the recent drain on Britain's gold, sterling cables being quoted around $4.84 23-32, which brought them to around the lowest level since last November.

Directors of the Otis Steel Co. inaugurated dividends on the common stock at the annual rate of $2.50, Bohn Aluminum declared an extra dividend of 50 cents and a 20 per cent stock dividend was authorized on Hawaiian Pineapple, subject to stockholders' approval. Wall Street heard today that another important power deal was pending, but details were vague.

Power and light stocks soared in impressive fashion. American Water Works, American & Foreign Power, Standard Gas & Electric, Stone & Webster, Consolidated Gas, American Power & Light and Radio Corporation all closed with net gains of 6 to 12 points.

Farm Equipments Up.

Case Threshing ran up 15 points and International Harvester showed a net gain of 12¼ after opening up more than 15 points on a block of 18,000 shares.

Arthur Cutten was reported to be a big factor on the buying side in today's market.

Reserve System Changes.

Today's statement of the condition of the 12 reserve banks as of Aug. 28, shows, by comparison with the reserve banks' statement of Aug. 8 that reserve bank credit outstanding has decreased by nearly $120,000,000 in the three weeks that have elapsed since the changes were made in the rediscount and bill-buying rates, while the reserve banks have put $17,000,000 into the bill market in the three weeks they have reduced the amount of bills discounted by the member banks by more than $90,000,000 while reserve bank holdings of Government securities have increased more than $12,000,000.

Commodity markets were firmer. Cotton advanced 60 cents to $1.20 a bale and wheat and corn closed fractionally higher.

Closing stock prices, with other tables and market news, will be found on pages 43, 44, and 29.

$8,000,000 LIGHT FUND SPENT, SOME SECTIONS UNIMPROVED

Completion of Sixth Area by Sept. 15 Will Take Rest of Bond Issue Item.

The item of $8,000,000 for electric street lighting in the 1923 bond issue will be exhausted with the completion of District F of the street lighting program, bounded by Chouteau, Newstead and Easton avenues and the City Limits, where 2836 new standards will be turned on about Sept. 15.

G. Locke Tarlton, contractor, who obtained the contract for District F on a basis of $481,326.10, will submit his final bill some time in September, wiping out the present balance in the lighting account of $154,298.

Several sections in various parts of the city will continue without electric street lights, the largest districts being one south of Oakland avenue and west of 3800 and one north of Easton avenue and west of Newstead avenue. It has been esitmated that an additional $4,000,000 will be necessary to complete the electrification of the entire street lighting system.

OHIOAN SAYS HE WAS SHOT BY COAST GUARDS

Rutherford Hayes Declares He Was Trying Out Speed Boat When Fired On.

By the Associated Press.

PORT CLINTON, O., Aug. 30.—Rutherford Hayes, 33 years old, of Port Clinton, was in a hospital here today with bullet wounds in his side and hip, inflicted yesterday, he alleged, by coast guards. The wounded man was in a serious condition.

The shooting occurred, according to Hayes, while he was trying out a speed boat. Hayes was having motor trouble when the Coast Guard ship appeared and its crew ordered him to halt.

A volley from a machine gun on the guard ship followed the command and Hayes was wounded, he reported. The speed boat was taken to the Coast Guard station at Marblehead, although it was said no liquor was found aboard.

350 MILES AN HOUR IN PLANE

Speed Claimed for Briton in Schneider Race Practice.

By the Associated Press.

CALSHOT, England, Aug. 30.—Holiday-makers here had a thrill this morning when Flying Officer Atcherly took the Supermarine S-6 for a practice spin. The Italian team here for the Schneider Cup contest watched from the top of Calshot Castle.

After Atcherly had flown in the direction of the Isle of Wight for 20 minuter, he dived from a great height, flattened out and drove his seaplane, with the throttle wide open, at 350 miles an hour.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 30.—Letters and documents recording the agreement of France, Great Britain, Italy, Belgium, and Germany on evacuation of the Rhineland and financial questions incident to acceptance of the Young reparations plan were signed at 12:15 p. m. today by representatives of those nations.

The protocol and other documents in which will be registered the results of The Hague conference will be ready for approval this evening, and the conference will adjourn sine die about noon tomorrow.

Several matters will be left to future action, either by another conference or by individual action of the governments concerned.

Among these were the proposed international bank of settlement; the reparations problem as it affects the successors to the Austro-Hungarian Empire, and the final accounting between the former enemies for private property sequestered and sold.

These matters will be handled through the various chancellories as far as possible and will be liquidated finally when the parties to The Hague conference meet again to ratify the Young plan and complete organization work of the bank.

GERMANY'S DEBT IS $9,000,000,000

Paris Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

BY ARNO DOSCH FLEUROT.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 30.—Full accord between Germany and her creditors on the Young plan, which definitely fixes Germany's total war obligations at $9,000,000,000, present capital value, was reached at The Hague conference yesterday.

As a corollary to the financial settlement, reached after three and a half weeks of negotiations, which, during the greater part of their duration seemed constantly on the brink of failure, the allies have agreed that their last soldier will be out of the Rhineland by June 30, 1930.

The agreement has still to be ratified by the parliaments of Germany and the creditor nations before it comes legally into force, but there is little fear of its rejection as the statesmen of all nations concerned are committed to it.

Two Major Aspects to Problem.

There were two separate aspects to the final settlement of the major finance problems bequeathed by the World War: First, the allies had to agree among themselves as to how they would divide German reparations; then Germany and her creditors, as a group, had to come to an understanding over certain readjustments of the Young plan, made necessary by the insistence of Philip Snowden, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, that Great Britain receive a greater share of German payments than the committee of experts which drafted the Young plan at Paris, allotted to her.

France, Italy, Belgium and Japan, after resisting Snowden's demands for three weeks, finally conceded 80 per cent of the increase he demanded to bring Great Britain's share into accord with the percentages fixed at the Spa conference of 1921.

The last phase of the diplomatic struggle over the terms on which the World War should be liquidated was fought out over the question of who is to bear the costs of the Rhineland evacuation after Sept. 1, for which no provision was made in the Young plan.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German Foreign Minister, and Dr. Josef Karl Wirth, Minister of Occupied Regions, protested vigorously to the last minute that this burden should not fall upon Germany.

The outcome of the discussion, in the course of which tables were pounded and doors slammed by angry delegates, was a compromise. At 7:30 o'clock last night it was finally decided that Germany's share of the occupation costs between now and June 30 shall not exceed $7,146,000—about half of the total that probably will be expended before the last of the Brit-

ZEPPELIN CHIEF NOISILY GREETED BY NEW YORKERS

Mayor Walker Presents Dr. Eckener With Scroll as "One of the Greatest Living Men."

AIRSHIP BEING MADE READY FOR RETURN

Capt. Lehmann to Start Back Home With Dirigible Late Saturday or Sunday.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the world circling dirigible Graf Zeppelin, arrived in New York shortly after noon today and received a tumultuous welcome. As he landed at the battery in the city tug Macom, which brought him from the Jersey shore, the Navy dirigible Los Angeles soared overhead.

Dr. Eckener had returned to Lakehurst this morning by airplane from Washington where yesterday afternoon he was received by President Hoover.

Military and naval units in the New York area and a detachment of police were called to form an escort in the automobile parade up Broadway through the noonday thousands of office workers to the City Hall for the formal greeting by Mayor Walker and city officials.

They Speak Over Radio

At the Battery, Eckener and Lady Grace Drummond Hay, the only woman to make the round-the-world flight, spoke briefly into a microphone of the National Broadcasting Co., which was broadcasting the reception over a country-wide hookup from points of vantage along the line of march.

As the procession moved up Broadway there was the usual tribute of torn paper and ticker tape floating from the lofty windows of skyscrapers in the financial district. It was Eckener's second experience of this paper snowstorm, he having been given an official reception last year after the first ocean crossing of the Graf.

Eckener cast an occasional glance upward at the Los Angeles which he flew to America ni 1924 when it was turned over to this country as a reparations payment. The Los Angeles was returning today from the air races at Cleveland where it demonstrated its ability to pick up and cast off airplanes in full flight.

Presented With Scroll.

At City Hall Eckener was presented with a scroll in which Mayor Walker referred to the air navigator as "the Ambassador of Sublime Courage to the Entire World."

"We of New York," the scroll read, "who have greeted so many of the brave, delight to honor you for a deed that, rising high above the very spirit of adventure, opens our eyes to the transportation possibilities in the future of the world."

Walker Presents Medal Too.

Before the scroll was presented to Dr. Eckener Mayor Walker spoke in formal greeting.

"We want you to know," he said "that even in your own home there is no greater welcome for you than here in the city of New York. We honor you as one of the greatest living men throughout the civilized world, and one whom we are genuinely proud to receive as a friend."

Mayor Walker then pinned on Dr. Eckener the gold medal of the City of New York and also one on Capt. E. A. Lehman pilot of the Zeppelin. He then presented the rest of the city medals to the passengers and crew.

In responding to the Mayor's greetings Dr. Eckener, through an interpreter, said:

"The marvelous and sincere reception which the population of New York has just given us, combined with the friendly and honoring words that you, Mr. Mayor, just spoke to us, have touched me very deeply, more deeply even because we see therein an expression of a very friendly attitude towards Germany and the German people.

"The American people acclaim with enthusiasm every progress of a technical nature. They do this because they see in such progress

PAIR FOUND SLAIN NEAR BOULEVARD AT KANSAS CITY

19-Year-Old Youth Shot to Death While Woman Was Beaten and Strangled—Bodies in Ravine.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 30.—The bodies of a young woman and a young man, identified as Paul Leslie O'Dell, 19 years old, a railway freight clerk, and Miss Ruth Laughlin, 20, were found early today in the weeds below Cliff Drive, a boulevard, in the vicinity of Gladstone boulevard, in the northeast section of the city.

O'Dell had been shot through the head. The young woman had been strangled and beaten to death. She had gone driving with O'Dell last night.

The body of O'Dell was found about 50 feet below the level of the Cliff Drive roadway. Miss Laughlin's body was found about a block and a half west and further below the level of the drive. Her body was face down in a ravine.

The bodies were found by Marion Rose, employed as a truckman for an ice and storage company at about 7 o'clock. Rose reported he had passed along the same path about 1:30 a. m. going to his work and that he heard at least two shots at that time.

Police are attempting to piece together a letter torn to bits found near O'Dell's body. The letter, thought to have some bearing in the case, was in the handwriting of a woman. The police said such phrases as "I love you" "going the limit," "paying the price" "keep away from danger" "money" and "baby" were legible.

The envelope also torn, was dated Aug. 28, and is thought to have been mailed from Oklahoma.

The young woman had not been shot, according to police, who reported she had been killed by blows on the back of the head, probably with a revolver. Parts of a revolver handle were found near her body. Near that of the man were two empty .38 calibre revolver shells, and one unexploded.

In O'Dell's pockets were about $6. Police think the young woman's assailant may have twisted beads around her throat, since the imprints of beads in the flesh at the neck were deep.

SIR GEORGE HUBERT WILKINS WEDS AUSTRALIAN ACTRESS

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—Capt. Sir George Hubert Wilkins, explorer, just returned from a trip around the world in the Graf Zeppelin, and Susanne Bennett, Australian acrtess were married here today before Justice of the Peace Myron J. Penty.

The explorer said he was 40 years old and the bride gave her age as 28.

Although the engagement was announced about a year ago, the suddenness of the wedding today came as a surprise to friends here.

Capt. Wilkins and Miss Bennett were unattended, and two employes in Justice Penty's offices were witnesses.

Story of San Juan Disaster Told In Log of Ship That Rammed It

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.

THE story of the sinking of the San Juan was graphically told today in the wireless messages that flashed from the steamer, S. C. T. Dodd, which rammed the San Juan. The wireless messages as they came from the Dodd were:

LAST OF CHILD POLE-SITTERS ON GROUND AGAIN

Webster Groves Boy, Up 201 Hours, Quits When Competition Is Barred.

A boy's sense of sportsmanship brought 14-year-old Ernest Stohlmann Jr., to the ground at 7 o'clock last night after he had spent 201 hours on top of a swing pole in his back yard at 907 Landscape avenue, Webster Groves.

Ernest just didn't care to stay up any longer since other boys and girls in St. Louis and suburbs had been required to come down by orders from health officers. Although police had not disturbed him, he felt it simply wasn't fair to make disappointed contestants "feel any worse than they do."

There were so many visitors on hand to congratulate the local sitting champion, that it was 9 o'clock before he could thank them all, eat supper, take a bath and get to bed. Bright and early this morning he was awake "feeling fine," but told his mother he thought he would just lie in bed awhile. A bed where he could stretch out felt good after eight nights in the restricted sleeping quarters he rigged up of pillows on the pole.

Ernest's return to earth ended a fad which had raged among St. Louis juveniles for two weeks, recruiting boys and girls from 8 to 16 years in all parts of the city and suburbs. The craze was going strongest Wednesday when health commissioners, acting jointly, ordered police to stop it as an unhealthful nuisance.

SHIP 400 MILES OFF HATTERAS SIGHTS AIRPLANE GOING EAST

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Radio Marine Corporation today gave out the following message it had received:

"At 4:15 Greenwich mean time a plane passed overhead, headed east. Position 45.01 north latitude, 68.08 west longitude. Sky overcast, rain, wind south.

"S. S. COLDWATER."

The time given was 11:15 p. m., yesterday 10:15 p. m. St. Louis time). The position is about 400 miles east of Cape Hatteras, North Carolina.

Nothing was known here of any airplane flight that would place a plane in the position given. The Coldwater left Hamburg Aug. 14 for Savannah, Ga.

LINDBERGH'S MOTHER BARELY ESCAPES PLANE COLLISION

Pilot of Other Ship Averts Head-On Crash by Plunging to Ground, Unhurt.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—A head-on collision of two airplanes at the national air races here today was everted because the pilot of one of the planes preferred to crash to the ground to avoid the collision. Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh was an occupant of the plane that escaped. She was coming here to meet her son, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The plane that fell was piloted by William Goss and Howard Mays, both of Charleston, W. Va. No one was injured in the crash.

Shortly after the accident, the plane carrying Mrs. Lindbergh landed, and the mother of the famous flyer alighted. Just as she was planning to depart from the field, her son approached in a navy plane and greeted her. Then Lindbergh gave his mother a helmet. She entered her son's craft, and they took off for a ride.

MUNICIPAL OPERA DEFICIT IS INDICATED BY AUDIT

No Estimate of Exact Amount Will Be Available for Several Weeks.

An audit of the Municipal Theater Association's books indicates that a deficit will result from this year's open-air opera season in the Municipal Theater in Forest Park, it was learned today. No estimate of the amount of the anticipated deficit was available and the exact amount will not be available for several weeks.

If the deficit materializes, it will be the third in the 11 years the association has functioned. The first season resulted in a substantial deficit which was repaid to the guarantors from the profit of the second season. Last year a small deficit was charged off from surplus.

At present the association has a surplus of about $40,000. The directors will decide whether any deficit will be charged off from this account or assessed against the 400 or more guarantors who are pledged to the extent of about $75,000.

SAN JUAN HITS TANKER AT NIGHT IN HEAVY FOG

WRECKED SHIP SINKS IN FIVE MINUTES

Vessel Which Was 47 Years Old Was on Regular San Francisco-Los Angeles Passenger Run.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 30.—A check this afternoon indicated that 68 persons lost their lives in the sinking of the passenger steamer San Juan at 11:55 p. m. last night off Pigeon Point, Cal., 50 miles from here. The oil tanker C. S. T. Dodd, which collided with the San Juan, brought 31 survivors to port, and the Coast Guard cutter Shawnee reported by radio that it had 11 survivors aboard. The San Juan carried 110 persons, including 65 passengers.

The accident occurred in a heavy fog.

Five hours out of San Francisco the San Juan collided with the Dodd.

"We are struck," the radio operator of the San Juan flashed. The radio equipment did not function long. In five minutes the top deck was awash and the 47-year-old ship disappeared beneath the waves, creating a whirlpool which was thought to have drawn many persons down with it.

No Time to Launch Boats.

There was no time to launch lifeboats, passengers and crew were trapped.

The Dodd, being only slightly damaged, went into action as a rescue ship almost immediately. Lifeboats were lowered from the tanker and they plowed through the mass of wreckage and oil, guided by the screams of the drowning and the flashing lights of their own ship as well as the beacons of the coastwise schooner Munami, which had been following the San Juan and which soon arrived.

Within three hours, the Dodd had picked up 27 persons. The Munami rescued 10. Some of the survivors aboard the Dodd were so badly injured that the tanker left for San Francisco where they could get hospital service. Ambulances were assembled here to meet the Dodd. Doctors and nurses boarded the Dodd before it reached its pier here, to care for the injured.

The Munami stood by, hoping to pick up stragglers from the San Juan but 12 hours after the sinking she had not reported any success.

The Munami stood by, hoping to cess. Some of the survivors it is supposed were transferred to the Shawnee.

Orders for an investigation of the disaster were issued by John K. Bulger, United States District Supervising Engineer. Officers of the Los Angeles & San Francisco Navigation Co., owners of the San Juan, declared the tanker had struck the passenger vessel amidship.

Story of the Rescue.

"The distress signal following the collision between the vessels was heard by our radio operator at 11:55 p. m.," said Capt. Gus Illig of the Munami in a radio report. "We were just three miles astern of the San Juan. In response to the signals we proceeded with all possible speed to the scene of the collision.

"As the Munami pierced through the fog to the scene, we found the San Juan sinking. We drifted in wreckage of the steamer for two hours. The wreckage was so thick it was difficult to pull a life boat through it.

"Oil from the lost ship which coated the water also added to the rescue difficulties.

"Life boats of the Munami were in the water at 12:30 a. m. and darted about as best they could in response to cries of passengers and

Passengers Found Heavy Clothing Superfluous—Lowest Temperature Recorded Was 42 Degress Fahrenheit.

By SIR HUBERT WILKINS,
(Copyright, 1929.)

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 30.—"We have learned nothing new," said Dr. Eckener and his officers, when asked if the just completed round-the-world Zeppelin trip had given them any valuable new information.

They are certain that the Zeppelin could, barring accidents, go on doing this sort of thing every day every week. When once in the air, flying is flying, they said.

"There is nothing new that we have learned about the engines on this trip," said the Chief Engineer. "We learned something on the trip before and the remedy seems to have been effective."

But the whole crew, including the commander, realize that from many points of view they have profited greatly. We have actually experienced the conditions of Northern Siberia and learned about the behavior and conditions of cloud masses of the Pacific Ocean. There were times when we were in danger and at the take-off from Los Angeles, I think, the consensus of opinion is that it was the narrowest squeak an airship ever had to escape with so little damage.

Pleasant, Comfortable, Safe.

It is impossible for me to tell how long- distance lighter-than-air travel appeals to the non-flying man but from my point of view, it is the most pleasant, comfortable, convenient, safe, and reliable method of covering distance.

Let me briefly outline our experience.

We planned to set out from America, look over the Atlantic, Ireland, England, France, Switzerland, Germany, Austria, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Russia, Arctic Siberia, Japan, the Pacific, Alaska, Mexico and 13 states of the United States, and to do it as quickly as possible.

We took special conveyances, arranged for our comfort and convenience, from our homes or hotels to the starting point. The start was rather embarrassing—Kleig lights and movietones and that sort of thing—but these are the annoyances that pioneers must always endure. Our luggage was placed on board. We climbed in and established ourselves in what was to be our home, a comfortable one, even luxurious.

The ship had been gassed and fueled. It was walked out to the starting point. A take-off at night in aircraft is always a thrill and the start on this flight was no exception.

New York by Night From Air.

Before swinging out over the ocean we turned to circle the most wonderful city in the world. The electric-light-jeweled windows of New York's skyscrapers, the flash of the Great White Way are sights hard to rival.

Easily over the roughest seas, we slid over France, startling the early rising laborers and the night-life seekers on the way home in Paris. The slender Eiffel Tower thrust up a finger and bid us welcome. In six hours less than three days we had spanned the Atlantic, covered a vast stretch of land and then like a homing bird, the Zeppelin circled Friedrichshafen, its home port, and settled down.

Meanwhile, passengers rested comfortably. The only difference between the comforts afforded on our aerial home and the Kurgarten Hotel was that at the hotel we had marble baths and an unlimited quantity of water to waste.

At dawn on Tuesday, Aug. 15, we again took our places at the windows and watched the great dirigible slip from its resting place. The shortest distance to our goal, Tokio, was 6500 miles.

Eastward Across Europe.

Over Germany's rich fields we flew, and on to the lean waste land of Northern Poland. We skirted Lithuania and Lettland, countries cold, wet and flat with sour soil.

Winds then took a hand in governing our movements and in order to reap advantage of them, we saw very little of the small Eastern European states.

A gorgeous sunset ushered us into Russia, and to satisfy the modern rulers of that land, we shaped a course for Moscow. But to keep friendly with the wind we had to change our course and pass up Moscow. We swung far north of the city and approached Wologda.

From Wologda we sped on hoping to be able to go northward and look down on the shores of the Arctic Ocean, but again the wind dictated otherwise. We went some distance north but had to keep to a comparatively southern track in order to make better speed. We missed the thrill of crossing the Arctic Circle.

The Ural Mountains soon stood before us. We had crossed them just beneath the sixtieth degree of latitude. The Urals are not high, neither do they offer much obstruction, but they are a line of demarcation between very different types of land. Thickly afforested areas now stripped of their most valuable timber, tried to hide their shame in smoke from burning undergrowth.

Weird and Eerie Siberia.

When the smoke belt was passed we found ourselves above a weird, eerie stretch of country. It was soggy and sodden with water. Almost still-watered rivers meandered through the swamps, twisting, turning.

Blocks of stunted timber on low ridges separated marshes. Shallow lakes, probably never before been seen by man, supported only waterbirds and fat mudfish, which splashed and darted startled by our shadow.

The great river Ob was crossed and then the three-branched Yenesei, its water flowing outward to the Arctic Ocean. The Yenesei's two great tributaries, the Untiere Tunguska and the Stienige Tunguska—the stony and the sandy—are great and magnificent.

We followed the erratic course of the Sandy, which cut through some high undulating hills.

It was in these hills that we encountered and battled with the first violent storm we had experienced on the trip. Rain squalls beat down all about us but most of them were dodged by going round them.

Then we sped on through the night to Yakutsk, the greatest city in Northern Siberia. It is situated on the historic Lena River. The Caire lingers in the mind of those who have traveled Africa. The dropping of a wreath on the grave yard by the German officers in memory of their fallen in the World War struck a deep note of human sympathy.

Through Siberian Mountains.

Yakutsk is a place that will always call us. We crossed the broad Lena River. It was miles wide even at that distance from its outlet. We turned more southerly to cross Siberia's high mountains and meet the sea. The mountains were much higher than charted. The ship was light and Dr. Eckener decided to thread his way through rather than go over the top. The hour's crossing looked extremely dangerous but, with much ballast in hand and a capable and responsive crew, it would have been possible to shoot above the level of the mountains to certain safety. We swooped down to the sea. The crossing of Siberia was over.

The most amazing thing to nearly everybody was the agreeable temperature experienced. Some put on overcoats on occasions but the heavy underwear, thick sweaters and fleece-lined sleeping bags were superfluous. The lowest temperature recorded was only 42 degrees Fahrenheit.

All through the night we approached the coast of Japan we fought wind squalls and rainstorms. Tokio spilled out like hot bake batter, except that in its center a few high buildings showed. The Palace was the fulfillment of one's dream of quaint Japan, but few other houses and only a few shrines and temples had that convex curled trait in architecture we normally associate with the country.

Yokohama looked interesting from an altitude. We would have been quite prepared to find it so upon the ground. In fact a few of our passengers did visit the city and their descriptions were enthusiastic.

The Landing at Tokio.

The little brown sailors did their job to perfection as we landed. Then came a thrilling ride to Tokio. Absorbed equally in pictures and light brown dust we enjoyed and did not complain about the other. A hurried hot bath and a dinner combined with breakfast at 2 a. m. rounded off an exciting day. Some passengers slept late but others wandered through bazars, peeked into shops and visited native restaurants.

Japanese food is quite tolerable. Personally, I enjoyed it, but I have lived on native foods in many countries so my taste is cosmopolitan. Our time in Tokio was taken with dinners, Geisha dancing, weird music, strange acting in theaters and tea in the Emperor's palace and gardens of the embassy.

Soon we entered the hangar, climbed aboard and were carried out when a crunching and bumping warned us that something had gone wrong. There were a few apprehensive moments and we began to scuttle backwards to the shed.

The rear engine nacelle was damaged. The hangar was hot and full of sandflies and mosquitoes; it would never do to try and rest there so we hurried back to Tokio. There was time for little else except bathe, get the laundry done, sleep and eat a hurried meal before we flocked to the hangar once again.

A Storm Off Tokio.

This time the weather held us back until late next afternoon. Then after luncheon at a native restaurant, we took our customary places, watched the Japanese boys walk the big ship to the field and give her a lift. After a few minutes' flight we were over water, then in a cloud and soon a storm, the most violent we had experienced on the trip.

It was only of short duration but the ship pitched steeply downwards, rose and pitched again. The passengers rushed to the saloon to watch from the windows. The storm was almost at the edge of a fog through which we ploughed for almost 40 hours. Sometimes we would get on top of it. It was never thick, about 4000 feet at the most. We could always see the water from about 600 feet.

For many hours we flew right in the thickest of the fog, especially to get the benefit of the cooler air and stronger wind. The wind was strong behind us and continued that way almost all the way across the Pacific ocean.

We saw no ship until we were almost in sight of land. The vigilant watch I kept when the ocean could be seen was rewarded by a sight of only three whales, a sun fish, a couple other large fish and some frightened sea birds.

At San Francisco, one plane arrived to escort us, then another, then a half a dozen and a dozen more—we could never agree as to how many there were.

Then the houses of 'Frisco became distinguishable. Some of us had lived there and we eagerly pointed out our old resorts. Then the airship swung over Berkeley and Oakland. Crossing the bay we sailed high over the city's residential quarter and turned and followed the coast line.

Good Job of Mooring.

Then Los Angeles hove into view. The waiting sailors and marines did their work of mooring the ship as if it were an everyday occurrence and in a few minutes we were on our way to a hotel.

A rather quiet day was spent at Los Angeles. Everybody thought that someone else would be entertaining the passengers and crew. The consequence was that several passengers wandered about the hotel corridors expressing a desire to go back to the Zeppelin and have a drink. Later was the banquet.

While some of the diners still sipped their coffee the passengers had to slip from the table and hurry to the field. Dr. Eckener had decided to leave as soon as refueling was completed.

The ground crew unhitched the air liner and we thought we were about to ascend. But, for some reason or other the ship was carried about from one place on the field or another. It hunted like a great albatross for a suitable place for a take-off.

The runway selected was not long enough for the heavy load the machine carried, but that was not the fault of the field. The air conditions were rather new to the airship commanders. The passengers, some of them expecting trouble, were in the saloon. We could feel the ship laboring and twice felt the fin astern dragging on the ground. The whole ship trembled with vibration. The bow was rising slowly but the tail hung low and as we approached the telegraph wires one among us said: "Now watch the wires and posts go down."

A Crash Averted.

We thought we would crash down with them. But by some miracle we seemed to have cleared and, still laboring, climbed slowly up and over the water.

So far we have no information from the ground crew and very little knowledge of what the take-off looked like from the ground. The fin seems to be operating in the same manner as before, although we can see that the framework is bent and the fabric loose.

Dr. Eckener continued onward to New York. The course because of the height of the mountains was by no means a straight one.

We went far south until sometimes we were over Mexico and sometimes over the States. But eventually we swung on a course to the northwest and came out over Kansas City.

At Chicago the whistles were deafening to us in the air. By the time we left Chicago we had the wind in our favor. It was not long before we were over Detroit. We circled the town but could not stay long. A hurried trip brought us over the lake and to Cleveland. Here after circling the town we went back to have a look at the Los Angeles and experienced a peculiar sight—the Los Angeles and the Graf Zeppelin, one flying over the other. Then to Lakehurst—our goal.

DR. ECKENER'S NAME IS NOT AMONG THOSE IN GERMAN "WHO'S WHO"

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.

THE name of Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the world-circling Graf Zeppelin, is not in the German "Who's Who." Dr. O. C. Keip, German Charge d'Affairs, made the discovery while trying to check a date in his countryman's record.

Through the great volume, "Wer Ist's" he thumbed in vain. "I am not surprised," he commented. "It is certainly characteristic of Dr. Eckener's modesty not to have his name in "Who's Who."

AUTO CRASH VICTIM

MRS. MATHILDA HOLZER,

ESCAPED CONVICT GETS LIFE DAY AFTER KILLING WOMAN

Inmate of Road Gang Had Beaten Victim With Beer Bottle and Plank.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Aug. 30.—Hugh C. Brunette, 30 years old, escaped inmate of a prison road camp, who confessed killing Mrs. Lulu Ellsworth at her farm home near here yesterday, was sentenced to life imprisonment upon his arraignment in Circuit Court today. Brunette, who beat Mrs. Ellsworth to death while ransacking the house for clothing and money, was captured at Michigan City, Ind., late yesterday while on his way to Chicago.

The woman's body was found in the basement of her home late yesterday. She had been beaten with a beer bottle and a plank. The slayer had stolen $50 from Mrs. Ellsworth's pocketbook, exchanged his clothes for others found in the house and then washed his hands at the kitchen sink. His own clothes he soaked in kerosene and burned in the back yard. He also had thrown into the fire a pair of scissors with which the woman was believed to have inflicted a deep wound on his cheek. It was this wound which led to Brunette's capture in Michigan City, Ind., where he had been traced from a Kalamazoo hospital, where he had received treatment for his wound. When arrested Brunette had purchased a railroad ticket for Chicago.

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Aug. 30. Mrs. Regina Jorka, 80 years old, walked 16 miles to attend a funeral yesterday. A friend failed to give her a promised ride.

WOMAN IS KILLED, AUTO HIT BY CAR CHASING SPEEDER

Mrs. Mathilda Holzer, 38, Victim of Collision With Arthur Gockel, Deputy Constable.

Mrs. Mathilda Holzer, 38 years old, 3509A North Florissant avenue, was killed, and her husband, Frank J., 45, a department manager for Ely & Walker Dry Goods Co., was seriously injured when their machine and a car driven by Arthur Gockel, a Deputy Constable of Carondelet Township, collided at Gravois and Tesson Ferry roads, Affton, at 6:30 p. m., yesterday.

Gockel, who was appointed a Deputy Constable two weeks ago, was driving at high speed east on Gravois in pursuit of a speeder and crashed head on into the Holzer car, which was making a left turn into Tesson Ferry road. The latter machine was demolished and Holzer and his wife were thrown out. They were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital where Mrs. Holzer died of a fractured skull an hour later. Holzer has six fractured ribs and a broken shoulder.

A Catholic priest got in the machine in which Holzer and his wife were placed following the accident and accompanied them to the hospital. The priest's name was not learned.

Mrs. Holzer was employed as a forewoman by the Ely & Walker Co.

Three Children Hurt by Autos; One Has Fractured Skull.

Jean McKelvey, 2, 3174 South Compton avenue, suffered a fractured skull at 6:30 p. m. yesterday when struck in front of her home by an automobile driven by Duncan Meek, 2121 Withnell avenue.

Harry Forsythe, 2954 Cass avenue, suffered a fractured skull and a spinal injury when struck by a machine driven by John Cosgrove, 314 South Fourth street, after alighting from a street car at Easton avenue and Francis street.

Dolores Bowman, 6, 3810 Gravois avenue, was playing on the sidewalk in front of 3619 Bamberger avenue when Mrs. Julia Rapp of that address, lost control of her automobile, which ran over the curb and struck the child, who suffered cuts and bruises.

Frank Emery, Struck by Auto Monday, Dies of Injuries.

The funeral of Frank Emery, 72, 5922 Plymouth avenue, who died yesterday at St. Mary's Hospital of injuries suffered Monday when he was struck by an automobile, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow from an undertaker's establishment at 2707 North Grand boulevard with burial in Valhalla Cemetery.

Emery was struck on Olive Street road near Hafner place by an automobile driven my Hans Michelson, a painting contractor of Overland. He is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Mayme Webster, Mrs. Ruby Meyer, Mrs. Carrie Hagemeyer, Mrs. Juanita Watts and Miss Viva Emery, and a son, Clarence Emery.

Following an inquest at Clayton today a Coroner's jury returned an open verdict with a recommendation that further investigation be made by the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

Michelson, who is under $5000 bond, testified that Emery walked into the side of his car.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS FOR PROHIBITION REFERENDUM

Resolution Adopted After Motion Urging Repeal Is Placed on the Table.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 30.—In the most fiery session of its thirtieth annual encampment, the Veterans of Foreign Wars today went on record as favoring a national referendum on the eighteenth amendment after tabling a resolution asking for an out-and-out repeal.

Hezekiah N. Duff of Lansing, Mich., senior vice commander, today was unanimously elected Commander in Chief of the veterans. Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, retired sought as a candidate, refused to oppose Commander Duff.

crew struggling in the water and wreckage."

The survivors rescued by the Munami are: Mr. and Mrs. Fellows, Los Angeles; Rosa Perez Rulfo, San Franscisco; Harry Wade, Lee Leaters, Alex Sowie, W. H. Jano, V. Garcia, James Gallager, J. K. Hamilton.

A heavy fog had hung over the Pigeon Point area since yesterday afternoon.

Survivors aboard the Dodd said they saw Capt. Adolph F. Asplund go down with his ship.

Ralph Hillsman, second radio operator of the San Juan, who was picked by the Dodd, reported that the collision occurred while he was asleep. He sprang from his berth and ran to the main deck. The deck was sinking beneath the surface, and he was hurled into the sea.

Hillsman said no life boats had been launched from the San Juan.

A list of passengers made public here by C. D. Nichols, an officer of the Los Angeles & San Francisco Navigation Co., owners of the San Juan, contained only 38 names. Nichols explained, however, that the list was incomplete because those who bought tickets at the last minute were not represented.

The San Juan, a double-decker of iron construction, 235 feet long and of 3500 gross tons, had sailed the seas for 47 years. She was one of the oldest ships on the Pacific, having first taken to the water shortly after the disappearance of the swift packets that carried the frontiers of trade to the Pacific coast.

After a short period of service with the Pacific Mail steamship line in the South American trade, the San Juan was sold to the James K. Nelson Co. and soon thereafter became the property of the Los Angeles & San Francisco Navigation Co. She plied between the two California cities for years, featuring low passenger fares.

The Dodd is a 7000-ton ship.

FALL FATAL TO PAINTER

LADY HEATH, HURT IN PLANE CRASH, REGAINS SENSES

Good Chance for Recovery Barring Complications—Operated On in Cleveland Hospital.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—Lady Mary Heath, noted Irish aviatrix, recovered consciousness this morning, after an operation last night for a fractured skull and other injuries suffered yesterday when she crashed in her plane here through the roof of a factory.

Possibility of infection still kept her in danger, according to attaches at the hospital. She showed improvement immediately after the operation was performed, however, and her chances of complete recovery were reported good provided she escapes infection.

The noted aviatrix, who made the most daring flights of all woman entrants in the National Air Races Tuesday, was landing at a test field yesterday. She was flying with Erwin Kirk, 26 years old, a Cleveland mechanic. As she neared the edge of the field the plane struck guy wires to a chimney. The plane was jerked sharply around and plunged through the roof.

Kirk suffered the loss of a finger and minor injuries. He admitted that he was hazy about the crash, but said Lady Mary was flying full power. At the field, however, it was said she had turned off the motor to repeat practice landings for the "dead stick" contest. The event was called off.

Lady Mary's most noted flight was from Croydon Field, England, to Cape Town, Africa, by way of Bagdad two years ago.

WIDOW CONTESTS PROVISIONS OF WILL OF S. J. GAVIN

Wants Control of Trust Fund and of Education of Their Children.

A suit to contest the will of Stephen J. Gavin, former St. Louis County lumber dealer, who died in California last February, was filed at Clayton today by his widow, Mrs. Nancy Martin Gavin.

Gavin's will, disposing of an estate estimated at $300,000, bequeathed one-third to Mrs. Gavin and placed the remainder in trust for the benefit of their three minor daughters, Nancy, Mary and Julia. Gavin's sisters, Miss Katherine A. Gavin and Miss Julia A. E. Gavin, of the Forest Park Hotel, were appointed trustees, to have charge of the education of the children.

Mrs. Gavin seeks control of the trust fund and the direction of the education of the children.

OBJECTION TO FORD'S MOVING COURTHOUSE FROM LINCOLN

Judge Says Removal of Building Where President Practiced Law Would Make it Empty Shell.

LINCOLN, Ill., Aug. 30.—Henry Ford, who recently purchased the old Postville courthouse here in which Abraham Lincoln once practiced law, was met with opposition in his efforts to remove the building to Dearborn, Mich. Lincoln originally was known as Postville.

Judge Lawrence B. Stringer has written to Ford's representative that Lincoln appreciated what Ford was doing to preserve American historical relics but that to remove the courthouse from its present environment would turn it into an "empty shell." He declared that Postville was equally distant from Lincoln's tomb and from Old Salem, and that the "building's authenticity would dissipate should it be removed from its historic setting and local associations."

ORANGE STREET CAR TICKETS FOR NEXT WEEK PUT ON SALE

The new 90-cent commutation street car tickets good for 12 rides in the week beginning Monday were placed on sale today on cars and at certain downtown stores and banks. They are orange instead of white as were the tickets issued for this week and they bear the large outlined letter B in place of the A on the week's tickets. The color and letter are to be changed each week.

Tickets issued for the current week are still on sale and will be good the rest of this week. Comparative figures on receipts under the new fare schedule, with adult passengers without tickets paying 10 cents, are not yet available.

ALGIERS HOUSE COLLAPSES, 28 BODIES ARE RECOVER

By the Associated Press

ALGIERS, Alegria, Aug. 30.—Twenty-eight bodies had been recovered tonight from the ruins of an old house on the water front, which collapsed early this morning.

The total death list is likely to be more than 50. Most of the dead were Italian fishermen, but several were women and children.

The collapse occurred so early that most of the occupants were in bed. Thirty families lived in the house.

SHE and Tay Garnett, director, are to be married at Hollywood next Tuesday. They filed their intentions to wed at Los Angeles yesterday. Miss Miller, born and reared in St. Louis, is 25 years old and is one of the few screen stars who has never been married. Garnett is 35 years old. Miss Miller, the daughter of Oscar W. Miller, member of an old St. Louis family, was educated here at Visitation Convent and Mary Institute and began her screen career as an extra girl in 1921.

CLEANING PLANT BOMBED; SUSPECT TRACED BY AUTO

Shop at 1704 North Garrison Damaged—Explosive Dropped Into Basement.

A bomb was thrown through a coal chute into the basement boiler room of the Metropolitan Cleaning Co., 1704 North Garrison avenue, the explosion wrecking doors and windows, at 1 a. m. today. Damage was estimated at approximately $400.

An hour later police arrested a man as he drove up to his home, on the basis of a license number furnished by a private watchman, John A. Lithegner. Last Friday the watchman observed several men drive near the cleaning plant. One man, carrying a package, approached closer on foot, but ran to the car on seeing the watchman, who obtained the license number as the auto was driven away. The watchman was unable to identify the man arrested for investigation.

Herman Schemme, 4487A Kingshighway Northeast, owner of the cleaning plant, said he had no trouble of any sort and knew of no motive for the bombing.

Two sticks of dynamite, without caps and fuse, were thrown on the front porch of Schemme's home in June, 1928. There was no explosion. Schemme is a member of the executive board of the St. Louis Cleaners' and Dyers' Association, and also is active in the North St. Louis Boosters.

Today's bombing was the first since the new anti-bombing law went into effect Tuesday, making the crime punishable by death where life is endangered.

26 IN SUBMARINE FREE THEMSELVES BY 'LUNG'

Invention Receives First Test by Class Working Under Actual Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 30.—Twenty-six officers and blue packets came out of the afterhatch of the submerged submarine S-3 this morning and shot to safety through the waters of the Thames River with the use of the navy's new invention, the "lung" in the first instruction class working under actual conditions at the submarine base.

Lieut. C. B. Momsen, inventor of the lung, and one or two others previously had used the apparatus with success, first at Key West, Fla., and then at the submarine base. A class had practiced with the lung at the swimming pool of the local Y. M. C. A., but today marked the first series of escapes from a submerged submarine of an entire class of officers and sailors under actual conditions.

The features of the "lung" consist of a rubber breathing bag, the capacity of which is about equal to that of the lungs and bronchial tract; a metal container containing soda lime for the absorption of carbon dioxide and valves to control the directional flow of inhaled and exhaled air and to prevent the entrance of air when the apparatus is not in use. In use the 'lung" rests on the body about the height of the lungs and functions as a sort of third lung. Attached to it is a small buoy, provided with a line spaced by cork markers at which stops are made to prevent too quick change of presure. Once at the surface the "lung" acts as a life preserver.

The S-4, the submarine which laid in 17 fathoms, 102 feet of water, off Provincetown, Mass., from Dec. 17 until March 17 of last year, with a loss of an entire crew, was submerged at its pier at the submarine base with the class of officers and crew aboard.

The men had entered the submarine in bathing suits, many of them wearing only trunks. The weather was not so good as it might have been and the water was reported very chilly.

A buoy was placed near the after end of the submersible to mark the approximate area when the men would be likely to appear on the surface of the water.

Communication was immediately established with the boat by means of a battery list phone, a practically new apparatus, by which a person, standing on the pier, talked clearly with all compartments of the submerged submarine during the operations.

an advancement of mankind in general and an advancement of civilization.

"The attitude of the people of New York can be looked upon as symbolical of the attitude of the entire American people. It is my greatest hope that the spirit of cooperation of the people of our two countries, which worked out so wonderfully in this case, may also be applied to all other causes of human progress.

Coming across the bay on the Macon, Eckener was presented to John Henry Mears, co-holder of the record for speed around the world until the Graf's flight. Mears and C. B. D. Collyer, who has since been killed in an airplane accident, circled the globe in something over 23 days last year, using planes over land and steamers across the Atlantic and Pacific. Dr. Eckener, who drove the Graf around the world in less than 22 days, shook Mears' hand and expressed regret that the Mears-Collyer record had to be surpassed.

After the City Hall reception the Eckener party was driven up Broadway and across Times Square to Hotel Astor for luncheon.

The Graf Zeppelin is being prepared in the navy hangar at Lakehurst, N. J., for its flight to its home port, Friedrichshafen, Germany. Repairs to a crumpled rudder and replenishing supplies of fuel and lifting gas will be completed by 8 p. m. tomorrow, engineers estimated, making possible a departure at midnight, or early Sunday.

The airship will make the journey in charge of Capt. Ernest A. Lehmann, while Eckener remains in the United States for about two weeks to attend to business in New York and visit the Goodyear Zeppelin Co.'s plant at Akron, O.

On the flight from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen, Lehmann will have chance to better the world circling record of 21 days 7 hours and 34 minutes established in the flight from Lakehurst to Lakehurst. The airship left Friedrichshafen for Tokio at 9:34 a. m., Central Standard time, Aug. 14. If it arrives back at the German airport before 6:03 p. m., Wednesday, it will have beaten the Lakehurst record.

To Carry 12 Passengers.

When the dirigible leaves it will carry three new passengers, seven who will have completed a flight around the world when they reach Friedrichshafen, and two who already have been around the world in the ship and made an extra Atlantic flight.

The new passengers are John W. Schnitzler of Froid, Mont., president of the First National Bank of Froid, and member of the Republican National Committee; and R. A. L. Bogan of Syracuse, N. Y., general manager of a bread company, and Edward P. Frost of New York.

Joachim Rickard of Boston and Madrid and Heinz von Eschwege-Lichbert, German news representative, came from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst in the airship, made the world flight, and now will return to Germany in it.

The seven who boarded the ship at Friedrichshafen and who will complete their circling of the globe when the ship gets back there are: H. von Perkheimer, German photographer; H. Geisenheimer and Gustav Kauder, German news men; Leo Gerville-Reache, French news man; Dr. S. C. Seilkopf of the Hamburg Weather Bureau; Lieutenant-Colonel Chistoph Iselin of the Swiss Army, and Dr. J. Megias, physician to the King of Spain.

The Navy Department announced in Washington today that it had accepted the invitation of Eckener to send three naval officers as passengers on the dirigible for the return flight to Germany.

The three officers who will make the trip are Lieutenant-Commander H. V. Wiley, who is commanding officer of the naval dirigible Los Angeles; Lieutenant-Commander J. M. Shoemaker, head of the aeronautical engine service of the Navy, and Lieut. Roland G. Mayer, of the Navy Construction Corps, at present attached to the Los Angeles.

William B. Leeds, one of the Zeppelin's passengers, is at his home at Oyster Bay today. He described the thrill it gave him to take the steering wheel of the Zeppelin for two hours over the Pacific.

"Of course, it was a great thrill for me to stand there at the wheel and realize that I was steering the great airship part of the time it was making such a wonderful record for itself," he said.

Dr. Eckener announced today that he will leave Sunday afternoon for Cleveland for a visit to the national air races and Aeronautical Exposition and following that would go to Akron, O., to confer with officers of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Co. He plans to return to New York within two weeks and sail for Germany.

Masters' Chess Tourney At Downtown Y. M. C. A.

Eleven Men in Major and 28 in Minor Competition, Represent Several States.

Eleven men from the austere altitudes of chess—thinking great thoughts about knights and pawns in an atmosphere as rarified, on heights as lonely, as those reserved for experts on contract bridge—are competing daily at the Downtown Y. M. C. A.

This is the Masters' tournament of the Western Chess Association Congress. One of those 11 men in 11 days will have won the title, for this year, of master of them all. That is not to mention a prize of $200.

In addition, 28 players clash nightly in a minor tournament. It is not so very minor, at that, for two of the 28 have played in major tournaments in other years. And there will be a problem-solving tournament next Monday, and a "rapid-transit" tournament whenever time can be found for it. Much time is not required, since each player will be limited to 10 seconds for each move.

That is a lot faster than most of them are moving now. The average game requires five hours. Chess clocks sit on each table. As each player moves he pushes a button, which stops his clock and starts his opponent's. Each must complete 40 moves before his clock registers two hours and a half.

Some games run longer than 40 moves, and then players have to come back in the evening. Play begins at 2 p. m., and 40 moves must be made by 7 p. m. Since the congress began, Monday, not an evening has passed without some players having to wind up the game after dinner.

The place is appropriate, where "Why I Thought That Move Would Win" is as popular a topic of locker-room chatter as, elsewhere, is "Why I Dubbed That Putt." The nine visitors—champions of Chicago, Memphis, Washington, New York State, Pennsylvania and so on—are staying at the Y. M. C. A. as guests of the Y Chess Club.

It may be observed that chess is something like golf, in that one does not need to be a Westerner to play in the Western Chess Association Congress. The two St. Louisans in the masters' tournament are J. A. Anderson, district champion, and E. J. Roesch, former champion.

No speeches stultify this Congress. It is all chess. Four tournaments might be expected to be enough chess for anyone. But not for the masters. Before and after tournament play the tables are busy. At one or another table gather three or four men with knotted brows, devising means of thwarting so-and-so's trap or the strategy laid down in What's-his-name's book. Sometimes a player takes a board and plays out a whole famous game from notes, while a half-dozen hang over his chair and tell him, variously, the perfect move.

There was just one interlude. The Congress paused yesterday to elect as president L. T. Maenner, president of the Missouri Pacific St. Louis Chess Club; vice president, Dr. A. E. West, champion of Kalamazoo and director of the master's tournament, and secretary-treasurer, W. A. Krauska, secretary and treasurer of the Missouri Pacific St. Louis club.

REPARATIONS PACT FORMALLY SIGNED AT HAGUE PARLEY

Bank Question Remains.

The question of where the Bank for International Settlements is to be located and exactly what its functions and powers are to be is still outstanding. The details of its organization will be left to a commission of experts whose recommendations probably will lead to another diplomatic struggle.

Belgian and British troops will begin withdrawing from the Rhineland immediately and expect to be out of German territory within three months from the time the Young plan goes into operation.

French troops will start leaving the third occupied zone, centering around the bridgehead at Mainz, as soon as the German and French Parliaments have ratified the agreement reached at The Hague. They will be moved as rapidly as conditions permit.

As the French and Belgians are shouldering half of the cost of the continued occupation and must have their last soldier off German soil by June 30 at the latest, anyhow, there is a financial incentive for them to hasten evacuation.

The French will get out of the second Rhineland zone, of which Coblenz is the center, along with the British and Belgians, this fall, according to the understanding reached today between Aristide Briand, Prime Minister of France, and the German delegation.

Stresemann, whose delicate health is much worse following the heated discussions of the past few days, appeared happy last night. He has come out of the conference better than he anticipated, with the Young plan ready to go into operation day after tomorrow, Sept. 1, and with only the additional burden of half the Rhineland evacuation costs after that date.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting German Finance Minister Hilferding waived the Reich's claim, long under arbitration, to $8,337,000, in connection with the occupation of the first Rhineland zone. But Germany retains several million marks set aside for occupation funds to meet damage claims.

The German delegates were highly pleased with a decision yesterday to abandon the long discussed plan of setting up an interallied commission in the Rhineland after evacuation. The only body which will be charged with seeing that the Rhineland remains demilitarized, in accordance with the provision of the Treaty of Versailles, will be the arbitration board created by the Locarno treaties. This leaves the way open to a direct appeal to the League of Nations, which remains the supreme control body.

Dr. Wirth insisted that Germany should have the same right to appeal to the Council of the League as the other signatories of the Treaty of Versailles. Briand readily acknowledged the justice of this contention.

As a result, Germany henceforth is in the same position as France or Belgium to call attention to any warlike preparations in the Rhine region. This is more than a mere satisfaction of German prestige, as it might easily lead to an appeal to the League against fortifications in France and Belgium near the German border.

Orders for British Withdrawal Beginning Sept. 14.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The British War Office issued orders this afternoon for withdrawal of British troops from the Rhineland beginning Sept. 14. The British evacuation will be spread over three months, thus making it probable that the last British soldier will be out of the Rhineland by New Year's day if not by Christmas.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Premier Briand of France arrived in Paris this evening on his return from The Hague reparations conference and was received with manifestations of sympathy by both the people and the press.

Despite the additional sacrifices France was obliged to make toward a compromise on the Young plan at The Hague, general satisfaction was expressed in French public opinion with the results of the conference.

The influential afternoon newspaper Le Temps summed up the feelings of the average Frenchman by saying "some other nation may emerge from The Hague conference a little richer materially, but France comes out greater morally."

MOVIE THEATERS DROP ABOUT 300 MUSICIANS

Orchestras to Be Displaced by Talkies in Many Amusement Places.

About 300 union musicians employed at local movie houses will be out of work beginning tomorrow and Sunday as a result of insistence by theater operators on cutting down the size of their orchestras.

In the face of competition from synchronized film music, union officials have sought to hold jobs for union members by requiring a minimum number of musicians to be employed at theaters, depending on seating capacity. Most theater owners have refused to renew this provision in the annual working agreement which expires Sunday.

Among the theaters whose orchestra pits will be empty are Loew's, Missouri, Ambassador and Fox. Only the St. Louis Theater, among the larger houses, has agreed to the union's terms.

Beginning tomorrow, Loew's will be on a picture basis, without orchestra or organist. David Pesetzki, the orchestra director, is moving to a new theater in Brooklyn.

The St. Louis Amusement Co., a Skouras organization employing 80 musicians at 24 neighborhood houses, of which 18 are now open, wants to engage musicians "when needed and as needed," which the union frowns upon.

The Missouri and Ambassador Theaters, operated by the Skouras Super-Theater Corporation, are willing to engage full orchestras, but the union will not supply them unless the neighborhood houses also employ orchestras. Spokesmen for the Ambassador and Missouri declare they should not be penalized for the stand of a separate corporation, but the union contends both corporations are Skouras enterprises and will receive the same treatment.

The Fox Theater is willing to sign for an orchestra of 20 men, but not for 30 as the union demands.

Guy M. Dailey, head of the Musicians' Mutual Benefit Association, has announced the musicans would not strike, but might be locked out. Whether the union will picket the theaters without musicians has not been disclosed. It is not expected union stage hands and film operators will leave their jobs inasmuch as non-union musicians will not be hired.

The average salary of musicians in neighborhood theaters is $48 a week, while those in the larger houses receive between $80 and $120 a week, including overtime.

800 Musicians in Chicago Movie Houses to Strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. — A strike order effective Sunday midnight, to 800 musicians employed in Chicago motion picture houses, was issued today by James C. Petrillo, president of the Federation of Musicians. "We are going to stay out until the public demands return to the theaters of real music," he said.

KELKER STILL WORKING ON TROLLEY FRANCHISE

Transportation Engineer Favors Use of Busses Mainly for Express Service.

R. F. Kelker Jr., consulting engineer for the city's Transportation Survey Commission was in St. Louis today to discuss with the City Counselor's office some of the provisions of the proposed "service-at-cost" street car franchise that was repudiated by Mayor Miller in 1927. He wished to learn the reasons underlying certain provisions, particularly that relating to the rate of return to be agreed upon for the company. He said as he understood it that provision might have required a change in the rate of fare every six months.

Kelker said that owing to the pressing nature of his work on a transportation plan for the Chicago City Council he had not yet drafted a new contract ordinance franchise as he was instructed to do by the Transportation Survey Commission at its July meeting. In connection with this draft he was to analyze the old service-at-cost franchise.

Kelker said he would soon make a report to the commission on his survey of bus transportation in St. Louis and he indicated he would favor the use of busses mainly for express service. A previous report that Kelker made on street car rerouting, proposing extensive changes for speeding up service, particularly in the downtown section, has been before the commission since last May without action.

EX-GOV. SMITH GETS $50,000-A-YEAR JOB

Will Direct Erection of 80-Story Skyscraper on Old Waldorf Site.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—An 80-story skyscraper, nearly 200 feet taller than any existing building in Manhattan, is to be built on the site of the old Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, it is announced by Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, who will head the construction company.

The structure, the Empire State Building, will be nearly 1000 feet high and will cost $60,000,000, Smith said. The building is to be completed in about a year and a half. It will have a 200-foot frontage on Fifth avenue and 425 feet on both Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets.

As president of the Empire State Building Corporation, the former Governor will be in executive control of construction and maintenance and operation of the building. The New York World quotes a friend of Smith as saying he will probably receive $50,000 a year and a stock interest as salary.

In Smith's last business post as chairman of the board of the United States Trucking Co. he received $50,000 a year. He gave up that position to resume the Governorship at $10,000 a year.

The directorate of the building corporation includes John J. Raskob, financier and chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

SECOND ATTACK WITH ACID ON WOMAN IN THREE WEEKSS

For the second time this month, Mrs. Patricia Dorsey, 23 years old, wife of Police Sergeant Girard Dorsey, last night reported acid was thrown at her.

Mrs. Dorsey, who lives at 1932 Clara avenue, said she had just placed a milk bottle on the porch, at midnight, and closed the screen door when a man ran up on the porch and threw the contents of a bottle through the screen, the acid burning her left eye and arm. The man escaped. She was treated at St. Luke's Hospital.

On Aug. 8 Mrs. Dorsey, asleep at her home, was awakened, she reported, when someone cut a window screen and hurled acid into the room, burning her and damaging furniture.

Mrs. Dorsey said she was unable to account for the acid throwing. Sergt. Dorsey is attached to the Laclede Avenue Police Station, on night duty this month. He refused to talk to reporters today.

GREEN LINE IN AURORA CAUSED BY NITROGEN

(Copyright, 1929.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 30.—A mystery as to why a certain green color appeared in the light of the Aurora Borealis, or Northern Lights, was dispelled here at the closing session of the American Astronomical Society.

Since Tuesday morning, the American astronomers have gathered with their Canadian colleagues at the Dominion observatory, and have heard reports on the size of the universe, nebulae, the nature of various kinds of stars and eclipses of the sun, but their attention was turned from these more distant objects to an astronomical phenomenon that happens in the earth's own atmosphere when they heard a paper sent in by Dr. V. M. Slipper and L. A. Sommer of the Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz.

In July, 1928, there was a brilliant display of the Northern Lights visible from Flagstaff. Dr. Slipper and his associate analyzed its illumination by passing its light through the prisms of a spectroscope and obtaining a record of the spectrum on a photographic plate.

Green Line in Spectrum.

This spectrum showed the usual bright lines that had previously been observed in the Auroral spectrum. They included a green one with a wave length of 5577. Light waves, like radio waves, are identified by their wave length. Only instead of meters the astronomer uses the Angstrom unit, about one 250-millionth of an inch.

The line at 5577 was shown a few years ago by Dr. J. C. McClennan of the University of Toronto to be caused by a transition taking place in atoms of oxygen high in the earth's atmosphere when excited by electrons from the sun. Near this line, however, was another, at wave length 5206. Nobody had ever noticed this before, so it seemed that one mystery had been solved only to have a new one appear.

The two Arizona astronomers now report that atoms of nitrogen undergoing a transition from one state to another are the cause. In fact, light showing this line can be obtained experimentally in the laboratory by electrical discharges in mixtures of ordinary nitrogen and inert gasses such as helium and neon.

They summarized their work as follows:

"The investigations up to the present time have shown that in the high atmosphere, where the Aurora originates, nitrogen molecules, nitrogen moleculeions and oxygen atoms are present during an aurora display. The observation of the line 5206 and its interpretation as atomic nitrogen indicates the presence of the nitrogen atoms at the time of such a display."

Longest Possible Eclipse.

Hopes that any of the astronomers might have had of some day seeing a total eclipse of the sun lasting eight minutes were blasted when Mrs. Isabel Lewis of the United States Naval Observatory at Washington reported on her investigation of how long an eclipse may last. She was led to this investigation, she said by finding a conflict of authorities. One old figure, but still given, was 7 minutes and 58 seconds: another 7 minutes and 40 seconds, while Simon Newcomb, a famous American astronomer, said that 7 minutes and 30 seconds was the maximum possible duration.

A total eclipse of the sun occurs when the moon's shadow touches the surface of the earth. The shadow is a cone, so it is largest where it hits the earth when the moon is nearest the earth and the sun farthest away. This condition must exist, and the shadow must fall on the equator, so that the observer may travel fastest with the shadow, in order to save the longest possible eclipse, said Mrs. Lewis. Then the sun will be obscured for 7 minutes and 31 seconds, she discovered.

As the combination of sun farthest away and the moon nearest now occurs about two weeks after th beginning of summer, an eclipse of longest possible duration would have to occur about July 4. Many centuries will elapse before one occurs under the proper conditions for its maximum duration.

Owing to one of the motions of the solar system, the necessary conditions are changing for the worse. Five thousand years from now, said Mrs. Lewis, the moon will be nearest in September, and then an eclipse can last only seven minutes and 14 seconds.

Following the paper, Prof. E. W. Brown of Yale, president of the society, suggested that a longer eclipse could be obtained by observing from an airplane and following the shadow as rapidly as possible.

Officers Elected.

At the election of officers, Dr. R. G. Aitken, in charge of the Lick Observatory of the University of California, was elected vice president, and Dr. E. S. King of the Harvard Observatory, and Dr. F. H. Seares, assistant director of the Mount Wilson Observatory at Pasadena, Cal., were made members of the society's council. Dr. S. A. Mitchell of the University of Virginia will represent the society in the National Research Council, Dr. R. S. Dugan of Princeton University, secretary, and Dr. Benjamin Boss of the Dudley Observatory, Albany, N. Y., treasurer, were re-elected.

It was decided to hold the next meeting at the end of December at the Harvard Observatory, Cambridge, Mass.

HOOVER TO STUDY FARM SITUATION OVER WEEK-END

President Invites Head of Board, Secretary Hyde and Others to Summer Camp for Conference.

PARTY OF 21 WILL LEAVE LATE TODAY

Bean Growers of Michigan Appeal to Legge for Aid on Co-Operative Marketing Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—President Hoover will have an opportunity this week-end to go into the activities and policies of the new Federal Farm Board.

Chairman Legge, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and four other members of the board were among the guests invited to accompany him late today to his Rapidan River camp in Virginia. They were in a position to give him not only an account of their efforts to date, but a first-hand report on the plans worked out at Chicago this week for organization of the Farmers' National Grain Marketing Corporation.

The President's list of guests for the week-end was one of the longest of the summer, numbering 21 and including a number of young folks. It included Mrs. Jean Large, sister of Mrs. Hoover, her daughter Janet, and her son, Delano; John Beaver White of Philadelphia, and his daughter, Joan; Mark Sullivan, newspaper writer, and his daughter, Narcissa; Walter Newton, the President's secretary and Lieutenant-Commander Joel T. Boone, White House physician.

Will Leave Tomorrow.

The President left by automobile today for his camp and will remain over Labor Day returning to the Capital early Tuesday.

Suggestions for aiding growers of small beans, among them one that a separate stabilization corporation be set up to maintain a reasonable price to the farmer, were taken under advisement by the Farm Board.

The board announced, after a committee of Michigan State officials and growers had appeared, that it had been advised of various problems affecting the marketing of the product. Peter Lennon, State Senator and farmer, of Lennon, Mich., said he had suggested a stabilization corporation which would prevent price-breaking.

"With $50,000,000, such a corporation could buy all the beans produced in the country, at $5 a bushel," Lennon said, "and with its assistance the farmer could combat price-breaking."

Crop Reduced by Drouth.

The Michigan committee, headed by H. E. Powell, Commissioner of Agriculture, told the board that about 60 per cent of the white navy beans produced in the United States were gorwn in Michigan. He said this year's crop—almost cut in half by drouth—will not exceed 5,000,000 bushels.

Sylvan L. Olson, vice president and director of the Montana Bean Growers' Association, and Joe Plummer, president of the Colorado Growers' Association, informed the board of the progress their organizations have made. Plummer, the board announced, made application for supplemental loans to help grower members.

C. C. Teague of the board, recognized the need of the growers for assistance, adding, however, that the conferences were chiefly for the purpose of exchanging information. Giving assurance that Western wheat operatives have not rejected the proposed stabilization corporation, Teague said, that operatives in Chicago discussed a plan which was only tentative. He said the board members here had not been advised of a refusal of the operatives to accept the plan.

Hearing on Wheat Grading at Kansas City Closes.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 30.—Representatives of the Wichita, St. Joseph and Hutchinson grain markets have completed the last of a series of hearings here before George R. Hyslop, of the Oregon State Agricultural College, and E. C. Parker, of the Department of Agriculture.

Hyslop and Parker were sent here by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde to investigate criticism by grain, milling and farm interests in this territory of the Board of Review stationed in Chicago by the Department of Agriculture to interpret and enforce the Federal grain grading laws.

Conferences over alleged unfair practices of establishing quality of grain have been held here the last three days. At the meeting yesterday a resolution urging the Department to continue enforcement of the present grading law was favored unanimously.

Roads Remove Embargo on Grain in Northwest.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 30.—All grain carrying railroads in the Northwest had removed the embargo against oats, rye and barley shipments, announced last week for Minneapolis, St. Paul, Duluth and Superior, in fear that heavy grain shipments would tie up terminals.

RULES ARKANSAS DEMOCRATS MAY BAR NEGRO VOTERS

Chancellor Finds No Violation of State or Federal Law in Primary Act.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug 30.—The Democratic party of Arkansas violates no constitutional provision in barring Negroes from primary elections, Chancellor Dodge ruled here in dismissing the suit filed in Pulaski Chancery Court last November by Negroes who sought the privilege of voting in the Democratic primary.

Negroes are excluded from Democratic primaries by the rule that the Democratic party of Arkansas shall consist of eligible and legally qualified white electors only.

Chancellor Dodge said any political party may determine for itself who shall be eligible for membership. The court order of the Chancellor dissolved the temporary injunction issued by Circuit Judge Mann, acting in the absence of Chancellor Dodge Nov. 26, which restrained officials in the Democratic city primary from drawing the color line. Only a few Negroes voted and their votes were segregated pending outcome of the suit.

Escaped Convict Held for Murder.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 30—Charged with attacking and killing a Kalamazoo woman after his escape from a convict road gang, a man who said he was Hugh Burnett, 37 years old, of Chicago was arrested by Michigan City police on a train bound for Chicago yesterday. After escaping from the gang, authorities here were told, Burnett, also known as Hugh Reed followed Lulu Ellsworth of Kalamazoo into the basement of her home there, beat her with a club and attacked her. She died later at a hospital.

BIG MUSIC HOUSE FAILS, BLAMES 'CANNED AGE'

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The music publishing house of Waterson, Berlin & Snyder Co., filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday, alleging that "the rise of radio, with the development of talking and singing pictures and the use of theme songs" were large factors in the firm's downfall.

"It's canned age," said Henry Waterson Sr., president of the firm, "and whether it's beans or music, it must be canned."

In the bankruptcy petition Waterson said the company was unable to pay its debts and could not file schedules of assets and liabilities because of the inability to determine immediately the amount of liabilities or the value of assets.

"First it was the phonograph," said Waterson. "Then, as if that were not enough, along came the radio with more trouble, and then the talkie, with the free distribution of theme songs and such like.

"It used to be that little Nellie learned to play the piano or something at the age of 10 or younger. And she kept right on playing, wearing out a lot of sheet music. But now—well, nobody thinks about a piano when they turn a knob and get music out of the air."

Irving Berlin, composer of many popular hits, used to be a member of the firm, but he withdrew some time ago to start another company.

MRS. EUGENE A. FUSZ DIES IN LOS ANGELES

Succumbs to Heart Disease on Returning From Alaska; Will Be Buried in St. Louis.

Mrs. Eliza Ring Fusz, wife of Eugene A. Fusz, retired lead mine operator, died in Los Angeles of heart disease yesterday when returning from a vacation in Alaska. Her husband and three unmarried children were with her. She was 51 years old and lived at 6925 Delmar boulevard.

Mrs. Fusz left here with her family two months ago. She was a native St. Louisan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Ring, who survive her. Besides her parents and husband, she is survived by a son, Louis J. Fusz, and four daughters, Helen and Josephine Desloge Fusz, Mrs. J. Cabell Breckinridge and Mrs. John Brownrigg.

The body will be brought to St. Louis for burial.

Sorry He Couldn't Show Graf to Ford in Daylight

Eckener Comments, However, "We Must Go Some Places at Night"—A Story of a Baron in Shorts.

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

(Copyright, 1929.)

LAKEHURST, N. J., Aug. 30.—We are home. The earth has been circumnavigated by an airship. We have circle the globe in 21 days, 5 hours and 35 minutes. Of that time, four days were spent in Friedrichshafen, three and three-quarter days in Japan and 19 hours in Los Angeles, approximately nine days. Our actual time in the air was 11 days and 23 hours.

We made a new record for crossing the Atlantic of 42 hours and 42 minutes from New York to Lizard Light at Land's End, England, and from New York to Paris in 47 hours. We blazed the first air lane from Western Europe to the easternmost rim of Asia, through Russia and bleak Siberia, and made the first nonstop flight from Berlin to Tokio in 93 hours and 49 minutes.

We crossed two oceans and three continents. We conquered the Pacific. We flew from Tokio to San Francisco through storm and fog in 68 hours and a few minutes.

We had but one small accident, which caused only slight delay. We also had a cross-hangar wind in Japan, preventing us from leaving the dock for 19 hours.

This is exclusive of the one extra day in Friedrichshafen for tightening the cover of the Graf.

The lessons learned on this pioneer air voyage will prove invaluable to the science of aviation. The impetus that it will give long-distance and trans-oceanic air travel will be immeasurable.

Worse Than Bermuda Storm.

We passed through two storms, one in Siberia, the other off the coast of Japan. The latter was shorter but more severe than the storm encountered by the Graf off the Bermudas on the first trans-Atlantic flight last October.

We were in real danger but once and that in the takeoff at Los Angeles. Then accident was, indeed, very near. The lesson will, I am confident, be heeded and may in the future save many lives.

Our most impressive moments were, I believe, in Siberia when three times the Graf was encircled by a wonderful rainbow and once by a strange halo or aureola and the sunset as we saw it from above San Francisco.

Our roughest flying we had from Yuma to El Paso along the Mexican border through Arizona and New Mexico. In fact, the entire flight from Los Angeles to New York was shaky, in sharp contrast to the smoothness of flying over the Atlantic and Pacific.

Chicago gave us the greatest demonstration. Dr. Eckener, standing on the bridge, was right when he remarked to me, "Such a demonstration we have not me with anywhere." Detroit and Cleveland gave us warm welcomes. Dr. Eckener expressed regret that we could not have seen those cities, and they us, in daytime. "I should like to have had Henry Ford see us by daylight," he added. "But then, somewhere we must be at night."

Who Were Aboard.

Fifteen passengers—14 men and one woman, Lady Drummond Hay—made the flight round the globe. Several others went only as far as Friedrichshafen, three from Friedrichshafen to Tokio and three others from Tokio to Los Angeles. Of the 15, six boarded the Graf at Friedrichshafen and their world flight will not be completed until they arrive there next week. Only nine started and finished at Lakehurst. There were four passengers who paid $9000 each for the privilege of being on the Graf Zeppelin on the world flight. They are W. B. Leeds and Joachim Rickard, Americans; Dr. Geronimo Megias of Madrid and Lieutenant-Colonel Christof Iselin of Switzerland. The other passengers were writers, photographers and two American naval officers, Lieutenant-Commander Charles E. Rosendahl and Lieut. Jack C. Richardson.

It was rather a surprise to me that during these three weeks of pioneering in the air there was an utter absence of friction. Even on round-the-world steamer tours, where there is ample space for privacy and decks for exercise, I often have observed how people weary of one another.

Each pasesnger had a personality peculiar to himself. They all were "characters." No others would go on such a romantic adventure. Leeds was perhaps the most popular of all. His geniality, limitless good humor and pleasing manners contributed much to keeping everybody in good spirits.

Richard, who was let on the Graf only an hour before the start of the flight, was an excellent fellow.

A Baron in Shorts.

Baron von Perckhammer, photographer, insisted on wearing shorts, trousers that come only half way between hips and knees, and a funny little jacket, even when we were near the Arctic circle in Siberia. Another sobriquet given him was "Our Yodeler." When Dr. Eckener complained that he couldn't sleep because Perckhammer shook the entire ship with his feet, there was an end to the Tyrolean dancing.

Christof Iselin, an ex-lieutenant colonel of the Swiss Army apparently about 70 years old, was the most indefatigable notetaker and amateur photographer on board. From morning till night he photographed and made notes or marked maps. He must have enough data to write an encyclopedia.

resentative of France, brought a touch of Paris into our circle with polish and suavity of manner. Capt. Sir Hubert Wilkins was one of the most outstanding characters in our party. "I like those quiet eyes of his," remarked Dr. Eckener to me one day.

Commander Rosendahl and Lieut. Richardson were ever on the alert for anything new in ship meteorological conditions or navigation. Robert Hartmann, silent, quiet working cameraman, won the admiration of all by his diligence. He took more than 51,000 feet of film.

Few Slightly Ill.

We had no serious illness. Perckhammer collapsed from a weak heart and an ulcerated tooth while we were flying at high altitude through Southern New Mexico. Von Eschwege, a German journalist, suffered a severe sprain of the ankle just before our departure from Kasumigaura and was kept to his cabin several days. Lieut. Richardson kept to his bed for two days with a violent cold. I got a bad infection of both hands and wrists on our last day in Japan. Dr. Eckener had a severe attack of ptomaine poisoning which developed within a few hours after leaving Japan and he is not quite himself yet.

I entered upon this flight with confidence but with no illusions. The performance of the Graf was, however, something of a surprise not alone to me. The fear entertained by many when we set out on this trip was brought home to me just a few hours before our start from Friedrichshafen on the second leg. A friend pressed his revolver and a box of cartridges in one of my hands and a flat little box into the other with the remark, "as a last resort". When I opened the package I found a hypodermic needle and enough morphine to kill an elephant.

The flight, the first of its kind in history, has demonstrated the superiority of the airship for trans-oceanic air traffic over the biggest and best airplanes developed up to the present.

Only once were we entirely out of touch with the world and that was for ten hours in central Northern Siberia. Power for wireless and for the kitchen must be furnished by small motors and not be dependent upon the automatic generators that the Graf has, which are driven by the wind and their revolutions dependent upon the speed of the ship. Invariably they are weakest when power is needed most.

Without doubt the most outstanding need that the flight disclosed is a thoroughly organized international weather service for trans-oceanic air traffic. That is an imperative necessity.

Meteorologists Needed.

The second need is a highly trained and experienced meteorologist on every airship who will have charge of the details of the weather reports and be adviser to the Captain. The presence of Dr. Heinrich Seilkopf, as meteorologist, proved a happy experiment. He took all the details of the weather reports, made up the weather charts and helped to analyze them. He watched the temperature and barometer, measured the atmosphere for density and moisture and proved that there is an important post on every airship for an expert meteorologist.

Commercial airports for airships and improving docking facilities with mechanical means and not wholly dependent upon manpower are among other necessities. It is not likely that either the American or Japanese navy can always place its airship docks at the disposal of commercial airships, except for emergencies. The most ideal short airship route is the run from California to Honolulu where the present steamer time of five days could be cut down to 28 or 32 hours.

EIGHT BENNETT RACE PILOTS DESIGNATED

France Is Yet to Name Entries for International Event Sept. 28.

Pilots of eight of the ten balloons which will soar away from St. Louis, Sept. 28, in the annual international balloon race, were made public today by the National Aeronautic Association. France, with two balloons entered, has until next Monday to file the names of its pilots with the association.

The eight pilots so far designated are:

Argentina — D. Eduardo Bradley.

Denmark — Lieut. Georg Schenstrom.

Goodyear Rubber Co.—Ward T. Van Orman.

Through consecutive victories at Geneva, Switzerland, in 1922, and at Brussels in 1923 and 1924, De Muyter gained permanent possession of the first Gordon Bennett trophy for his country. De Muyter also won the race in 1920, starting from Birmingham, Ala.

Capt. Kepner, winner of last year's event, held at Detroit, is a former Scott Field officer. Capt. Kepner is a veteran of the Marine Corps and the navy, as well as the army. He has served in the Philippines and was wounded three times while with the Third Division in France. While at Scott Field Capt. Kepner brought the RS-1, the largest semirigid dirigible in the United States (since dismantled), safely home from Texas through a terrific storm, which tossed the big ship about and ripped away a portion of the fabric covering.

This year's race will be the eighteenth Gordon Bennett competition, and will be the third time the race has been held from St. Louis. The first international race was held at Paris in 1906. St. Louis, through the efforts of Maj. Albert Bond Lambert and the late "Bud" Dozier, obtained the event the following year and also in 1910. The United States has won the event seven times, Belgium has five victories, Germany two, Switzerland two, and France one.

The official referee at this year's event will be Allan R. Hawley, New York sportsman, who was the winner in 1910 with a flight of 1172 miles from St. Louis to Northern Quebec. Hawley and his aid, Augustus Post, were lost in the wilds of Canada for 10 days and a reward of $9000 was offered by St. Louis sponsors of the event for their rescue. They made their way to a trading post and were brought out of the woods on a raft. Maj. Lambert, an official of that race, is head of the technical committee in charge of the event this year.

The race will be held from the gas tanks at 8900 South Broadway. The first contestant probably will take off about 4 p. m. There will be no admission charge to the grounds.

UNIONS AGAIN BAR LABOR DAY PROGRAM

Workers Decide on "Shade Tree" Holiday Instead of Parade or Picnic.

For the second consecutive year union workers and their families will spend Labor day "beneath a shade tree" instead of milling about at a picnic or parading over hot asphalt.

The "shade tree" idea originated in 1923, when the Building Trades Council, an organization of 18,000 building mechanics, voted to withdraw from the annual demonstration. The Central Trades and Labor Union, the other large labor group, kept the old-fashioned parade going for a year longer, then abandoned the parade in favor of an all-day picnic. Hard roads leading to shady spots proved a bigger attraction to the union man with an automobile, however, and the picnics suffered from lack of attendance.

Two years ago an automobile parade, sponsored by co-operative labor business concerns, preceded the picnic, but failed to increase the attendance. Last year it was proposed that the unions hold a motorized parade but the proposal was voted down on the ground that such a demonstration might embarrass committees seeking wage increases from employers.

An effort to revive the parade was made in the Central Trades organization this year, but was voted down and St. Louisans will observe Monday quietly. Banks, stock and grain exchanges, city offices, the postoffice and all substations will be closed. Downtown department stores will be open until 1 p. m.

INDICTED FOR BOAT COLLISION

Three Pilots Charged With Manslaughter for Fatal Crash.

By the Associated Press.

SPIRIT LAKE, Ia., Aug. 30.—Frank Long, Jasper Alexander and Harold Yarnes, pilots of the speedboats which collided on Lake Okoboji July 28, with a loss of nine lives, were indicted yesterday for manslaughter.

John and Milo Hartman, owners of the Zipper, which Yarnes piloted, were indicted jointly on charges on conspiracy to destroy the property and the business of the owners of the Miss Thriller, the other boat. Each defendant is under $2500 bond for trial at the September term of court here.

Los Angeles at Night Amazing Sight, Says Lady Drummond Hay

By LADY DRUMMOND HAY,
(Copyright, 1929.)

LAKEHURST, Aug. 30.—Here we are, home again. I was asked at once what most impressed me during the whole world flight and I did not hesitate to answer "San Francisco at sunset and Los Angeles by night."

I never thought there could be so many airplanes in one city as in San Francisco. The air was full of them. It looked as if some one had disturbed a giant dragon flies nest. In the rays of the setting sun they gleamed and glittered like living winged creatures. Even Dr. Eckener and the officers on the bridge were impressed. I was on the bridge all the time during the flight over San Francisco.

At first every one expressed himself surprised at the size of the city. Karl H. Von Wiegand told all about the great fire and earthquake which impressed them still more.

Until the last sign of the mainland had vanished into the twilight, until the Golden Gate was lost in shadows, every one aboard the Zeppelin stood at the windows.

Los Angeles at Night.

Los Angeles by night, in sharp contrast, amazed us by the art of nature. The night was dark enough to hide the outlines of the city buildings and to show off in all their brilliance the millions of lights set with almost geometrical precision.

None of us, not even the Americans aboard, really knew how large an area Los Angeles covers. Almost comical from our height was the luminous impression made by automobiles. Looking down we would not see the actual automobile, but only the headlights and their rays.

I was amazed at the way in which the field had been kept clear for us. I did think it funny though, that the customs officer demanded to examine so minutely the baggage which was only being taken to the hotel for a few hours.

He even made me open my old portable typewriter case. I was asked when I bought my camera with the name of the well known American maker right on it. The officer had to poke over my valise containing afternoon and evening dress and had such grave suspicions of my face lotion that he opened the bottle and sniffed hard.

Met Screen Stars.

Alexander P. Moore whom I met first years ago when he was in Madrid as American Ambassador invited us all to luncheon. Directly after that, I called on Miss Marion Davies, at Santa Monica, and had a long chat. Mary Pickford came in later.

The great event was Hearst's banquet, at which I sat between Gov. Young and Moore.

Back on the airship field at Los Angeles we still had quite a job to catch it. Karl Von Wiegand and myself were nearly left behind. In all the running about and scramble we were separated from the rest of the passengers, mostly because I had gone across the field to speak over a microphone. I started to run for it, and a young soldier barred the way with his flag pole or whatever it was that he had in his hand.

The soldier would not let us pass. "I have heard enough about passenger," he said. "Everyone says he is a passenger." Von Wiegand said, "I will show you my passport—you can see who I am. I had my passport along, too, in my bag, and offered to show mine. Karl said, "I will show you my ticket for the Zeppelin journey."

He would not look at our passports, he would not listen to us, he would not listen to the people in the crowd, who very kindliy cried out, "We know you, it's Lady Drummond Hay—let her through." Finally we rushed the line of soldiers, thanks to many gentlemen in the crowd. There was little or no opposition from the other guard.

Once aboard, there was plenty to do until nearly 4 a. m., Von Wiegand and myself writing our stories. Commander Rosendahl was up and one or two others, but most of them went to bed. Most all the passengers slept late. In the evening most of them slipped away again to bed as early as they could. No water to wash with at night, any more than there was in the morning. I got a little from Steward Kubis.

Everyone had stacks of letters and packages to open. They included everything from little gifts to prayers, requests for everything from autographs to free rides in the Zeppelin. Some were in English, others in German and foreign languages.

The funniest thing that happened Wednesday was in passing over Kansas City. Whistles blowing, crowds waiving, airplanes escorting us, we all stood at the windows but kept them shut. Only Beckhammer, with his swollen cheek heavily tied up in one of the washing towels, as if he had been terribly mauled in some fight, leaned out.

"Pull him in," cried Eckener from the luncheon table, "they will think we have fights on board the Zeppelin."

Kansas City, Davenport, Chicago, Detroit, gave us amazing welcomes. Amazing cities for those who have never seen an American city from the air.

Chicago was tremendous. It took our breath away and nearly set discord loose in the airship arguing for and against the fact that it was the greatest reception we have had anywhere, where we have not come down. I never saw such masses of people on skyscrapers before. They seemed so near to us. We could see each individual on the tall roofs, the colors of the girls' dresses, and whether they were waving or not. The massed automobiles along the river front looked like swarms of black beetles. The whistles blew sirens shrieked. We heard it all, we were deeply touched.

I was most interested in seeing Detroit from the air—in fact to see it all. Cleveland provided the real excitement, however, for the "Los Angeles" was there. We peered through the darkness to make out its graceful silver form and then found that we were passing right over it. Wild Indians could hardly have made more noise than Rosendahl and Lieut. Richardson at the familiar sight.

We all pressed eagerly to the window to see the famous airship—which has been the subject of much of Rosendahl's and Richardson's conversation.

Early in the morning, it seems just like a dream.

WIDOW TO DEFEND HUSBAND'S REPUTATION AS DOCTOR

Will Answer Damage Suit Charges That Missourian Was Unskillful Physician.

LA PLATA, Mo., Aug. 30.—Defending the medical reputation of her husband, Dr. David Howerton, deceased, Mrs. Mattie Howerton, herself a licensed physician, will appear as defendant at the September term of court at La Plata, Sept. 2, in the case of Alice Cowles vs. David Howerton. The case came here on change of venue from Knox County.

The plaintiff states that she was thrown from a buggy when a horse became frightened, that her hip was dislocated and that Dr. David Howerton unskillfully treated the dislocation and she was rendered permanently lame.

OLIVE AND LOCUST, FROM NINTH TO TENTH

Matches Well Preserved Also Picked Up in Slum Gullion Cache in Colorado.

By the Associated Press.

LAKE CITY, Colo., Aug. 30.—Forgotten tales of murder have been revived here with the discovery in Dead Man's Gulch of a weapon, said to have been the one used by Alfred Packer, convicted slayer of five miners in 1873. The weapon, in good condition, and some matches, perfectly preserved, were found in a cache near Slum Gullion.

Packer, who died last year, spent nearly 40 years in prison, charged with the murder of five miners, with whom he ventured into the hills. The party went against the advice of Indians.

Six weeks later, Packer appeared at the Los Pinas Indian Agency near here with a large sum of money and told he had been deserted by his five comrades. Later Indians found the bodies of the five men, and discovered what were said to be unmistakable signs of cannibalism in connection with the murder.

Packer was arrested. Around his trial the issue of cannibalism hung, but never was definitely proven. On the witness stand Packer said that one of the men had died and the other four had eaten his body and then died themselves. Throughout his long imprisonment he denied the killings.

SENATE TO KEEP WAY CLEAR FOR TARIFF DEBATE

Effort to Be Made to Pass Measure Before Regular Session Opens in December.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Intent on getting the tariff bill through the Senate before the regular session begins in December, administration leaders are planning to hold up any other national business except that of an emergency nature. It is possible, for this reason, that President Hoover may withhold all but the most necessary nominations until the December session.

However, the names of the newly organized Farm Board appointees will be transmitted to the Senate next week. While confirmation of the board is anticipated, there are indications of some trouble. Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, has served notice he wants the board members summoned before a Senate committee for questioning on their plans for helping wheat growers.

Hoover also has a number of diplomatic appointments to make and several judicial nominations, but in view of the attitude of Republican leaders it seems likely that he may withhold some of these. Filling the various diplomatic posts is proving a vexing problem for the President, anyway. More than 500 applications are known to be on file for the prize diplomatic assignments.

Among the pending judicial nominations is that of Albert L. Watson of Scranton, Pa., for the Middle District of Pennsylvania. Watson's nomination was not acted upon before the summer recess. Another place to be filled is that in the eighth judicial circuit, vacated by the retirement of Judge Anderson of Indiana. Judge Will Sparks of Rushville, Ind., is among those most frequently mentioned for the appointment, although the Department of Justice has been investigating the qualifications of several.

While Senator Edge of New Jersey has been determined upon as the new Ambassador to France, his nomination is not expected to be forwarded by President Hoover to the Senate until the tariff bill is disposed of. The administration wants Edge on the job for this contest, in which he is a leader by virtue of his place on the Finance Committee.

The request of Mr. Hoover for appointment of a joint congressional committee to study the feasibility of unifying the prohibition enforcement agencies is the unfinished buisness before the Senate. This ran into some difficulties at the last session and it appears likely that if opposition develops to the resolution authorizing such a committee it will be sidetracked for the tariff.

WABASH SAFETY MAN KILLED BY INTERURBAN

B. M. Carrico Run Over While Making Inspection at Oakley, Ill.

Benjamin M. Carrico, a traveling safety engineer for the Wabash Railroad, was run over and killed by an interurban car at Oakley, Ill., 10 miles east of Decatur, late yesterday.

He had gone to Oakley to check up on the whistling of engines at a crossing there on complaint that some engineers were neglecting to blow their whistles all the way to the crossing in compliance with a Wabash rule.

Witnesses of the accident told railroad executives that Carrico was standing on the interurban tracks which parallel the Wabash right-of-way while a freight train passed. Apparently the freight train made so much noise that the safety engineer did not hear the approaching electric car. He was thrown 60 feet by the impact and was run over before the car could be brought to a stop.

Mr. Carrico lived with his wife, Mrs. Emily Carrico, at 16 Normandy drive, Normandy. He was 41 years old and had worked for the Wabash 20 years.

SERVICE CAR UNION DROPS FIGHT AGAINST INSURANCE

Attorney for Drivers Announces They Have Arranged to Take Out Protection.

Service car drivers of the local union of Individual Service Car Drivers of America, operating 415 cars in St. Louis, have arranged to obtain liability insurance and will drop their fight to prevent the city from enforcing its ordinance requiring such insurance, H. J. Cantwell, attorney for the union, announced today.

Since July, 1928, members of the union have been operating without insurance under a temporary injunction. An appeal from Circuit Judge Hamilton's refusal to issue a permanent injunction, pending in Supreme Court, will be dismissed, Cantwell said.

Arrangements have been made to get policies with the Travelers and Operators Mutual Insurance Co., of Kansas City, which will cost the drivers $15 a week. The policies have a maximum liability of $5000 for any one person injured in an accident, or $10,000 for more than one injured in the same accident.

There will be no changes in service car fares, Cantwell said. The union expects business will be improved because some drivers will not carry insurance.

OFFICER AND ROBBER SUSPECT SHOT DEAD IN STREET FIGHT

Policeman, Firing From Ground After Being Struck, Kills Man He Halted.

By the Associated Press.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 30.—S. S. Rogers, 38 years old, Mecklenburg County rural policeman, and H. L. Luquire, a cotton mill worker, were killed early today in a fight at Paw Creek, 19 miles from here.

Luquire, according to Jenks Biggers, Rogers' partner, opened fire on Rogers and Biggers when they halted him as he turned his automobile in the business section of Paw Creek. Firing from the ground after he had been struck, Rogers shot Luquire through the heart.

Rogers and Biggers had been assigned to the section around Paw Creek and Hoskins to watch for burglars who have been operating there for the last week.

PUBLIC SALE OF PROPERTY OF SLAIN ST. CHARLES WOMAN

No Further Developments in Killing of Miss Pauline Duebbert on Farm.

A public sale of the household goods and personal property of Miss Pauline Duebbert who was shot and killed and her cousin, August Meyer, seriously wounded, the night of Aug. 22, will be held at her farm near Femme Osage on Sept. 9, William J. P. Hafer, Public Administrator for St. Charles County, said today.

Sheriff Grothe visited the vicinity of the farm again yesterday, but said that there were no further developments which might lead to the capture of the two men who committed the crime.

EXPLOSIVE SET OFF IN MILL

Room in North Carolina Plant, Where Strike is on, Wrecked.

By the Associated Press.

MARION, N. C. Aug. 30.—The "Opening Room" in the Clinchfield Cotton Mill here was wrecked by an explosion of dynamite early today. Deputy Sheriffs on guard at the mill, where a strike is in progress failed to catch the dynamiters.

Today's dynamiting was the first of a series of explosions and attempted dynamitings in connection with the walkout to cause any damage. No one was hurt. The Opening Room is the room in which bales of cotton are opened. Three strikers are under arrest charged with attempting to dynamite the home of the Rev. J. N. Wise, a Methodist Episcopal Church South Minister. They are Bruce Stacy, Robert Perkins and George Styles. Date for their trial has not been set. Efforts at arbitration of the difficulties between officers of the mill and members of the United Textile Workers' Union were being continued today by N. A. Townsend, executive counsel to Gov. Gardner.

300 DROWN IN PUNJAB FLOOD

Indus River Rises Rapidly; Cholera Follows Innundation.

By the Associated Press.

KARACHI, India, Aug. 30.—More than 300 persons have been drowned in the Punjab by the flood waters of the Indus. The river is rising so rapidly that 72 feet was registered last night against 63 the previous morning.

The Punjab government issued a general warning to prepare for a record flood in the Sukhur district. A cholera epidemic following the flood killed 76 persons in Larkhana and 28 in Sind in one day. At Lahore all business is suspended. Water is at least knee deep over the entire city.

Seeks Wife and Baby.

Marion Payton of Butler, Mo., has asked police to find his 18-year-old wife and her four-month-old infant, from whom he became separated 10 days ago on a trip to St. Louis. Payton became ill on the way and left the bus in which they were traveling, arranging to meet his wife later in St. Louis. When he arrived he was unable to find her.

WOMAN 'NO FORTUNE TELLER' SO JUDGE DOES SOME READING

"Student of Applied Psychology" Stumps the Court and Wins a Continuance.

Mrs. Mayme Meyers, 4185 Lindell Boulevard, appeared before Police Judge Rosecan today on charges of fortune telling and stumped the court with her defense.

"I am not a fortune teller," said Mrs. Meyers. "I am a student of applied psychology."

"What," Judge Rosecan inquired, "is applied psychology?"

"Oh, they teach it in all the better colleges," said Mrs. Meyers. "It is the unity of the body and the mind. The mechanical action of the body in conjunction with the mind."

"My psychology is really a bit foggy today," said Judge Rosecan. "I think I'll continue thi scase to Friday the thirteenth and meanwhile do some reading on the subject."

Mrs. Meyers suggested that the court read Andre Tridon's "Psychoanalysis" and King's "Rational Living." The witnesses against Mrs. Meyers were two policewomen, each having paid $1 for a reading. One of the policewomen said Mrs. Meyers told her she was gonig to move soon and that she moved the next day.

TWO KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Instructor and Student Plunge at Rapid City, S. D.

By the Associated Press.

RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 30.—W. W. Spain, assistant instructor at an aviation school, and William C. Kearns, 18 years old, student flyer of Marysville, Kan., were killed in an airplane wreck yesterday.

They spiraled from about 1500 feet and apparently leveled off about 50 feet from the ground, stalled and nosed into the ground.

MAIL FRAUD CONVICTIONS ARE REVERSED ON APPEAL

New Trial Ordered for T. J. Lane of Philadelphia and E. L. Kime of Chicago.

Convictions against Thomas J Lane of Philadeluhia and Ernest L. Kime of Chicago for using the mails to defraud and carrying sentences of four years each were reversed yesterday by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and the cases remanded for new trial.

Lane and Kime were convicted in Federal Court in November, 1927, for the sale of contracts of the International Motor Transit Co., of Iowa, to persons desirous of entering the intercity motor transportation business. Testimony at the trial was to the effect that the trucks and business promised in the contracts were never delivered.

The reversal was granted chiefly because of the fact that conversations between Postoffice Inspector Noah and a fugitive defendant. Glenn Cushman, tending to show the guilt of Kime and Lane, were admitted in testimony by the court, according to the opinion written by Circuit Judge Gardner and concurred in by Judges Stone and Booth.

JOBYNA RALSTON ARRESTED IN POLICE RAID ON SHOW

George Scarborough, Producer, Sues for $50,000 for Detention of Players in "Bad Babies."

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—Nineteen detectives who provided a spectacular finale for the comedy "Bad Babies" at a local theater here Wednesday night by arresting eight principals of the cast and the stage manager, today faced a $50,000 damage suit brought against them by George Scarborough, author-producer, on behalf of the cast.

The "Bad Babies" players were taken to jail and released later on $500 bond each. They were charged with presenting an indecent play. Last night, apparently fearless of the authorities, the actors presented the comedy and left the theater undisturbed. William J. Clarke, attorney for the players, said the arrests of his clients were made without warrants and declared he would seek a Federal Court injunction if necessary.

Those arrested were Jobyna Ralston, leading lady and motion picture actress; Arthur Rankin, Marvin Williams, Norman Peck, Elinore Flynn, Annette Westbury, Dario Shindell, actors; Frank Jennings, stage manager, and Marjorie Montgomery, an actress who was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Scarborough sought $25,000 actual damages and an equal amount for punitive damages from Detective Lieutenant Luke Lane and Charles Hoy, 12 John Does and five Jane Does, detectives.

The play had run since Aug. 19.

ACADEMY WILL NOT RE-OPEN

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., Aug. 30.—The St. Joseph's Academy here, which until a few years ago had been one of the leading Catholic schools of this section for more than 50 years, will not open this fall. Lack of patronage and need for the sisters who conducted the school elsewhere are given as reasons for the failure of the school to reopen.

It had operated as both a day and boarding school for girls and for several years offered high school courses for both boys and girls. The school was first organized in January, 1872, and the present building erected the following year.

LOAD OF SAND DUMPED ON BOY

J. K. Hutton Jr., Dug Out by Workmen at Park.

James K. Hutton Jr., 13 years old, 715 Pitzman avenue, was buried in sand yesterday afternoon while playing around sand cars in Water Works Park. The load of one car was accidentally dumped.

Workmen dug him out within a few minutes, and after treatment by a neighborhood physician he returned to his home.

DOVE SEASON IN ILLINOIS

To Open Sunday for 30 Days; Daily Limit Set at 15.

The season for hunting doves in Illinois will open Sunday for 30 days. The duck season will not begin until Sept. 24 this year and will close Jan. 7.

The daily limit on doves is 15 and the bag limit 25. The office of City Clerk Frank Taylor in East St. Louis will be open until 3 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 8 p. m. on Saturdays. The nonresident hunting license has been raised to $15.50. The resident license is $1.

HANGED MAN IS IDENTIFIED

Body Found Near Valley Park That of Thomas Curley.

The man found hanged by a belt from a tree, one mile west of Valley Park Wednesday afternoon, was identified yesterday as Thomas Curley, 22 years old, 3451 Henrietta street.

Boys Making 250-Mile Canoe Trip.

Two stars of the Soldan High School football team, Dave Cook and Edward Becker, expect to complete a 250-mile canoe trip from Niangua, the St. Louis Y. M. C. A. boys' camp near Linn Creek, Mo., by landing at the foot of Eads Bridge this afternoon. They left the camp last Saturday with their canoe, "The Spirit of Soldan." Their course followed the Niangua, Osage, Missouri and Mississippi rivers.

DETROIT LIQUOR LEAK REPORTED CUT 50 PCT.

U. S. Treasury Campaign Reduces Exports From Towns Across Border in Canada.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Treasury Department's campaign against liquor running from Canada in the Detroit area is shown, in Customs Bureau figures, made public today, to decrease the Canadian liquor exports from towns across the border by more than 50 per cent.

The liquor imports from Canadian towns opposite Detroit for June and July totaled 171,719 cases as compared with 439,101 in the same month of last year, or a drop from 1,096,752 to 429,296 gallons.

The Treasury's campaign to stop the smuggling on liquor across the border at and near Detroit was inaugurated in April, but the increased forces sent there did not get into action until May.

At once however there was a decrease from 125,359 cases exported in May of last year to 68,991 cases in May of this year. In June, the decrease was from 147,209 cases last year to 48,836 cases this year; while in July the liquor exports from points opposite the Detroit area to the United States dropped from 166,533 cases last year to 53,892 cases this year.

The decrease in liquor exportation from the Canadian cities was noticeable as soon as the border patrol began to gather at Detroit. In April of this year the exportation total was 71,430 cases while the May figures showed that 6096 gallons less on liquor was cleared for this country.

The clearance figures which were furnished by the Canadian Government, also showed that the total Canadian clearances since last March amounted to 793,761 gallons. The figures include whisky, wine, beer, brandies and all alcoholic beverages under the prohibition law.

MRS. LIFUR AND MRS. HILL TO PLAY FOR GOLF TITLE

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, and Mrs. Gregg Lifur of Los Angeles, swept into the finals of the Western Women's Golf Championship today, the former defeating Miss Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, 3 and 2, and Mrs. Lifur defeating her home town rival, Kathleen Wright, one up.

Mrs. Hill burned up the course to defeat the Buffalo star, clicking four strokes off par in the 16 holes she played. She was one up at the turn with par 40 and then rapidly forged ahead by scoring birdies on the first four holes of the homeward trip. Her rival lost her chances by poor putting.

Mrs. Lifur fought an uphill battle. Two down at the turn and three down at the eleventh, she won four holes and halved the rest of them. Her medal score was tied with her rival's at 83, but she took 41 going out and 39, three under par, coming home, whereas Miss Wright took 39 going out and 44 coming back.

Edward Keating Takes Lead in 15-Mile Swim

Clarence Ross Forced To Give Up After He Leads for Four Laps

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 30.—Edward F. Keating of New York swept into the lead in the Wrigley 15-mile marathon swim on the seventh lap today. With about three-quarters of the lap compleated, Keating spurted past the leader, Norman Ross of Chicago, and took a five-yard lead. The finish line was about two and one-half miles away.

TORONTO, Aug. 30.—After setting the pace for more than seven and one-half miles, Clarence A. Ross of Brooklyn, N. Y., surrendered first place in the Wrigley-Canadian national exhibition 15-mile swimming race today to his namesake, Norman Ross, of Chicago, on the fifth lap.

Only a few minutes after he lost the lead, Clarence Ross was forced to give up the swim and was taken from the water.

Clarence Ross was taken to the hospital almost paralyzed from the extreme cold. Setting the pace for five laps had cost him much energy and he could not withstand the chills that overcame him in his long immersion of five hours.

The Brooklyn boy was carried from the Red Cross boat to his cot, khere it was some minutes before he could speak. At first he babbled incoherently but warm drinks and hot water bottles soon brought him around.

"Just cold," he muttered between chattering teeth,

"The cramps were not bad. They came once i na while, but not bad. It was cold; too cold.

The case of Ross was the worst chill the hospital cared for during the day.

Edward F. Keating of New York City, moved into second place half way through the sixth lap and was about 300 yards behind Norman Ross, the leader.

Marvin Nelson of Fort Dodge surrendered the second place to Keating, who was swimming strongly. Ernst Vierkoetter was still fourth and Izador Sponder of Port Colborne, Ont., fifth.

George Young Forced Out.

George Young of Toronto, winner of the first Wrigley marathon swim, was taken from the water soon after the leaders had passed the five-mile mark. Young was swimming in fifth place at the time he was forced to yield to the cold waters.

Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong of Detroit, one of two women entrants, was taken out of the water shortly after Young gave up She was "frozen up," as she put it, and had cramps. Mrs. Armstrong, mother of two children, was third in the women's 10-mile swim last week.

An hour later Ruth C. Tower of Toronto, also gave up.

It was under favorable weather conditions that the 238 contestants launched themselves upon the long hard swim and the first half mile was covered at a rapid rate. The field already beginning to string out.

According to the official report, the water registered 59 degrees outside the breakwater and 60 degrees inside, appreciably warmer than the temperatures of the last two days, which necessitated two postponements.

GREGORY BEATS JEAN LAFITTE AT SARATOGA

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The Jadell Stable's Gregory, well played at 4 to 1, won the second half of the Consolation Stakes here this afternoon. His victory was due largely to the intelligent ride put up by Jockey Kurtsinger. The jockey showed good judgment by restraining Gregory off the early pace and when the field went a bit wide on the stretch turn, he rushed Gregory up on the inside. The colt responded gamely and, taking the lead, won by a length.

Jean Lafitte, favorite, finished second and Rumor got the place. Lafitte broke slowly and was taken wide all the way. He lost several lengths on the turn, but got the place by two lengths over Rumor, which was one of the early pacemakers.

The race was worth $2430 to the winner and the time was 1:14 1-5.

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Eleven 2-year-olds, the smallest field in years, were named today to go to the post tomorrow in the $70,000 Hopeful, culminating the 30-day race meeting here.

The Harry Payne Whitney entry Whichone and Boojum was established as the favorite today, being quoted at 3 to 5.

The western filly, Galaday, was the second choice in the betting at 3 to 1.

The chief drawback in the number of entries is due to the Whitney entry, Boojum and Whichone. Boojum is undefeated and regarded the best juvenile since Man o' War. Whichone although not so fast as his stablemate, is classed as one of the best stayers among the Eastern 2-year-olds.

Boojum's last trial for the Hopeful Stakes was a seven-furlong dash in 1:25, eased up. Whichone went the same distance in 1:24 4-5. Linus McAtee will have the mount on Boojum, with Ray Workman piloting Whichone.

Two Handicaps Also Carded.

In addition to the Hopeful Stakes the Saratoga Racing Association will feature the Saratoga Cup Handicap and Saratoga Steeplechase Handicap. Both races carry values of $5000 in added money

Only five distance runners will compete in the mile and three-quarters Saratoga Cup with Diavolo and Double Play carrying top weight of 126 pounds each. The other intended starters are African, from W. J. Salmon's stable; Dall, owned by W. R. Coe, and Pink Lady. The latter, a filly, will pick up 121 pounds

The Steeplechase, scheduled for two miles and a half, drew four excellent jumpers. Tommy Hitchcock's Bangle, one of the best fencers in this country, will carry the heaviest impost ever assigned a jumper by the Saratoga handicapper. The gelding will carry 170 pounds and match strides with Fair Field, Ruler and Huffy. As a result of the high weight Bangle may be withdrawn from the race.

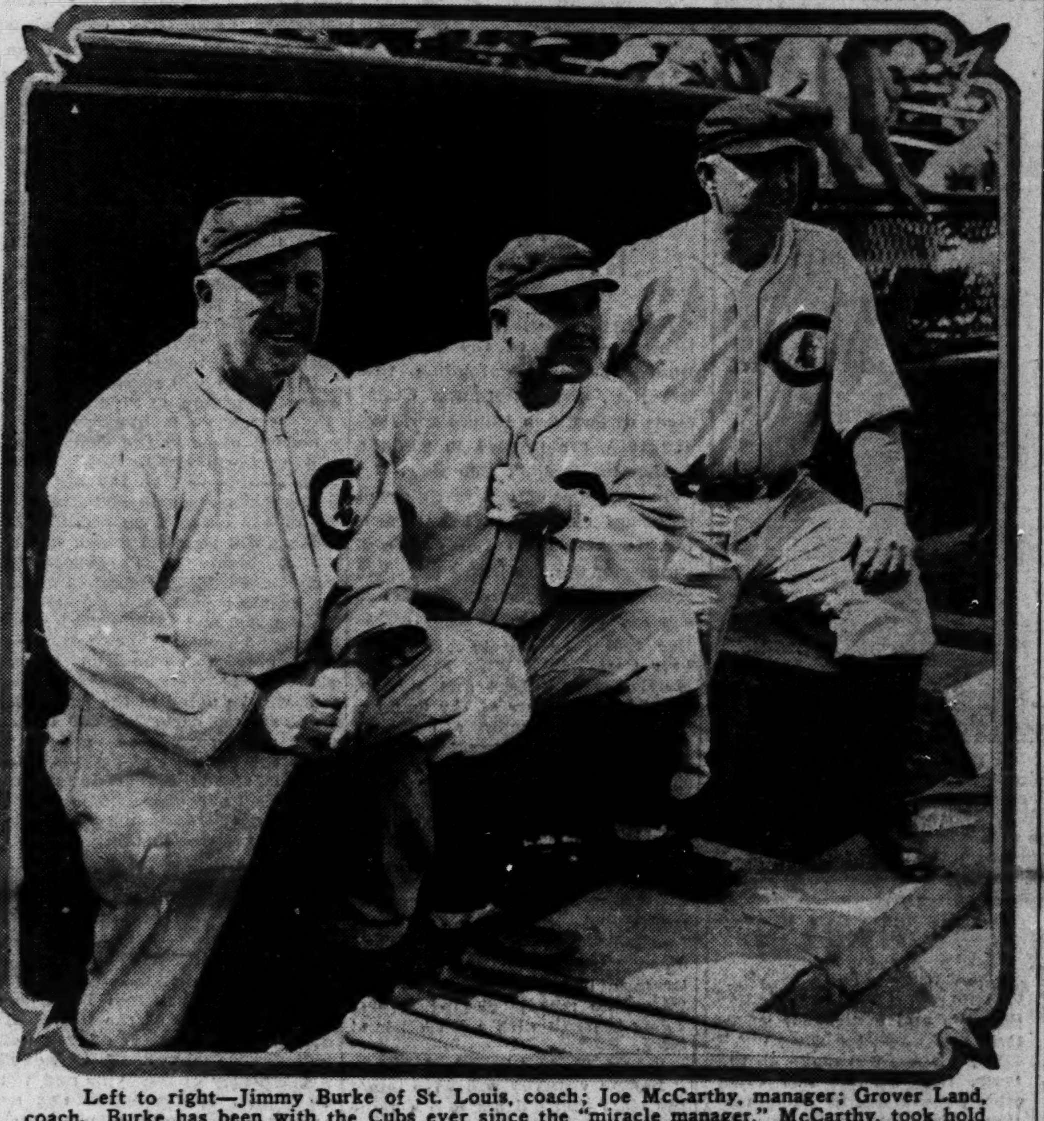
Reigh Count last season's champion 2-year old, won the 1928 Saratoga Cup for Mrs. John D. Hertz, defeating W. J. Salmon's Display with ease. Reigh Count and Display were the only thoroughbreds to face the starter.

St. Louis Represented on Cubs' Strategy Board



Left to right—Jimmy Burke of St. Louis, coach; Joe McCarthy, manager; Grover Land, coach. Burke has been with the Cubs ever since the "miracle manager," McCarthy, took hold of the club. Jimmy's experience as manager of major and minor league clubs, and as scout and coach for other teams, makes him an invaluable aid.

MISS NUTHALL AND LOTT REACH SEMIFINALS

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 30.—Miss Betty Nuthall of England and George M. Lott Jr., Chicago, today gained the semifinal round in the national mixed doubles championship tournament here by defeating Miss Sarah Palfrey of Boston and W. F. Coen Jr., Kansas City, 6—0, 6—2, on the Longwood turf courts.

Miss Palfrey and Coen were unable to get started against the more experienced team which battered down their service in both sets. During the match Lott and Coen held several thrilling rallies the points eventually going to the former, while their feminine partners stood by idle.

Mrs. D. C. Shepherd-Barrow of England and Norman Farquharson of South Africa entered the semifinal round by defeating Mrs. Franklin I. Mallory of New York and Bill Tilden, the second seeded American pair, 8—6, 6—2.

Fred Baggs and Dr. William Rosenbaum, both of New York, regained their national veterans doubles championship by defeating B. S. Blake and Channing Frothingham of Boston, 6—3, 6—4, in the final match. They defaulted last year when Irving Wright and Harry Johnson, also of Boston, won the title.

The national father and son doubles play was reduced to the finals when J. D. E. and A. W. Jones of Providence, R. I., the defending champions, defeated C. K. Shaw, senior and junior, also of Providence, 6—1, 6—1. In the other semifinals match H. H. Bassford, senior and junior, of Boston, eliminated S. P. Hayes, senior and junior, also of Boston, in an extraset match, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2.

George Lott and Johnny Doeg reached the final round of men's doubles yesterday by defeating Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter for the second time in a week. The former pair will play Berkeley Bell and Lewis N. White, the Austin, Tex., team, for the title tomorrow.

NEW RECORD IS SET IN PACING EVENT

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—For the third time in as many days records fell yesterday at the Grand Circuit race meeting here when Bernice Logan covered the mile in the first heat of the 2:12 pacing event in 2:01½. This is a new season's mark for pacing mares and ties the mark set for stallions by Better Win, Tuesday.

Bonnie M. had no great competition in winning the Chamber of Commerce $10,000 purse in straight heats, covering all three rounds in 2:03 or faster.

DAZZY VANCE VICTOR IN 10-INNING GAME

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Dazzy Vance outpitched Carl Hubbell to give the Robins a 2 to 1 victory over the Giants in a 10-inning battle today. Vance allowed but four hits, Leach's homer accounting for the only Giant run,

BROWNS' OWNER GIVES CONSENT TO FALL SERIES

President Phil De C. Ball, president of the Browns, today gave his aproval to a post-season series between his team and the Cardinals, provided the players of both clubs expressed the desire for such a competition.

"I haven't any objection to my team entering into a fall series althoug my recollection is that the last fall series we played did not make much money. If the members of the Browns want to play they have my consent. The rest will be up to the Cardinals," Mr. Ball said.

"The Browns are playing good ball right now and their games have been very interesting to watch."

Word from the Cardinal players has not been received as yet, but it is believed their attitude will be favorable.

Interest developed yesterday when Browns' players decided to challenge the Cardinals to a city championship series, after the close of the current campaign.

JACK DEMPSEY VISITS WISCONSIN SENATE

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 30.—Jack Dempsey yesterday offered to take the membership of the Wisconsin Legislature on for a whirl at fisticuffs, one at a time, and found no takers.

"I hear you have a reputation as a scrappy bunch, but I'll meet you in the ring anytime," Dempsey said. The former heavyweight champion was a guest of the State Senate during the day.

Pirate Rookies Leaders

Two rookies purchased by the Pittsburg Pirates from the Nebraska State League are leaders in their departments. Stoneham, an outfielder with McCook, paces in hitting with .431. Pitcher Bednar of the same club had compiled a record of 18 victories against three defeats.

GUY BUSH BATTED OUT; MEINE BAFFLES CHICAGO; TRAYNOR MAKES 5 HITS

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 30.—The Pittsburg Pirates defeated the league-leading Chicago Cubs this afternoon. It was the Pirates' fourth straight victory over the Cubs.

The score was 15 to 0.

The umpires were Quigley, Moran and Klem.

The game:

FIRST INNING — CUBS — McMillan flied to Flagstead. English was hit by a pitched ball and took second on a passed ball. Hornsby scratched a single toward third-base line, English taking third. Wilson hit into a double play, Clarke to Bartell to Grantham.

PIRATES—Hornsby threw out Hemsley. Clarke doubled to right center. Meine grounded to Tolston, Clarke taking third. English threw out Bartell.

THIRD — CUBS—Taylor was safe on Grantham's muff of Clarke's throw. Bush sacrificed, Hemsley to Grantham. Bartell threw out McMillan, Taylor going to third. English flied to P. Waner.

FOURTH — CUBS — Traynor threw out Hornsby. Wilson lined to Flagstead. Clarke threw out Cuyler.

PIRATES—Flagstead singled to center. Hemsley singled to left, Flagstead going to third. Clarke forced Hemsley, English to Hornsby, Flagstead scoring, and when Hornsby threw wild to first, Clarke went to second. Meine grounded to English, whose throw to McMillan to get Clarke was too late and both runners were safe. Bartell singled to center, scoring Clarke. L. Waner walked, filling the bases. P. Waner singled to center, scoring Meine and Bartell, L. Waner going to third and P. Waner to second on the throw to third. Traynor singled to center, scoring L. Waner and P. Waner. Nehf relieved Bush. Traynor was out stealing, Taylor to English. Grantham walked. Flagstead popped to Tolson. SIX RUNS.

FIFTH— CUBS — Stephenson lined to Flagstead. Tolson was out, Meine to Clarke to Grantham. Bartell threw out Taylor.

SIXTH—CUBS—Sheely went to first base for Pittsburg, replacing Grantham. Nehf fouled out to Hemsley. Meine threw out McMillan. English scratched a single to Bartell. Hornsby flied to L. Waner.

PIRATES — Traynor's fourth hit was a single to center. Sheely grounded out to Tolson, Traynor stopping at second. Flagstead singled to right, Traynor going to third. When Cuyler threw wild to the plate, Traynor scored and Flagstead stopped at third. Hemsley singled to center, scoring Flagstead. Clarke tripled to right, scoring Hemsley. McMillan threw out Meine, holding Clarke at third. English threw out Bartell. THREE RUNS.

SEVENTH — CUBS — Wilson walked. Cuyler grounded into a double play, Traynor to Bartell to Sheely. Clarke threw out Stephenson.

PIRATES—Hornsby threw out L. Waner. P. Waner singled to center. Traynor singled to center, P. Waner stopping at second. P. Waner and Traynor worked a double steal, aided by a short passed ball. Sheely singled to left, scoring P. Waner and Traynor. Flagstead flied to Stephenson. McMillan threw out Hemsley. TWO RUNS.

EIGHTH—CUBS—Tolson struck out. Taylor singled to left. Nehf flied to Bartell. McMillan forced Taylor, Clarke to Bartell.

EARNSHAW FAILS TO STOP THE RED SOX AND ATHLETICS LOSE

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—The Red Sox defeated the Athletics, 4 to 2, in the second game of their series here this afternoon when Jack Russell held the home forces to seven hits, well scattered. Earnshaw and Rommel pitched for the A's.

PITCHER GOLDSMITH SENT BACK TO NEWARK

By the Associated Press.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., Aug. 30.—The Cardinals today announced that Pitcher Harold Goldsmith has been returned to the Newark Club of the International League. Goldsmith only hurled a few innings for the Cards and Manager McKechnie said he was greatly impressed with his work.

Orders to send him to Montreal to rejoin Newark came from the St. Louis office. He did not accompany the team here but went direct to Montreal.

CARDS AND BROWNS HAVE OPEN DATES; TO PLAY TOMORROW

THE Cardinals and Browns again had open dates today. The Red Birds today will close their four days of barnstorming with an exhibition game at Scottdale, Pa.

The Browns and Cardinals will resume major league play tomorrow, the Browns continuing their series with the Detroit Tigers at Sportsman's Park, while the Cardinals will stop off in Cincinnati for a game with the Reds.

HOMANS MAKES HOLE IN ONE IN PRACTICE OVER TITLE COURSE

By the Associated Press.

DEL MONTE, Cal., Aug. 30.

HOLES in one are few and far between in golf tournaments but Eugene Homans, New Jersey, practicing for the national amateur event which starts at Pebble Beach Monday sank a single yesterday on the 185-yard twelfth of the championship course.

Homans, who turned in a card of 74, played with Cyril Tolley, British amateur champion, Eustace Storey, an English amateur and Phillips Finlay.

By Alan J. Gould

Associated Press Sports Editor.

DEL MONTE, Cal., Aug. 30.—The withdrawal thus far of 12 of the original field, including Johnny Dawson, curly haired Chicagoan and one of the top ranking contenders, has cut to exactly 150 the number of prospective starters in the national amateur golf championship over picturesque Pebble Beach.

The hazards of this ocean side course will complete the reducing process in the qualifying competition next Monday and Tuesday.

The elimination of Dawson, who scratched his name voluntarily because he chose to resume connections with the nationally-known sporting goods manufacturer in preference to an unquestioned amateur status, shared the main pre-battle interest today with the prospect of another attack upon his own record for the Pebble Beach layout by the one and only Bobby Jones.

Looked Upon as Threat.

There is a distinct "Jones complex" in this California resort, spread with fantastic beauty and lavish charm along the rocky shores of Monterey Peninsula. It apparently will be a bigger shock to California than it would be to Georgia should any unexpected events keep Bobby from winning his fifth championship.

Nevertheless the golfing clan manifested keen regret over the removal of Dawson, who was the big American threat in the British amateur championship this year and whose play in practice here justified the expectation he would be a serious threat here to the champion.

Officials of the U. S. G. A., as well as Dawson, were reluctant today to discuss the case, but the facts are that Dawson, after reaching a decision about his business connections was frankly advised his entry in the competition would be frowned upon. Dawson represented the sporting goods firm long before he ever attracted the eye of golfdom. Some time ago, when the situation reached an embarrassing stage for Dawson's future as an amateur star, he decided to enter a new line of business with his brother, George. Now, however, he has changed his mind, decided to stick to the business he prefers, regardless of that fact that it takes him automatically from the championship arena.

"Dawson is a splendid sportsman," said Cyril Tolley, the British amateur champion, when told the Chicago star would not play. "We all liked him in England and am very sorry to hear he is out."

Putting Is Off Color.

After two record-breaking rounds by Jones this week, the fans and pleasure seekers already flocking to Del Monte anticipated more fireworks today. Californians may be accustomed to unusual athletic stunts, but they expect to be pop-eyed daily by Jones, even though his play doesn't mean anything until next week.

Bobby himself seems to be working up his game gradually to concert pitch. His comment after negotiating the Cypress Point links in 71, one under par, and the former official record, was: "I can't putt, but otherwise everything is fine."

Two days ago Jones set a mark of 71 for the championship layout at Pebble Beach. Today his partners in an afternoon foursome were to be Harrison (Jimmy) Johnston of St. Paul and the Englishmen, Eustace Storey and Cyril Tolley.

Most impressive in practice so far among the contenders have been George Von Elm of Detroit, Tolley, Jess Sweetser, the former British as well as American champion; Dr. O. F. Williams and Don Moe, two campaigners from Portland, Ore.

Willing and Von Elm each shot the title links in 72 even par yesterday, while Moe and Tolley had 73's.

Sweetser gave a good sized gallery chills and thrills alternately, but there seems no doubt Big Jess has the punch at his command and the stamina to go with it for his comeback.

In addition to Dawson, withdrawals from the field include: Jess Guilford and William C. Fownes, Jr., both former title holders; Rudolph Juran of Minneapolis, Charles Grace of Bethlehem, Pa.; Major Guy Campbell of England, Watts Gunn, of Pittsburgh, John D. Ames of Chicago, George [illegible] of New York, Douglas Casey of Chicago, James Ward of Kansas City, and Maurice McCarthy of New York, the intercollegiate champion.

Babe Ruth Team Contest Ends Tomorrow; New Candidates in Field at Third Base

Three All-America Third Base Candidates

WILLIAM KAMM, White Sox star (upper left), who has a fielding percentage of .980 to lead the regulars in the American League; ARTHUR WHITNEY (upper right) of the Phillies, who tops the National League with .965, and JOE SEWELL (below), who has accepted more assists than any far corner guardian in the majors as a member of the Indians.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth's All-America Team Contest

THE contest is open to everyone, except employes of the Post-Dispatch and their families.

Entries will close Aug. 31 at midnight and letters bearing postmark up to that time will be considered eligible.

The contestant naming the same players in the same positions and batting order as Babe Ruth wins the first prize; but in event no contestant duplicates Ruth's picks, the one nearest will be considered the winner.

In addition to naming the players to conform to those chosen by Ruth, contestants must arrange them in the same batting order as Babe Ruth. The Babe has agreed to place his choices in the order in which he thinks they should go to the plate.

(This feature is new. Previously it was sufficient to name the men according to position only.)

An explanatory letter of not more than 250 words must accompany the selections and will be passed upon by the judges. This is as important as selecting the players. Babe himself will write an explanation of his choices. In event of tie, excellence of the compositions would determine the winner. (Write on one side of the paper only and make your selections on separate sheet.)

Ten players will make up the team, two pitchers and eight other players, one for each position. Only one team may be submitted by each contestant.

No corrections will be accepted once an entry has been received and filed.

Babe Ruth is not eligible. He will not pick himself.

Players must be selected on the basis of their play in the 1929 season only. Performances of previous years do not count.

A player may be placed in a position other than the one he regularly occupies, provided he has played such position in one or more championship games. Otherwise regular positions must be rigidly adhered to. For instance, a regular left fielder may not be placed in right field, unless he has played there at least once in 1929.

The trophies will be $100 cash for first, $75 for second and $50 for the third, $25 for the fourth and five others of $10 each. A dozen autographed Babe Ruth bats and another dozen autographed baseballs mounted on blotters will be the other mementoes for successful contestants.

Mail selections to the BABE RUTH CONTEST EDITOR, care the Post-Dispatch.

BOWLING NOTES.

The Buxton-Skinner Employes' Bowling League will start competition Sept. 9, with six teams. They will roll on the Rogers Alleys. Officers are: A. S. Witte, president; S. Boedeker, vice president; H. Kuelker, secretary, and W. [illegible], treasurer.

The St. Louis Fruit and Produce Handicap League has organized for the season and will bowl Friday nights, starting at 9 o'clock. The league opens Sept. 6. Officers elected are Al Dodgson, president; Joe Mertz, secretary, and A. Sansone, treasurer.

Officers of the St. Louis Fruit and Produce Scratch League have been elected for the season. The new officers: John Hirschbuehler, president; D. W. Oventroph, secretary, and A. Sansone, treasurer. There still is an opening for one scratch team with not over a 920-team average. The league will bowl Friday nights at 7 o'clock.

College Rowing Body Adopts Two Drastic Rulings

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. — Two drastic rulings, designed to prevent any recurrence of the scenes that marred the last rowing classic at Poughkeepsie, have been adopted by the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

Late arrivals will be disqualified. Any crew stopping the race within 30 seconds after the start for any reason other than actual breakage of equipment will be disqualified.

The last I. R. A. regatta there were many false starts and the varsity event, delayed by the late arrival of the Cornell shell, was rowed at so late an hour that spectators on the shore could not distinguish one boat from the other. While the other shells waited for Cornell to appear the Hudson became so choppy and rough that four of the nine shells failed to finish.

NEW COACHES AT THREE SCHOOLS IN BIG SEVEN

HARRISBURG, Ill., Aug. 30.—Benton, winner of the Southern Illinois conference football title last year, and Harrisburg, champions of Southern Illinois for 1924 and 1925, are favored to win the conference bunting this year.

The number of last year's squad members each team has returning, together with the fact that coaches of the two teams have had several years' experience at the two schools, gives rise to the indication that they will have an edge over Carbondale, West Frankfort, Herrin, Murphysboro and Marion, the other members of the loop.

Three new coaches will appear in the Big Seven circuit this season. At West Frankfort, Bud Doolen, who has piloted many good teams, is being replaced by J. N. Johnston, who was mentor at Sparta last year. Doolen resigned to take a position in New Mexico. H. E. Coen, formerly of Olney, will coach at Herrin and John H. Graham, of Omaha, Neb., who coached at Colchester, Ill., last season, will be at Murphysboro. Graham had a good record last year. He now is playing professional baseball with a Rock Island team.

Benton Team Virtually Intact.

Benton virtually will have intact the team that did not lose a game last season. Four of last year's regulars were lost to the team by graduation, but there are a number of other players awaiting a chance to take their place.

Coach W. J. "Blue" Foster will return to Harrisburg for his seventh season, ready to take 12 letter men and bolster them with reserve strength until he has a winning aggregation. The Fostermen fell before West Frankfort and Benton only last year, and included Henderson, Ky., in their vanquished list. Henderson will play at Harrisburg this season.

During the last five years, Foster's teams have won 38 games out of 44 played and have won two Southern Illinois titles.

Coach Dick Gadski is returning to Carbondale this season to meet eight regular players and some heavy freshmen who probably will make up a formidable eleven. The former South Dakota all-State player hopes to lead the Orange and White of Carbondale to the first football title since 1923.

Six Veterans at West Frankfort.

Coach Johnston will start his first year at West Frankfort with only half a dozen letter-men and Coach Houghton at Marion will have about the same number. One of Marion's vacancies includes the place left by Bob Hudgens, star athlete who will attend the University of Illinois this year.

Murphysboro's squad, like others in the conference, was hurt by graduation, but Coach Graham may duplicate his last year's record and produce a winning combination.

Other schools in the loop have followed Harrisburg's lead last year in building a new athletic field.

STRONG FIELD STARTS PLAY TOMORROW IN EAST-WEST NET MEET

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The annual East-West tennis matches get under way at the West Side tennis Club at Forest Hills tomorrow. Three singles and one doubles match will be played tomorrow and three singles and two doubles on Monday.

Tomorrow's matches will be: Dr. George King, New York, vs. Bradshaw Harrison, Oregon; Richard N. Williams, Philadelphia, vs. Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex.; and Frank Shields, New York, vs. Wilbur F. Coen, Kansas City. In the doubles Williams and Shields will pair against Harrison and Phil Neer.

The feature singles match on Monday will bring together George Lott of Chicago and John Van Ryn of Orange, N. J.

Joe Sewell, Whitney and Kamm Are Receiving Votes Along With Pie Traynor and Fred Lindstrom.

By Damon Kerby.

Only today and tomorrow remain in which to enter teams in Babe Ruth's All-America team contest sponsored in St. Louis by the Post-Dispatch. Tomorrow at midnight the contest will be declared closed, officially, and letters bearing postmarks after that time will not be judged.

Baseball fans are urged to mail in their selections at once, if they have not already done so. The latest available averages have been published, prospective contestants have had ample time to study them thoroughly, and now the selections should be mailed in immediately.

The contest has been harder this year than in the four previous seasons, but that doesn't mean that there is smaller chance of receiving a valuable award. Ruth made the rule this year that contestants should name their teams in the same batting order in which he would send them to the plate. If none of the contestants has the same batting order as Ruth's, the next nearest to his selection and batting order will receive the chief award, consisting of $100 in cash.

Other Valuable Prizes.

Second place in the competition will be worth $75 in cash. Other cash awards will be $50 for third place, $25 for fourth and five others of $10 each. Two dozen other awards will be given which will be valued highly by the successful contestants. They consist of a dozen baseball bats, autographed by Babe Ruth, and 12 of Ruth's autographed baseballs. The latter will be mounted to be used on blotter pads.

It will be noted in the rules that an essay, not exceeding 250 words, must accompany the selections. With the long list of awards, contestants should take especial care to make their essays logical and neat, for the essay may be a determining factor in the judging.

Three prominent men, not connected with the Post-Dispatch, will act as judges.

Fight at Third Base.

One of the positions on the team that has brought out differences of opinion is third base. Pie Traynor and Freddy Lindstrom have been named on many of the teams, but others have not been entirely forgotten. Joe Sewell of Cleveland, Art Whitney of the Phils and Willie Kamm of the White Sox are among those who have been named on teams submitted in the contest.

Whitney has the call at third base on the team of M. V. Gisi, 507 Loudermann Building, located at 317 North Eleventh street. His lineup:

Hornsby, second base.
Foxx, first base.
Klein, right field.
Jackson, shortstop.
Cochrane, catcher.
Grove, pitcher.
Bush, pitcher.

Miss Cleata Smith, 5025 Alaska Avenue, has submitted a strong line-up, with a neat accompanying essay, in which Traynor is named at third. Miss Smith's team:

Douthit, centerfield.
Traynor, third base.
Foxx, first base.
O'Doul, right field.
Dickey, catcher.
Jackson, shortstop.
Grove, pitcher.
Bush, pitcher.

Traynor is also named on the team submitted by Edwin Schertzer, 2118 Ann avenue. Schertzer has named the following:

L. Waner, center field.
Hornsby, second base.
Simmons, center field.
Foxx, first base.
O'Doul, right field.
Cochrane, catcher.
Jackson, shortstop.
Grove, pitcher.
Bush, pitcher.

TUFFY GRIFFITH KAYOES BIG BOY PETERSON IN 6 ROUNDS AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30. — Gerald Ambrose Griffith, the tough slugger from Sioux City, Ia., today was seeking a tougher opponent than Big Boy Peterson for his next heavyweight engagement.

Griffith, making his fourth start as a heavyweight, scored a six-round technical knockout over Peterson, to make Big Boy his fourth straight victim in the division. Tuffy gave the New Orleans fighter a thorough beating, punching him onto the ropes in the second round and dealing out such a terrific battering in the fifth, that Peterson was unable to respond for the next session.

CARONDELET STAR IN SEMIFINAL OF WOMEN'S TENNIS

By Glenn S. Hutchinson

Gertrude Degenhardt of Carondelet became a semifinalist yesterday in the women's Municipal class "A" tennis tournament at Forest Park as a result of a straight-set victory over Virginia Springmeyer from Fairgrounds, 6—2, 6—1. It was expected that Miss Degenhardt would have a more difficult time in reaching the semifinal round in view of the fact that the day previous Miss Springmeyer had proved her mettle by disposing of Sublette's star, Peggy Leddy. Tomorrow Miss Degenhardt will oppose Deborah Carnovsky, also of Carondelet, to determine one of the finalists.

After dropping the first set to Clara McNamara of O'Fallon, Sadie Hartz from St. Louis, 6—2, staged a brilliant comeback. Relying on her accurate placements, Miss Hartz went through the next two sets with the loss of only three games. The final score was 2—6, 6—3, 6—1.

The third round match between Ruth Christine, O'Fallon star, and Edna Kuhs, the last of the Oakland entries, was another match that went to three sets before a victor could be decided. When Miss Kuhs took the court against Miss Christine yesterday, to complete their match, she had the momentary advantage of having won the first set, 6—4, in the previous day's play. Miss Christine, however, played her usual steady game and soon turned the tables in her favor. She won the next two sets by the score 6—2 and 6—3.

Florabelle Peer of Kingshighway proved her right to enter the quarter-finals when she disposed of Rita Oberbeck of Baden in straight sets 6—2, 6—4.

Because the doubles team of Lillian Boening and Marian Nelson of Kingshighway found it impossible to participate in any more matches, Edna Walters and Mellis Bayers enter the final round in the doubles. Miss Walters and Miss Bayers will play the winner of the Frances Jacobson-Gertrude Degenhardt and Ruth Christine-Elma Drewes match for the title, probably Sunday. Frances Jacobson and Gertrude Degenhardt entered the doubles semi-final yesterday when they disposed of Ann Beifuss and Adele Shine 6—4, 6—2.

Only two singles matches are scheduled for today.

Yesterday's Results

Singles.

Second round—Sadie Hartz St. Louis, defeated Clara McNamara, O'Fallon, 2—6, 6—3, 6—1.

Third round—Florabelle Peer, Kingshighway defeated Rita Oberbeck, Baden, 6—2, 6—4; Ruth Christine, O'Fallon, defeated Edna Kuhs, Oakland, 4—6, 6—2, 6—3.

Doubles.

Today's Pairings

FOUR CLUBS FIGHTING FOR CHAMPIONSHIP IN SOUTHWESTERN LEAGUE

Some hard battles are expected in the Southwestern Illinois League over the week-end holiday period and with four clubs scrambling for the second half pennant, any one of the quartet may be at the top at the end of the double set of games.

The Edwardsville Regulars will entertain the O'Fallon Merchants at American Legion Park here Sunday afternoon; the Biebel Roofers of Belleville will be hosts to the East Alton Business Men at North End Park, while the game between the East St. Louis White Eagles and Staunton Merchants has been postponed.

On Labor Day, the Belleville aggregation will go to Edwardsville for a game with the league leaders; the East St. Louis White Eagles will play at O'Fallon, and the East Alton Business Men oppose the Merchants at Belleville. A single round of games on September 8 will close the schedule.

Edwardsville took the lead in the league standing last Sunday by trimming the Staunton club, 4 to 1, while the O'Fallon and Belleville teams divided a twin bill. O'Fallon won the first 4 to 0 while the Biebels took the second 4 to 3. In the other game last Sunday the East Alton Business Men defeated East St. Louis, 8 to 4.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Let's Bring It Back.

ST. LOUIS, accustomed to its annual autumn baseball thrill by reason of the close races in which the Cardinals have participated for the past three or four campaigns will find its baseball season tailing off in a "ho, hum," finish this season.

Following the example of the New York Giants, the Browns are to send a challenge to the Cardinals to play a fall series of games after the season closes.

Time was when the local rivals battled annually, both spring and fall, but since the war no post-campaign games have been contested by the St. Louis teams. In 1917, the last year recorded by the guide in which the teams played a fall series, the rivals played seven games, of which the Cardinals won four, the Browns two and one was a scoreless tie.

Fans probably have wondered why this series was abandoned. They probably also wonder what is to prevent its revival.

Sam Breadon answers that there are two objections to reviving the series:

First—The contracts with the players will have expired and the owners have no control over their men.

Second—It would not pay financially. The reason for discontinuing the series was that the players felt they did not get enough money out of it to make it worth while.

The first objection can be settled quickly by referring it to the players, and the Browns have already gone on record as approving it. Doubtless the Cardinals will approve it. That would put it up to the owners.

As to the series not making enough money—the situation is different today than in 1917, with the country at war.

There is keen curiosity as to relative strength of the two clubs and the teams themselves have been fairly successful—enough to assure them a share in the world series first division team pot.

The Arena Sports Club.

A GREAT field is opened for indoor sport by "The Arena," now nearing completion on Oakland avenue. With 20,000 seating capacity, perhaps more, events of national importance can be held there.

Realizing the opportunity an organization calling itself "The Arsena Sports Club," is said to be in the making, with Tom Packs as head of wrestling promotion.

From this we infer that Packs has deserted the Coliseum and will conduct his wrestling shows and perhaps other events at the Oakland avenue building. Packs was not in St. Louis to [illegible] his plans, but indications are that championship wrestling contests will be held there. In that event there will be ample room ot care for the public.

Wrestling throngs haven't [illegible] reached the point where a seating capacity of 20,000 is insufficient to take care of everybody.

Wrestling Exaggerations.

THE recent attempt to put across the Londos-Schikat event as a championship proved a forlorn fizzle. Predictions were made that the $80,000 record gate of the second Gotch-Hackenschmidt match would be passed and for a few moments, the morning after the show, exaggerated reports given to newspapers resulted in headlines leading one to believe that this had happened.

"Mob of 30,000 acclaims Schikat champion," one headline said, and estimated the gate at $80,000. One day later the official report showed that 10,724 persons paid to see the show, a total sum of $31,356.

Since this match was only one fall, it is probable that the men will meet again and that the match will be one of the autumn features at The Arena, here.

Jack Dempsey and Leonard Sachs, his lieutenant, will attempt to hold boxing shows here, although championships are hardly probable.

None the less, there is the prospect that bigger and better boxing and wrestling matches will be available this winter.

SNODDY ILL, CANNOT PILOT BOAT IN THE DETROIT CUP RACES

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 30. — Ralph Snoddy of Los Angeles has typhoid fever and will be unable to pilot the Miss Los Angeles II in the Harmsworth Trophy race in the Detroit River here Saturday and Monday, the regatta committee was informed last night.

The Estelle IV, England's entrant in the races, was damaged yesterday during a speed trial on the Detroit River. One of the shafts was torn loose while the boat was traveling 60 miles an hour. It broke the wooden strut running fore and aft. The boat will be repaired in time for further speed trials today.

HOLST MEETS SCHULTE IN RETURN BOUT HERE ON NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Carl Holst, young German heavyweight, will meet Louis Schulte in a return bout on an amateur fight program at the First Olympian A. C. next Friday night, according to Joe Herbst. In their first meeting Schulte won by a close margin. Three other special bouts will be on the program, as well as the usual number of amateur bouts.

BOXING EVENTS WILL BE UNDER DIRECTION OF JACK DEMPSEY

The Arena Sports Club for the promotion of boxing and wrestling shows on a high plane is being organized in connection with the new Arena, the 21,000-seat show place nearing completion at 5700 Oakland avenue.

Ben G. Brinkman, president of the National Exhibition Co., owner of The Arena, will be president of the sports club, and those associated with him in its organization include Harold Bixby, F. W. A. Vesper, Willard Cox, August Busch, Jr., Bradford Shinkle, Fred Holecamp, George H. Holcombe, Tom Dysart, Arthur Hillmer, Bert Boaz, Oscar Fisher, Ed Foristel, Joe Catarinich, Robert S. Eddy, Jr., and Guy Golterman.

Ring events, according to present plans, will be under the direction of such promoters as Jack Dempsey, Paddy Harmon of Chicago and Col. Hammond of New York. Leading boxers and wrestlers are to be brought here for contests, it is said.

Dempsey has had representatives here on several occasions giving the new Arena the once-over and conferring with Brinkman and Holcombe about proposed bouts.

First Show in November

Plans are now being considered for presenting the initial bout which probably will be some time in November. Dempsey's emissaries were greatly impressed with the suitability of The Arena for the presentation of bouts on a big scale. The seating capacity of the building scoring a ten strike with them.

Life memberships in the club which are being sold at $100 each, each membership carrying one share of 7 per cent preferred stoc in the club, entitle members to the privileges of the club rooms which will occupy the four floo of the west tower of The Arena and to purchase the choicest sea at sporting events sponsored by the club.

Revenue derived from membership fees will be devoted to the promotion of boxing and wrestling shows, it is understood, and on this basis, 1,000 members woul create a $100,000 fund.

Like the "Millionaires Club."

The Arena Sports Club will occupy the same relation to the Arena company as does the Madison Square Garden Athletic Club, with its roster of 600 millionaire and multimillionaire owners does to the Madison Square Garden corpo

It is understood that the wrestling promotion will be taken ca of by Thomas Packs, promoter of local wrestling shows hitherto at the Coliseum.

The Arena is the largest buildi of its kind in the world and without a single column, maki every one of the 21,000 seats a vantage point. It will be opened O with the National Dairy Sho St. Louis National Horse Show, Better Foods Show, National Po try Show and the St. Louis F as not in St. Louis to disclose is plans, but indications are at championship wrestling contests will be held there. In that vent there will be ample room t care for the public.

Detail plans of the new sp club, including some of the attr tions booked, are expected to announced in the near future.

Wrestling throngs haven't yet eached the point where a seating capacity of 20,000 is insufficient to take care of everybody.

Wrestling Exaggerations.

THE recent attempt to put across the Londos-Schikat event as a championship proved forlorn fizzle. Predictions were made that the $80,000 record gate of the second Gotch-Hackenschmidt match would be surpassed and for a few moments, the morning after the show, exaggerated reports given to newspapers resulted in headlines leading one to believe that this had happened.

"Mob of 30,000 acclaims Schikat champion," one headline said, and estimated the gate at $90,000. One day later the official report showed that 10,724 persons paid to see the show, a total sum of $81,356.

Since this match was only one fall, it is probable that the men will meet again and that this match will be one of the autumn features at The Arena, here.

Jack Dempsey and Leonard Sachs, his lieutenant, will attempt to hold boxing shows here, although championships are hardly probable.

None the less, there is the prospect that bigger and better boxing and wrestling matches will be available this winter.

SNODDY ILL, CANNOT PILOT BOAT IN THE DETROIT CUP RACES

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 30. — Ralph Snoddy of Los Angeles has typhoid fever and will be unable to pilot the Miss Los Angeles II in the Harmsworth Trophy race in the Detroit River here Saturday and Monday, the regatta committee was informed last night.

The Estelle IV, England's entrant in the races, was damaged yesterday during a speed trial on the Detroit River. One of the shafts was torn loose while the boat was traveling 60 miles an hour. It broke the wooden strutt running fore and aft. The boat will be repaired in time for further speed trials today.

HOLST MEETS SCHULTE IN RETURN BOUT HERE ON NEXT FRIDAY NIGHT

Carl Holst, young German heavyweight, will meet Leslie Schulte in a return bout on an amateur fight program at the Flori Olympian A. C. next Friday night, according to Joe Herbst. In their first meeting Schulte won by a close margin. Three other special bouts will be on the program, as well as the usual number of novice bouts.

18 SPRINTERS TO COMPETE IN CRETE HANDICAP

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CRETE, Ill., Aug. 30.—Eighteen of the best sprinters quartered at the Lincoln Fields track are named to start in the $5000 added Crete Handicap, feature event on tomorrow's racing program at the local track. Misstep, Le Mar Stable's great colt, will meet Reichert Brothers' My Dandy, which recently defeated some of the best horses in the West at the Hawthorne oval. In this event other stars entered are Click, a recent victim of sponging; Rolled Stocking, Lady Broadcast and Blackwood.

J. W. Parrish, Stuyvesant Peabody and Reichert Brothers have each named two thoroughbreds for the six-furlong event. Parrish's color bearers will be Rolled Stockings and Dr. Parrish; Peabody's aces are Flat Iron and T. S. Jordan, while the Reichert Brothers will pin their hopes on My Dandy and Brown Wisdom.

Click drew the inside post position, with Misstep second and Flat Iron third. The fractious Donnay was placed on the outside with My Dandy next to him. Top weight of 128 pounds has been assigned Misstep.

The field, with post positions, follows:

La Dentelle, well ridden, had speed from the start, raced into the lead on the inside, entering stretch and holding on resolutely, outstayed Polita. Latter moved up fast in first quarter, lost ground on stretch turn and closed gamely. Dolly Polly forced back nearing the turn, gradually made up ground on outside and was going well in final stages. Dearinez closed an immense gap from a slow beginning. Polygamia suffered early interference, raced wide and weakened in the drive. Charm tired after showing speed to stretch. Germaine Chauvelot had a rough trip and little chance. Red Leather was cut off repeatedly during the early racing.

$2 mutuels paid: La Dentelle, win $19.30, place $10.22, show $8.04; Polita, place $9.40, show $7.42; Dolly Polly, show $19.34.

SECOND RACE—$1200, claiming, 2-year-old fillies, five and one-half furlongs: Start good, won easily, place driving. Went to post at 2:53; at post 1 minute. *Field.

Wicker appeared to impede a number of field while sprinting to the lead in the opening quarter, gained a commanding advantage on stretch turn and held it easily. Lillian Tobin followed in the winner's path from the start, saved much ground during final three furlongs and closed fast. Tela never far back closed with a rush. Zeve's Gold began slowly and raced wide. Jean suffered in the crowding and could not improve her position in the drive. Bettty Ann was impeded early, but kept prominent and quit in the stretch. Gee Whiz almost lost her rider in the jam approaching the turn.

$2 mutuals paid: Wicker $11.48 win, $6.20 place, $5.08 show; Lillian Tobin $15.50 place, $8.14 show; Tela $13.24 show.

Mike Hall began slowly, raced wide when working his way up and closing gamely wore down Canaan without need of severe pressure and scored a handy win. Canaan, rated closest to the early leader, sprinted into lead with a rush after reaching stretch and held on well, but was overmatched. Royal Julian kept up fairly close from first quarter and held on well. Blessefield ran away a mile before the start, but displayed good speed and weakened badly after three-quarters. Crossco had no mishap.

$2.00 mutuels paid: Mike Hall, win $3.04, place $2.66, show $2.22; Canaan, place $3.62, show $2.80; Royal Julian, show $2.94.

DOWN the STRETCH

By Melvin D. Fulcher.

The Hawthorne Gold Cup, which is to be run Oct. 7, at the second meeting to be held at that course this year, will be a weight for age affair for three-year-olds and over. Its first running was last year, when it was won by Display, with Mike Hall second and Crusader third. It carries an added money value of $25,000 and a gold cup. Last year there were more starters and the Hawthorne management this year requests horsemen not to make complimentary entries to the event, which means the ones that are often made with no intention of starting. A novel feature of this race is the fact that the Hawthorne association pays the expenses of shipping starters from the East to Chicago and back East again after the race is over.

It is stated that the new race course which is being constructed by W. T. Waginer, the Texan, and which is situated near Arlington, Tex., midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, is being pushed to completion and that the track will be ready for horses within 10 days. Stake blanks and conditions of the races for the inaugural meeting this autumn are being prepared.

The Joliet Handicap.

Lincoln Fields' feature for Labor day will be the Joliet Handicap for two-year-olds, with $500 added, at six furlongs. The weights, which are out, show the colt Dedicate is the top weight with 122 pounds, although he is not a certain starter as he is in the East.

Ben Marshall's extreme handiness won his owners another purse at Lincoln Fields yesterday as his ability to start quickly allowed him to take instant advantage of the poor sendoff the others received out of the starting gate. This start was one of the few at Chicago made out of the starting gate which was characterized as "bad" in the official form chart.

A "Build-Up" in the Odds.

The details of the victory of the horse Supawna, which won at Dorval last week, causing grief among the handbook makers throughout the country, are said to have shown that the big price which the horse paid, $14.75, was due to a "build-up" in the mutuels, as $5000 was bet on another horse in the race right at the last minute for the purpose of boosting Supawna's price, which had been sent out as 7 to 5. It is claimed the horse was taken to Dorval from Saratoga for the race and that the entire affair was carefully managed. Local layers are said to have been damaged by the unexpected price on the horse.

Kansas City racing got under way yesterday at the Riverside track, a half-mile affair north of the city. Old timers in racing will be gratified to know that the fields were sent away in perfect order by the veteran starter, Arthur McKnight, whose work at the barrier has received little favorable comment in the past. McKnight was an assistant under Dick Dwyer years ago when turf history was being made and during the days of Delmar and the Fairground he was well known in St. Louis as well, as at other racing centers. He finally wound up in Kansas City and for some years worked for the city. During the fall and spring meetings that were held in Texas and Oklahoma for many years, McKnight was the starter and his work was highly satisfactory. In recent years he started at several meetings at Omaha at the Aks Ar Ben racing plant. His last appearance at a track out of the West or Southwest was at Jacksonville, Fla., when H. D. Brown sent for him to school the two-year-olds at that track.

RALLY IN FINAL ROUND DECIDES FIGHT; NEITHER BOXER IS HURT

37,713 Persons Paid $215,266 To See Contest

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.

THE Chocolate-Singer boxing bout at the Polo Grounds last night attracted a paid attendance of 37,713 persons, yielding gross receipts of $215,266.75. The net receipts amounted to $178,549.55. The Federal tax on tickets was $23,842.75 and the State tax $8938.65.

The Federal tax on complimentaries amounted to $3117 and the State tax for the same purpose was $688.80.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The amazing ring record of Eligio Sardinias—Cuba's Kid Chocolate—still was unmarred by defeat today but the smiling Cuban Negro has found at least one foe who can give him a run for his money.

Through 12 rounds of blistering action, a dazzling exhibition of boxing skill punctuated by sporadic outbursts of toe-to-toe slugging, Chocolate and Young Al Singer, Jewish idol of the Bronx, battled on close to even terms at the Polo Grounds last night with the decision going to the Cuban.

So close was the slugging that some portion of the crowd of 38,000 who jammed their way into the home of the New York Giants booed lustily when the decision was announced. Even the judges and the referee failed to agree, two voting for Chocolate and one for Singer. The Associated Press score sheet gave Chocolate six rounds; Singer four, with two even.

Fights Heady Battle.

There were no knockdowns but there was plenty of action. Against Singer's superior aggressiveness and harder hitting power, Chocolate fought a heady battle. He was content to lay back, keep Singer off with a shaky left until the going got tough. Then he tore in furiously and had the Bronx idol holding on at several stages of the battle. Singer found little use for his famous right hand with which he knocked out Andre Routis, of France, the featherweight champion. Chocolate outgeneralled him the whole way, tied him up effectively in the clinches and had Singer swinging wildly at times. Despite a weight deficit of nearly four pounds, the dusky Cuban was the stronger at the close.

Although neither seemed at any time to be in any particular danger of a knockout, there were not a few moments when it appeared that a few more blows to the right spot might cut the fight short and send one or the other home a victor by other than the dicision route.

In the fifth, the Cuban caught Singer with one right to the chin that nearly floored the Bronx lad and in the eighth, a right uppercut forced Al to h d on while his head cleared.

Chocolate Rallies in Twelfth.

On the other side of the picture, Singer unleashed two brilliant attacks — in the second and eleventh rounds—that had Chocolate back pedalling and a bit shaky and uncertain.

The twelfth and final round just about decided the fray. With the rivals apparently on just about even terms, Chocolate staged a furious ally that had Singer on the ropes and clinched the Cuban's close victory.

Chocolate weighed 125 pounds; Singer, 128¾.

The gate was in excess of $200,000, the biggest purse any division lighter than the lightweights ever has drawn.

After the fight, Singer said, "I thought I won." And when his manager, Hyman Kaplan began to complain, Singer said: "Be a sport, Hymie."

"I forced the fight and I think I beat him but will get him again and I will win by a bigger margin."

Then Al walked over to Chocolate's corner with his hand extended in congratulation. "Lucky boy," said Al, and Chocolate with a grin hooked his arm around Singer's neck and hugged him.

SPORT SALAD

by L. C. Davis

This Way Out.

In accepting Donie Bush's resignation as manager of the Pirates Barney Dreyfuss said in part: "He was a hard and faithful worker and I like him personally and wished him success wherever he may cast his lot."

SAID Barney to old Donie,
As he wiped away a tear:
"Though the way was rough and stony,
And you had no luck this year,
For the Pirates' pennant showing
You are not to blame at that;
Don't tell me you are going—
What's your hurry? Here's your hat.

"For injuries and errors
You are not at all to blame,
As all of us are sharers
In the fortunes of the game.
Though the boys refused to mind you,
You will leave me sore bereft—
Kindly close the door behind you—
Take the exit on the left.

"Though parting's such sweet sorrow,"
Said old Barney with a sob,
"I might get a man tomorrow
Who could fill the vacant job.
So, if from your old crony
You're determined to depart,
Don't linger longer, Donie,
For you're breaking Barney's heart!"

Oh, Yes.

And the next day under Jewel Ens the Pirates won a double-header from the Cubs. Consistency, thou art indeed a Jewel!

"Outdoor Swim Title Retained By Crabbe."

No wonder. Crabbe's right at home in the water.

Jimmy Foxx hasn't missed a game with the Athletics so far this year. Which may help account for the A's long lead over the Yanks.

And the beauty of it is Jimmy doesn't care much what position he plays as long as he plays. He is a Jack of all trades and master, too.

Who Cares?

The Graf Zeppelin decided to make the trip Eastward without giving St. Louis the once-over. They missed a lot.

The man on the sandbox says the minute a man signs up to manage a baseball club he should take out accident insurance.

Or, maybe liability insurance would be a better name for it as injury to a star player is liable to cost him his job.

Jewel Ens, manager pro tem of the Pirates, is a St. Louis boy. He was scouted for the big league by some cross-word puzzle expert.

The circus water boy, heir to $260,000, who refuses to quit his job until he collects $60 "hold-back money," ought to be promoted to head freak in the sideshow.

However, boys will be boys, even after they are 21 years old.

Grover Whalen, Police Commissioner of little old New York, refuses to pull Uncle Sam's night club chestnuts out of the fire. When it comes to taking on Tex Guinan, Grover would just as soon let Uncle do it.

BRITISH BOXING BODY OFFICIAL TO VISIT U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The British Board of Boxing Control has decided to send Charles F. Donmall, its secretary, to the United States "to look after the interests of the board and of Baldock" on the occasion of the match between Teddy Baldock, English title-holder, and Al Brown, Panama Negro, for the world's bantamweight championship.

Baldock is now en route to New York, where, on Sept. 17, he is to battle Brown, the "defending bantamweight champion of the world" in the eyes of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Pension Fund for Alexander May Be Suggested to Owners At National League Meeting

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 30.—When the club owners of the National League gather for their annual meeting in December and routine matters have been disposed of, one of the bigger-hearted magnates probably will stand erect with a swelling heart beating with pride and determination against a usually leather vest and submit a proposition that can't very decently be turned down.

"Gentlemen," the magnate will say," I have a suggestion to lay before you that I am sure will meet with your whole-hearted approval. It is a matter of duty, stern duty, a most solemn obligation.

"A great figure in our National League has passed from the ranks of active players this year. He is Grover Cleveland Alexander, and I think it fitting that we show our appreciation of the great things he has done for baseball by appropriating for his use a sinking fund—no I said sinking, not what you thought I said—so that during the rest of his natural life he will not have to worry about any wolves at the door."

It is expected that the proposition will meet with unanimous approval and that Old Pete, hero of many a pitching battle, the man who struck out Tony Lazzeri on that oft-referred to October afternoon, will draw a monthly income from the National League as long as he lives.

Heydler Has Heard of Idea.

President John Heydler already has heard of the pension idea. When Old Pete was suspended while the Cards were playing in Brooklyn, an umpire, hearing the news for the first time, remarked to one of the players that he'd have to send word to President Heydler about it.

"The league has got to take care of Old Pete," the umpire said. "It can't afford to have him out in the cold."

And so Alexander, who never yet has worried about anything, won't have to start now, unless he grieves over the fact that he can't pitch and hear the plaudits of the multitude.

Alexander is the last of his school, but he was different from all the other bad boys of baseball. Despite his waywardness, he was a marvel of pitching efficiency right down to the wire. Just before he was sent home he had broken the National League record for victories by baffling the Phillies and winning his 373d game.

"He was marvelous that day," said Jimmy Wilson, who was Old Pete's catcher. "He could have hit a gnat in the eye brow and could have picked the eyebrow, so remarkable was his control."

Everybody knows what caused Alexander's final break with Bill McKechnie. His waywardness has been disguised by a kindly newspaper world as mumps, measles, lumbago, indigestion and ptomaine poisoning, but it is doubtful if anybody was fooled.

It was a co-incidence that Alexander scored his final 1929 victory, and the one that enabled him to surpass Christy Mathewson's record, in the city where he first gained fame. Old Pete broke into the National League as a member of the Phillies and it was in Philadelphia that he had his greatest years. He reached the peak in 1915, 1916 and 1917. Winning 31 games in 1915, he scored 33 the following season and bagged 30 in 1917, giving him a total of 94 for the three years.

Alex told an amusing story of an experience with the Philadelphia club owner after one of the big years.

"I thought I ought to have a pretty good boost in pay for the next season," he related, "and the club owner apparently heard of my ideas on the subject. So during the winter I got a message to come to Philadelphia, with all expenses paid, to talk over things. Well I made up my mind what I'd ask for and decided that I'd sign for a good deal less than that.

"Well, when I got to Philadelphia I was given a swell dinner, and there was plenty of wine. I learned afterward that the owner figured that I probably would be more plastic in his hands if I got full of champagne. And so he poured and poured and poured.

"Naturally the wine made me feel pretty good, but instead of making it easier to sign me, it gave me an exaggerated idea of how much I was worth. Each bottle made me more expensive and when I finally quoted the figure that I would sign for the owner almost fell under the table. We argued and argued and drank more wine and I was beginning to think I had set my figure too low even at that.

Summers Sure to Be Long.

"Well, the upshot of it was that I was a tough man to sign, but the owner figured it had to be done then, as long as he had spent all that money on food and wine and so I finally got almost $5000 more than I had decided that I would sign for. So it was an expensive dinner for Mr. Owner. He paid the railroad fare, bought food and wine and then paid me five grand more than I had expected."

Just before he was suspended, Alexander was talking in the lobby of a New York hotel of what he would do when he was through as a pitcher.

"Don't know how I'll spend my time," he remarked. "I won't enjoy baseball, because the only kick I get out of it is studying batters and figuring how I'll pitch against each man if I ever face him. I'll sure miss the hotel lobbies and the ball park. I don't care for shows or cards. Of course in the off-seasons I can hunt and fish. But those summers are going to be long. I don't know how I'll ever live through them."

HARD ROADS LEAGUE LEADERS FACE HARD TEST THIS WEEK-END

BENTON, Ill., Aug. 29. — The leading Benton club of the Hard Road league final half season chase, will face its severest test of the season during the double holiday of Sunday and Monday. On Sunday the leaders will face their closest competitors, the Paducah Hooks, on the home lot of the last named aggregation, and then on Monday meet the third place Cape Girardeau club in the Missouri city. If the first half-season champions can go through these trying tests unscathed, then they will have the final flag pretty well sewed up, but should they lose this pair of contests, they will be in danger of being relegated to a lower position in the standings.

West Frankfort will play two games at Rosiclare on Sunday, one of these tilts having been carried forward from August 15 which was a Thursday date.

Anna will play at Cape Girardeau on Sunday and the newest member of the loop will endeavor to even matters with the Missourians for the defeat suffered earlier in the season by the Cape crew.

Marion will play at Carbondale on Sunday and will fight hard for positions in the standings although neither of these clubs have more than a bare mathematical chance for the leadership.

On Monday, Benton will play at Cape Girardeau, Anna at Paducah in the double bill and Carbondale at West Frankfort in a single game.

Marion and Rosiclare will have open dates on Labor day as these clubs played this scheduled game as part of a double bill on August 4.

INDIANA LOOKS FOR GREAT YEAR ON THE GRIDIRON

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Aug. 30.—The Crimson jerseyed horde of Indiana University football players will have another new practice field in readiness for them when they report for their first practice Sept. 16. Not including the stadium field, the Hoosiers will have five fields to train on.

In view of the fact that Indiana will have the largest squad in history this season, Coach Pat Page ordered another field to be built. The new gridiron is situated back of the I. U. fieldhouse adjacent to the Indiana Memorial Stadium.

While one team is playing on the field next to the fieldhouse, another will be seen going through its paces on the terrace just above. The fields are terraced so as to make draining more thorough.

Ever since the stadium has taken the place of old Jordan Field, the I. U. freshmen have used the Jordan gridiron for their practices. Every year the "frosh" squad rivals the varsity squad in size. The new field will provide for additional room for the freshmen as well as the varsity players.

The erection of the gigantic field house adjacent to the men's gymnasium has made it possible for Page's proteges to practice on a dry field during the rainy season. The field house is big enough to afford the players a regulation playing field inside. The extreme height of the big building enables the I. U. kickers to do their stuff indoors.

When the days grow short late in the season, Page takes his squad indoors to drill. The great number of powerful flood lights in the field house makes the indoor gridiron bright as high noon. Sand pits for tackling dummies and various other training devices also will be available indoors.

No official date has been set by Coach Pat Page for the first practice, but it probably will be held the first day of school, Sept. 16. Several men are now busy in the big athletic supply room at the gymnasium getting the equipment in readiness to insure an early start.

The Indiana schedule has been arranged so that most of the home games will be played early in the season when weather conditions are the best for football. The homecoming game will be played earlier than ever before this season. Notre Dame will be Indiana's homecoming opponent Oct. 5 in the second home contest.

The only home game in November will be played with Purdue, Indiana's traditional rival. Wabash and Ohio W. will be met here Sept. 28 in a double-header, while Colgate and the Iowa reserves will be played here Oct. 19, State Boy Scout day.

DAVE KNOST, STILLMAN AND PETE WHITE WIN BOUTS IN MISSISSIPPI

Dave Knost, Al Stillman, and Pete White, local boxers, won in fights last night at Greenwood, Miss., according to a telegram received this morning by the Post-Dispatch from their manager, George Wilsman.

Knost won on a foul from Jack Kane, according to Wilsman. Stillman knocked out Jimmy Griffin, and Pete White defeated Frank Moran. The last-named is not the former Pittsburg heavyweight. White is a 120-pounder.

Portland, making its first exhibition in the tournament yesterday, slugged on even terms, so far as hits went with Springfield, Ill., but made their ten hits count for nine runs while Springfield could garner only eight markers from an equal number of hits.

New Orleans, the team that blasted the Albuquerque, N. M., squad out of the lot Wednesday, eliminated Mill Valley, Cal., yesterday, 7 to 2. New Orleans counted nine hits and after a three-run lead gained in the first inning, never were in danger.

The winner of today's game will journey to Louisville to play Buffalo, all-Eastern champions, in the "little world's series" in September, for the championship of the country.

NCIL OF LEAGUE CONVENES AT GENEVA

estion of U. S. Membership in World Court to Be Discussed.

e Associated Press.

GENEVA, Aug. 30.—The question of adding the United States to World Court of International tice has been added to the agenda of the Council of the League of Nations which opened its fifty-th session today.

A conference of the signatories the World Court statutes is to held concurrently with the tings of the League's assembly week and will consider proposals for revision of the statutes the formula of Elihu Root, American jurist, paving the for the possible adherence of United States.

With the British Labor Government expected to adhere to the compulsory arbitration clause in World Court, the British mem today made what was interpreted as indicating that the Labor Government will play an active in League activities.

Dalton, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, announced that Great Britain wished a speeding up of ratifications of international treaties and would bring up this question in the assembly. Expressing dissatisfaction with the slowness of ratifications, Dalton said signatures of conventions should be a reality and not merely device for seeking to support propositions at Geneva which are not necessarily followed up when delegates return home.

The Council accepted a grant of 72,400 from the health division of the Rockefeller Foundation for the work of the health organization of League in 1930-31.

The determination of the Nationalist Government in China to pursue an active role in the League was indicated today with the deposit of a check in the League treasury for 560,000 Swiss francs as China's suoscription for 1919. This is equivalent to about $212,000. It is understood China will deposit at later date payments in arrears.

Troops Reach Quintana Roo.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 30.—Telegrams from Cozumel announce the arrival at that island, off the coast of Yucatan, of the gunboat Anauhuac, sent from Vera Cruz eight days ago with 400 soldiers aboard to restore order among Maya Indians who gather chicle for American chewing gum manufacturers in the territory of Quintana Roo. The troops debarked and started toward the trouble center.

MOVIE MAN AT WHITE HOUSE

L. B. Mayer Says Hoover Feels That Trade Follows Pictures.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Louis B. Mayer, motion picture producer, said today that President Hoover felt that trade "follows the pictures" as well as "the flag."

Mayer, who was an overnight guest at the White House, said the President believed people in foreign countries see American products in motion pictures and that a demand for them followed. The motion picture magnate said the talking movies were proving extremely popular. This was true also in foreign countries, he said, in most cases the audience cannot understand the English language but are aided by subtitles which give enough information to permit the following of the story. Mayer said that he was contemplating opening studios in Germany and in Spain where the American movies can be re-run and the characters appear as speaking the language of the country in which the picture is to be shown.

KILLED RESISTING ARREST

Man Posed As Dry Officer Tried to Enter Woman's Room.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 30.—Alleged to have attempted to enter a woman's room in a hotel under the pretense that he was a prohibition agent, Lloyd B. Taylor, 30, was shot and killed when he resisted arrest here today.

Carl Livsey, 19, a bystander, was wounded in the head when Patrolman Ulthrope fired at Taylor.

Held for Defrauding Emigrants

By the Associated Press.

GENOA, Italy, Aug. 30.—Three employes of the Banca America d'Italia were arrested today charged with appropriating money sent to the bank by Italian emigrants to America.

SAYS U. S. IGNORES OWN CREED IN CARIBBEAN

Prof. Priestley Attacks "Imperialism" in Address at Institute of Politics.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 30.—The United States' policy in the Caribbean Sea area has been one of strategic and economic predominance unparalleled in its relations with any other part of the world, and contradictory to its own creed of independence, Prof. Herbert I. Priestley of the University of California declared yesterday before the final conference of the ninth session of the Institute of Politics.

"In pursuit of tihs policy we have not stopped short at a single contradiction," he said, "but have hastened by force of our own momentum into denial of the right of weak and unorganized peoples to renovate their usurped tyrannies by that very process of revolution to which we owe our national birth. Not content with this, we have used our armed forces to pull down and set up Governments which we judged to merit the action.

"Furthermore, we have met the move of hostility to our commercial and economic penetration, as it has been expressed in nationalistic legislation on natural resources, by diplomatic effort to extend our own municipal law so as to cover a situation for which international law proves as yet inadequate. That is, we have interposed our due process of law concept to check a sort of confiscation of which we write the definition, and, in certain cases of default of obligations assumed, we have constituted ourselves both the plaintiff before the Court and the magistrate who renders judgment.

"Our justification of this career of imperialism has the unfortunate qualification that it interposes an obvious course of practical procedure which flies in the face of our own traditional origins and political pretensions—the theory of statecraft upon which we are founded."

Immigration of approximately 1,000,000 Latin American laborers to the United States has brought to its doorstep the knotty problems of health, sanitation and economic education once confined to tropic regions, he stated. Since this labor is essential to the fruit and cotton growing industries and to the railways, he said, the United States must find means to combat and conquer these problems.

Prof. Jesse Reeves of the University of Michigan, United States representative of the International Commission to Codify International Law in 1927, attacked the treaty establish the Pan-American court of arbitration and conciliation, pending the next session of the Senate, as one of doubtful advantage to either the United States or Latin America.

MICHIGAN MOONSHINER SHOT TO DEATH IN CHICAGO CAFE

Two Years Ago Tony Domingo's Wife Was Killed by Bombs Concealed in Auto.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Tony Domingo's wife was killed two years ago through the explosion of a bomb concealed in her automobile. He vowed to avenge her death. But 'ast night a shotgun was pressed against his back and nine slugs were found in his body when he was picked up from the floor of a North Side cafe.

Detectives were unable to connect Domingo, former Michigan moonshiner, with any Chicago gang activities; but a newspaperman recalled how Mrs. Domingo had died in St. Joseph, Mich., during the fall of 1927, and his story today starting officers on a new line of investigation. Mrs. Domingo received a telephone call at her farm home. Who called or what the message was police never learned; but Mrs. Domingo immediately went to the garage and drove away. A mile from home, there was an explosion that demolished the automobile and killed the woman.

The theory of Sheriff's officers was that the bomb had been intended for Domingo himself.

During the investigation into Mrs. Domingo's death officers were told that the Domingos had engaged in frequent quarrels. The friction developed, neighbors said, after two of her brothers, named Di Maria, had met death in a large vat of mash used on the Domingo farm for making whisky. One brother fell into the vat while stirring the mixture. The other was pulled in when he attempted to rescue his brother.

Bankers Tell How to Finance Utilities Without Franchises

St. Louis Advised to Give Street Car Company No Grant Except a Permit

Company's Credit Secure if Public Is Satisfied, Says G. Ogden Ellis; Monopoly of Transportation Makes Money Available for Legitimate Needs, Says John J. Barlum.

(The following article is the fifth, and concluding one, of a series reporting the successful operation of home rule of utilities in Detroit. The city adopted a policy of granting no more franchises several years ago. Instead, only day to day permits were given for the use of streets and other public property. The city controls the rates and regulates the service. The private corporation operating the utilities, with the exception of the street car service which is city-owned, have no difficulty in financing themselves. The arrangement has worked out to the satisfaction of both public and companies.)

By Paul Y. Anderson,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 29.—In interviewing several Detroit men of large affairs on the contention raised by the St. Louis Public Service Co.—that it cannot finance replacements and betterments of its system unless it is given a new franchise—the Post-Dispatch correspondent approached two who have had an unsurpassed opportunity to study the question from all sides. Both are bankers, both are street railway operators, and both are public officials. Both expressed the opinion that the company would be able to finance its legitimate needs without a franchise. One thought the company might have to exercise some care and judgment; the other thought it would have little or no difficulty.

G. Ogden Ellis, wealthy magazine publisher and first vice president of the Bank of Detroit, is chairman of the city commission which operates the municipally-owned street railways. With him on the commission is John J. Barlum, president of the American State Bank, owner of the 20-story Barlum Hotel and the 40-story Barlum Tower, operator of a fleet of lake steamers, and head of a large real estate development company. The Commissioners, of whom the third is John J. Gorman, investment banker and capitalist, are chosen by the Mayor for their executive ability, their hold on public confidence and their willingness to serve the public without pay.

It is understood, of course, that the only necessity confronting the company in St. Louis is that of obtaining capital for extensions and betterments of the present system. The financing of future rapid transit facilities is not involved. The commission appointed by the Mayor more than a year ago to prepare a rapid transit plan has not even begun to work on it, and there is no certainty that the Public Service Co. will be engaged to operate these facilities when they are provided.

The reporter explained that the present franchise still has several years to run. He also pointed out that the company purchased the present system for $49,100,000 and is being permitted by the Missouri Public Service Commission to base its fares on a valuation of $63,000,000.

"I really cannot see why the company should have any serious difficulty about financing," said Ellis. "In Detroit the utility corporations finance themselves without franchises. Even the old Detroit United Railways, after its principal franchises had expired and when it had become certain that none of them would be renewed, continued to obtain capital, and actually built new lines during that period.

"There used to be a rule among bankers that a long-term franchise constituted a necessary part of the security of a public utility. In modern times that view has altered. It is now recognized that the best security that a public utility can have is public good will. If it is furnishing an essential service, and furnishing it in a manner and at a rate satisfactory to the public, its position is amply secured.

"A public utility, such as a street railway, a telephone company, or an electric light and power company, supplies a service that is absolutely vital to a city's existence. Cut off either one of them suddenly, and the city would be plunged into chaos. What city government would arbitrarily precipitate such a condition? No city government would dare do such a thing unless the public had been driven to desperation by prolonged extortion and oppression on the company's part. It follows, as a matter of course, that no public utility capable of pursuing that ruinous course of conduct should be given a long-term franchise.

"In order to finance itself, all the company needs is permission to operate at a reasonable rate of fare. If it conducts itself with a proper regard for the public's rights, it will certainly have that permission, because no city is going wantonly to destroy its transportation, either by revoking the company's permit to operate, or by starving it to death with an inadequate fare.

"After all, the principle of financing a business is simple. What the lender wants is actual security. When a manufacturer desires to obtain a loan, is he compelled to show a franchise guaranteeing that he will remain in business for 30 years or forever? Of course not. Every private business is dependent on public good will. The right of a private business to operate can be foreclosed by its customers at any time. The public can end the operation of the Ford Motor Co., for example, whenever it stops buying Ford cars.

"As a matter of fact, the utility is in a stronger position than almost any private business. If the public gets tired of one automobile or one magazine, there are plenty of others to choose from, but I take it there is only one street car system in St. Louis.

"It is inconceivable to me that a city would grant a franchise to a public utility corporation merely on the company's claim that a franchise would assist it in financing itself. The necessity of controlling its own streets should be paramount to the mere question of whether some public utility corporation is going to have trouble borrowing money. Home rule is far too precious to be surrendered for the convenience of a private corporation, and I cannot understand how any city administration would consent to approach the subject from any other angle."

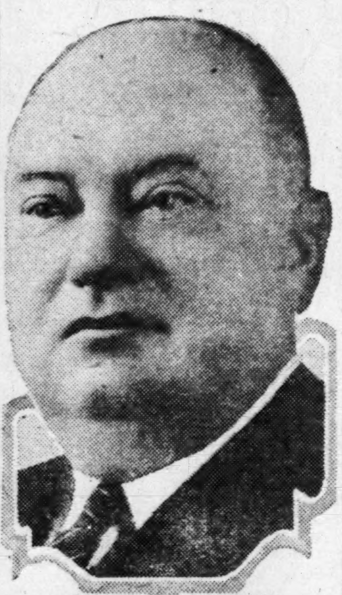
Barlum, although attaching more weight to the value of a franchise in obtaining capital, was equally positive that the city should approach the subject from the standpoint of the public's rights, rather than that of the company's convenience. He declared that no franchise should be granted.

"Speaking as a banker," he said, "I am inclined to agree with the contention that possession of a new franchise would be of material assistance to the company in getting capital. Many bankers, especially investment bankers, put considerable store on the security which a long-term franchise is supposed to confer on a public service corporation. However, I take it that the question from the city's standpoint is not whether the company could finance itself more easily with a franchise, but whether it could finance itself at all without one."

"It seems to me the company should be able to manage it if its officers proceed in the right way. The utilities in Detroit have been financing themselves for several years without franchises, and I cannot see why it could not be done in St. Louis. The principal thing is to cultivate public good will. That is what our utilities have done, and they have been very successful. I cannot imagine any Detroit banker refusing a loan to the Detroit Edison Co. on the ground that the company has no franchise. Every banker knows that the company is immensely popular with the public, and that it would take a cyclone to loosen its hold on the people. There you have the best security that any business can possibly have.

"There is no secret about the way to obtain public good will. It is done by providing good service at reasonable rates, and by realizing that the public is the master and the utility is the servant.

JOHN J. BARLUM.



G. O. ELLIS.

There is no insuperable reason why a company with a virtual monopoly on the business of local transportation in a community of a million people, should not be able to put itself in a position to get all the money it wants for its legitimate needs, regardless of whether it has a long-term franchise.

"That is the way it impresses me from the standpoint of a banker and a public utility operator.

"From the public standpoint, the question is very simple. Regardless of financing or anything else, no city should grant a franchise to a public utility when to do so means the loss of home rule. That transcends every other consideration. Under such circumstances I would not vote to grant a franchise even if I were morally certain the company would be unable to finance itself.

"If the company finds itself unable to go on without a franchise, the city can always take over the lines and operate them. Municipal ownership, even under the most doubtful auspices, certainly is preferable to giving a private corporation a vested right in the streets."

U. S. LEADS IN AIR MAIL, GERMANY IN PASSENGERS

Civil Aviation Statistics for 26 Nations Made Public by Department of Commerce.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The United States leads in civil air transportation so far as mail carried and the number of miles flown are concerned, but Germany is ahead of the rest of the world in miles of airways in operation, number of passengers carried, in commercial mileage a airplane and also in pounds of express and freight carried.

Civil air transportation statistics from 26 nations for 1928 made public at the Department of Commerce show that United States planes carried 4,061,210 pounds of mail; France, 1,607,280; Germany, 1,130,000; Canada, 316,631, and Great Britain 120,962.

Germany, however, despite its area as compared to the United States, had 18,540 miles of civil air lines in operation as compared to 16,667 in the United States. Germany's 535 civil aircraft flew 7,030,565 miles in regular service, and the 6320 civil planes of the United States 10,673,450 miles. Canada's 327 ships flew 2,724,414 miles, and the Netherlands, with 30 civil aircraft and 2092 miles of air lines in operation, reported 1,007,920 miles flown in regular service in 1928.

Germany led the list easily in number of passengers carried, with a total of 115,000. Canada came second with 74,689. United States was third with 49,713. Germany's express and freight total was 4,282,000 pounds. France was second, with 2,755,000; Canada, third, with 2,404,682, and the United States fourth, with 1,847,836.

WORK ON TWO RIVER FLOODWAY PROJECTS BEGUN

Machinery for Building Three Levee Sections in Missouri Area Shipped—Bid on Fourth Section.

ACTIVITY STARTS AT BONNET CARRE

Preliminaries Completed for Beginning Concrete Controlled Spillway to Release Excess Water.

Construction on two of the four floodways which are the mainstays of the $325,000,000 Mississippi flood control project, is getting under way, while work on the Boeuf and Atchafalaya floodways is held up by injunction suits to be heard next month.

A bid on 5½ miles of the setback levee for the Missouri floodway was sent to Washington for final approval this week with the recommendation of President Jackson of the Mississippi River Commission. For this section of the levee $115,000 is available this year and $250,000 is to be asked for next year.

Contracts were let last month on three other sections of the setback levee and the machinery has been shipped to begin the levee building. Bids on the four sections were opened last spring at Memphis. Three were found acceptable, but letting of contracts was held up by appeal for presidential intervention until the Attorney-General gave the opinion last month that the army engineers were proceeding in accord with the project laid down by the flood control act and that the project could not be altered except by Congress.

Rejection of Bids.

The bids on the 5½-mile section were rejected and readvertised after the Attorney-General's opinion was delivered. The contract, as for the other sections, calls for construction to begin within 30 days after approval and to be completed by Dec. 15, 1931. A fifth section of about five miles at the lower end of the projected floodway has been under back water through much of the summer. It is being figured now and will be be advertised for bids as soon as specifications can be completed.

Construction also is beginning on the diversion-way at Bonnet Carre, which is to protect New Orleans in great floods by diverting Mississippi flood water into Lake Pontchartrain. Work has begun on the six-mile guide levees between the river and the lake, which are to cost $1,824,930, and most of the preliminaries have been completed for beginning the concrete controlled spillway which will release excess water from the river. The engineers have $2,000,000 available now for the spillway.

The difficulties over compensation to land owners were taken to court in all four floodways, but the courts refused to hold up either the Bonnet Carre or the Southeast Missouri project. Both Federal judges at St. Louis ruled against such attempts, Judge Faris pointing out the urgency of getting on with flood control for the sake of the millions whom it will protect.

Louisiana Work Help Up.

Similar attempts to block the project have made somewhat more headway in Louisiana. Work on the Boeuf floodway has been held up by a Federal judge at Monroe, who denied the Government's motion for dismissal of an injunction suit and gave attorneys 30 days to prepare for trial of the suit on its merits. Similar cases are awaiting the outcome of this one.

While the legal and practical position of Government and land owners in the south resembles the situation here, there is one important difference. In the Missouri floodway, the "fuse-plug" levee, which will admit excess waters from the river, is to be a section of the present river bank levee lowered three feet.

The flood control act provides compensation for additional flood waters. Since the present levee is to be reduced, there is the prospect of additional flooding and the right to compensation. The only question is the amount.

A section of the present levee likewise is to be the "fuse-plug" in the Boeuf and Atchafalaya levees. But it is not to be lowered at all.

DESTROYER CLASS OFFERS NO PROBLEM

Indications Are 1936 Will Be Fixed as Year for Attainment of Parity in Warships.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Obstacles to an accord between the United States and Great Britain on complete naval equality apparently have been reduced to certain aspects of the complex cruiser problem which caused the failure of the tri-partite conference of 1927.

Each Government has placed its viewpoint on this question before the other in detail, however, and, while further discussion will be necessary, Washington officials are hopeful that the remaining differences, which are few, can be eliminated and an agreement announced in a few days.

The preparation and presentation of the American viewpoint for Prime Minister MacDonald's consideration is the task which has kept President Hoover, Secretaries Stimson and Adams, and Undersecretary Cotton working overtime and filing many pages of cables to Ambassador Dawes.

Submarine Issue Not Raised.

In so far as destroyer and submarine strength is concerned, little difficulty is seen in the way of an agreement between the two governments to bring their navies to the basis of parity agreed upon at the outset of the negotiations, when the British Premier accepted the principle that they should be equal in strength in all categories of vessels.

Indications now are that 1936 will be selected as the year for attainment of that equality, and that any agreements which may be reached at the contemplated five-power naval conference would be timed to expire in that year so that another accord could be negotiated taking into consideration changed conditions and experience.

The 5-5-3 treaty negotiated parity in battleship and airplane carrier tonnage, also will expire in 1936, thus laying the whole problem open to reconsideration at that time in the event of a general agreement on cruiser, submarine and destroyer strength in the near future.

Japan's Naval Plans.

It was indicated that the conferences will be resumed next week or as soon as a thorough study has been made of the present problem.

Reports from Tokio that the Japanese ministry of marine is contemplating a supplementary building program caused no alarm in official circles here. The opinion has been expressed in view of the reports, however, that the Japanese in the next limitation conference will ask for an increase in its ratio, which was established in 1922 for capital ships as five for America, five for great Britain and three for Japan. It is considered possible that Japan might desire a 3.5 or a 4.0 ratio.

Dawes and MacDonald Again in Long Conference.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—United States Ambassador Dawes spent two hours yesterday in Prime Minister MacDonald's study at No. 10 Downing street, but could not say what had taken place inside.

The correspondent has been authoritatively informed, however, that the subject of discussion was American observations on naval limitation sent to Dawes after the White House conference on the last British proposals to the United States. Certain suggestions from the American side, bearing on British figures, were put forward by Dawes, but no new American proposals were made.

MacDonald said the conversation was satisfactory. Dawes, it is understood, took to MacDonald a dispatch sent after the meeting at the White House Wednesday between President Hoover and Cabinet members, and cabled to Washington a report of his talk with MacDonald.

It is now probable, if not certain, that within the next four weeks, before MacDonald sails for the United States, an agreement, in principle, will be reached, subject to the condition that building by other Powers may necessarily modify conclusions, unless France, Japan and Italy come into a general scheme of limitation.

Byrd Party in Touch With Zeppelin by Radio

Operators, Thousands of Miles Apart, Exchange Congratulations While Ship Flies Over Pennsylvania.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, Aug. 30.—Our radio station was in direct communication with the Graf Zeppelin early yesterday on the last part of its flight.

Carl Petersen, who was on the night watch, got in touch with the big airship while it was over Bellefonte, Pa., and talked for some time to Freund, one of the Zeppelin's wireless operators. He also transmitted directly to the airship the message of Commander Byrd to Dr. Eckener, congratulating him on the success of the round the world trip.

Petersen had been listening all evening for the airship. He heard the operator trying to get a New York station and, in turn, Petersen called San Francisco and notified a station there that the Zeppelin wanted to reach New York on a certain wave length. He found that this information had already been telephoned from San Francisco to New York.

Then Petersen tuned back again on the Graf Zeppelin and picked up the ship almost at once. Freund was apparently as glad to talk to Little America as Petersen was to have the unusual experience of making one of the longest distance communications ever held by wireless with the dirigible.

After Freund had taken the message to Dr. Eckener he asked Petersen to wait and came back in a few moments with word that the airship's commander and Capt. Hubert Wilkins, one of the passengers, were both asleep. Petersen and he then chatted awhile and Freund was told that it was 40 below zero here, quite a contrast to the temperature of Pennsylvania. Then "Pete" thought of the trip Dr. Eckener is to make in the North Polar regions next year with Nansen and Sverdrup.

"Hope I can be with you," he said.

"I hope you can also," said Freund.

Then the Zeppelin's operator sent the good wishes of all to Commander Byrd and his companions and said he hoped the season's work would be completely successful.

Petersen cannot resist the call of the polar regions and he has spent several years in them. He was stationed at King's Bay, Spitzbergen, for a time and also was an operator with a whaling ship at Deception Island, near Graham Land in the Antarctic. Like all Norwegians, he is at home on skis.

ST. LOUIS JEWS CABLE PROTEST TO LONDON

Message Condemning British Policy in Palestine Sent to Foreign Secretary.

A cablegram condemning the British policy in Palestine and demanding a change in the government of that country was sent to Arthur Henderson, British Foreign Secretary, by the St. Louis Committee on Anti-Jewish Excesses in Palestine following a meeting last night at the Y. M. H. A. The protest was sent at the suggestion of Louis Lupsky, president of the American Zionist, who cabled from London.

The committee's cablegram said: "St. Louis Jewry unitedly urges the British Government to adopt prompt measures for the protection of the Palestine Jewry, to reaffirm the Balfour declaration and to announce definite, vigorous future policy for the creation of the Jewish Homeland under the provisions of the Palestine mandate. We request the removal of all officials unsympathetic with the creation of the Jewish National Homeland."

A resolution adopted by the St. Louis committee designated next week as a week of mourning for the Jews killed in the Palestine riots. The week will begin with memorial services at 2 p. m. Sunday at Shaare Zedek Synagogue, Page boulevard and West End avenue, and close with a mass meeting of protest against British policies in Palestine the following Sunday evening. M. J. Slonim, chairman of the committee, is in charge of the program.

The resolution charges that the British administration in Palestine "through neglect and indifference, demonstrates woeful unpreparedness for the protection of the scattered Jewish settlements throughout the land." It protests against the pro-Arab policy of the administration and demands immediate action by Great Britain to protect Jewish rights in Palestine.

ATLANTIC TELEPHONE CABLE

A. T. & T. Plans to Have Circuit Ready by 1932.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announces plans for a deep sea telephone cable system between London and New York.

Work is being rushed in the Bell Telephone laboratories. It is possible the circuit will go into service as early as 1932. The main ocean link will run 1800 miles from Newfoundland to Ireland.

NEW U. S. REGULATIONS FOR WINE INDUSTRY DRAFTED

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 30.—Dr. James M. Doran, Federal prohibition commissioner, announces the first revision of wine industry regulations since 1916 is under way. No details are given out.

The revisions, consisting of about 100 pages of galley proofs, have been submitted to a committee of California wine experts for consideration. Most of them, it is thought, have to do with control of bonded wineries. Doran says he will confer with winery operators in Southern California regarding the proposed regulations.

The Prohibition Commissioner met yesterday with the board of directors of Fruit Industries, Inc., newly-formed merger of grape byproducts concerns, and discussed with them the legal phases of the by-product industry as affected by the prohibition laws.

CAULFIELD IN MINNESOTA

To Attend Dedication of Building and Study Road System.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 30.—Arriving here last night as a guest for the dedication of the 32-story Foshay Tower as a Washington memorial, Gov. Caulfield of Missouri announced that this visit is of two-fold significance. He said that he intended to make an inspection of Minnesota's road system and to study the operation of the State Highway Department.

His study, he said, is prompted by the fact that Missouri now is launching a bond issue for road improvement.

New Outbreaks at Safed Where Nine Jews Are Reported Killed and Town in Flames.

PALESTINE COUNCIL APPEALS FOR HELP

Mohammedans Make Three Demands Including Revocation of Balfour Declaration.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 30.—British airplanes, guarding against possible further disorders in Jerusalem, today circled above the area of the Mosque of Omar where a huge Moslem crowd assembled for the Friday prayers.

The correspondent for the Jewish telegraphic agency reported that thirteen planes were above this area while others also were circling other places where trouble might develop.

While Jerusalem, though tense, was calm, reports were received of further attacks on Jewish colonies. The Jewish telegraphic agency correspondent reported that nine Jews were killed in the town of Safed during Thursday night. Other reports said that five Jews were killed and twenty wounded when Arabs attacked the community. Troops finally quelled the trouble.

The Jewish telegraphic agency correspondent here today reported the receipt of advices that the town of Safed was in flames.

Palestine Jewry's Appeal.

The Vaad Leumi, national council of Palestine Jewry, requested the correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency to broadcast the following appeal to Jewish communities throughout the world:

"The situation today throughout the country is still one of great danger.

"Acts of destruction and extermination by the Arabs are continuing.

"Safed is now in flames. Many were killed and wounded in that ancient city of Jewish learning during the attack Thursday night.

"Northern Galilee is just now facing the danger of extermination. The help of all Jewry is necessary to save the Jewish population of Palestine.

"Two things are essential, first, to urge the Government to take strong measures for the cessation of destruction and the safe-guarding of the remaining life and property, second, urgent financial aid to feed the thousands of refugees.

"Rush help by cable. Funds may be addressed to the Anglo-Palestine Bank, Jerusalem."

The message was signed for the Vaad Leumi by Rabbi M. Ostrovsky, Chayim Salomon, member of the Jerusalem Municipal Council and Isaac Ben-zvi, labor leader.

Street Car Conversation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Conductor—"Two cents more, please."

Customer—"What for?"

Conductor—"The fare has now been raised. It is now 10 cents. Tokens are worth but 8 cents. We buy them for 8 cents from you."

Customer—"It may look a little cheap of me to haggle over 2 cents in the price of my ride—but it's nothing as compared to a corporation that has sold a ticket good on any date without limit and then seeks to repudiate and avoid its obligation for the sum of 2 cents. I will not sell them my token for 8 cents. My token is worth a ride and a ride is worth 10 cents. Of course you have your instructions and I won't argue with you. My fare is in the box. Just order me off the car and I will get off."

Conductor—"Oh, no, I don't order you off the car."

Customer then takes seat and rides on.

Those Idle Thoughts About St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

PERMIT me to thank you for reprinting my column from the Davenport Daily Times, "Idle Thoughts," in your Saturday's issue.

If you stirred up half the rumpus I fabricated through the publication of that column, the Western front is anything but quiet.

My readers rose in wrath—all except those who think the Chi-Trib is holy writ and Chicago God's choice. And that what keeps a columnist awake.

University City's New Street Signs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

SOME time ago you published a letter of mine advocating street signs painted on the curbs at intersections. Although St. Louis has as yet not seen fit to adopt this or any other adequate form of displaying street names, some sections of the city being without this necessary convenience, University City, your progressive western neighbor, is lettering its street names on the curbs in brilliant yellow and black. These new signs arrest the eye immediately, and are far superior to any others in the vicinity. Although the city fathers of University City probably were not influenced in the least by my previous epistle, yet I am extremely gratified to see this plan being used, and applaud this "up and coming" community for its success in again getting the jump on ultra-conservative St. Louis.

"A Bully Letter."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MAY I have the pleasure of thanking you for the editorial, "A Bully Letter," of Aug. 21?

While I am too human to overlook wholly such a compliment as your editorial carried, that was not the part that delighted me. The sparkle of your understanding mind and the genuineness of your good humor were as refreshing as a breath from the mountains.

In the world we live in there is so much ready resentment, and so little impersonal consideration of anything, that your smiling reception of a fierce fighter, with a paper sword, was nothing short of charming to the dangerous antagonist himself.

But now that I have "saved" the Methodists, which some of them fail to appreciate, let us hope that I shall not go into the business of righting everything that seem a wee bit out of balance—from my viewpoint.

Politics at the Airport.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I HAVE read your editorials on the airport situation and agree with you. It is good one newspaper is trying to awaken the people.

Our airport is indeed sadly neglected. I was out at the field recently when a parachute jump was made, and heard the people gasp and their remarks afterward. I go to the airport quite often and have struck up an acquaintance with some of the employes of the different companies, and asked them what their opinion on such exhibitions was. They did not favor them, and said they were partly due to inexperienced help being in charge of the field.

It seems that the city in making such a large expenditure should not economize by having inexperienced help conduct the field. I suppose this is due to politics but in the present developing stage of aviation, the city will pay high for it and other cities will surpass St. Louis.

Can't the airport, like the zoo and other important municipal branches, be conducted without the messy hands of politicians spoiling it?

G. R. G.

WHY?

After a survey of the domestic and foreign business of the United States, the New Republic is convinced that no greater service could be rendered American business at the moment than for Mr. Hoover to veto the new tariff bill.

That is, the domestic and foreign business of the United States is good. Our domestic business does not need further protection, and our foreign business needs nothing so much as to be let alone. It is the most prosperous foreign business in the world. Our principal rivals in international trade are the United Kingdom and Germany. Here are the comparative figures on the exports of the three countries expressed in millions of dollars:

Year.	United States	United Kingdom	Germany
1927	4759	3447	2428

They show that where the three countries were comparatively alike in 1913, the exports of the United States are now one-third greater than those of the United Kingdom and almost twice those of Germany. Since price levels in Germany have greatly decreased and those in Great Britain have remained practically stationary, it also follows that American exports have also greatly gained in value. It would appear that in this most delicate of all trade fields the cue of America should be caution. Here are the figures on the growth of our imports in 11 different markets:

	1913	1926
Australia	14.0 per cent	24.6 per cent
Asia—
China	6.0 per cent	16.4 per cent
India	2.5 per cent	7.4 per cent
Japan	16.8 per cent	28.6 per cent
Latin-America—
Argentina	14.7 per cent	25.5 per cent
Brazil	15.7 per cent	29.3 per cent
Chile	16.7 per cent	32.7 per cent
Cuba	53.7 per cent	62.3 per cent
Mexico	50.6 per cent	70.5 per cent

With 97 per cent of our domestic markets in the hands of American manufacturers and our foreign trade in a remarkably healthy state, how can Congress lend itself to a tariff grab that can only injure us without and not help us within? Our imports of manufactured goods are substantially stationary. In 1923 they were 2022 million dollars; in 1928, 2079 million dollars, a growth of less than 3 per cent. General Motors alone sold in 1928 goods worth three-fourths of all the manufactured goods imported into the United States. That is what foreign competition in our domestic market amounts to. The United States market is 96.6 per cent supplied by domestic manufacturers now as against 95.8 per cent in 1914. So that the foreign manufacturer is actually losing ground in the United States. Yet the new tariff bill is still, in spite of minor exceptions like automobiles, which are not likely to be imported anyway, a general revision upward. Masquerading as a measure of farm relief, it will increase the price of the things the farmers have to buy far more than the crops they have to sell. Says the New Republic:

> The Democratic and Progressive opposition to it is formidable enough to prevent its passage for many months, and the longer it is discussed, the more unpopular it is likely to become. There is no excuse for tariff revision upward by anybody; and a general tariff revision by Congress is turning out to be a dreary mess, as we knew it would.

So it has, and the country is indebted to the New Republic for its exposition of the facts. The Post-Dispatch has steadfastly thought, and it thinks still, that the situation presents to Mr. Hoover an exceptional opportunity. He asked for a "limited revision" of the tariff in behalf of agriculture, and Congress has responded with a bill in which not even one-third of the items bear the slightest relation to agriculture. Mr. Hoover should send it back with a thumping rebuke. The country can much better afford to have agriculture wait for whatever relief any tariff revision can yield than it can afford to injure its robust and growing foreign trade.

PERPETUATING A THRILLING TRADITION.

In the days when the James and Younger boys were conducting a crime wave of their own in Missouri the gang rode over into Jersey County, Illinois, and robbed the Fieldon bank. It is said that when they crossed the Macoupin Creek in their flight from Fieldon they found a freshet had washed away all but a single plank. Of course, nothing of that sort could deter such valiant riders as the James and Younger boys, and so they rode over the swollen creek on that plank.

Consider what adventure has come to in our own colorless time. Perpetuating the Fieldon tradition, three Alton youths rode over to Fieldon in a stolen automobile a few days ago and robbed the bank again. When the James and Younger boys went out of the town they gave the rebel yell, fired their six-shooters, and in one way and another put on a true Wild West show. Not so the bandits of another time. The Alton boys rolled out of town quietly, and they would have been rolling yet had not one of them displayed so much sudden wealth that he fell into the hands of the Alton police. Now the trio lies in the Alton jug.

We are afraid that some of these traditions cannot be sustained. They belong to their time.

EX-GOV. SMITH AND PLATO ON PRISONS.

It is quite in keeping with the character of ex-Gov. Smith to find him, in the current installment of his autobiography, criticising the prison systems of his state and of the country. Mr. Smith points out the antiquated condition of the industrial equipment at Sing Sing, which is supposed to fit the prisoner for useful work after his release. In a general indictment of inefficiency and crowding, he says:

> To the average man and woman the apprehension and conviction of the criminal are the beginning and end of their interest in him. Because of that the state has been exceedingly lax in what I believe it should do to fit the man for useful occupation after he has paid the penalty.

Mr. Smith doubtless has not read Plato, but he repeats an idea expressed by that philosopher 2300 years ago when he said, "The proper end of punishment is not merely to render to the guilty their due, but at the same time to make them better." We may be sure no plagiarism has occurred, for every true student of man and his nature through the centuries has reached the same conclusion. Lawmakers of the present, however, have been notoriously slow to act on this ancient truism.

THE GORDON BENNETT RACE.

St. Louis will be the scene next month of the Gordon Bennett international balloon race, eighteenth in the series of world contests which began in 1906. The United States has won seven of these races and Belgium five. Preparations are being made here for a crowd of 40,000 persons to see the start. This is a conservative estimate, for Pittsburg had 200,000 spectators at the takeoff of the elimination events last spring. Ten giant bags, representing France, Germany, Belgium, Argentina Denmark and the United States will take part here.

The balloon is the ancestor of all aircraft, and the balloon race is the patrician among aeronautical sports, just as the yacht race is the most distinguished of water events. It is the skill and knowledge of man directly against the elements, without reliance on machinery. Each ascent in a free balloon is a voyage into the unknown, for no pilot knows where he will finish his journey. The racing aeronaut must be a keen student of meteorology and a rapid-fire weather prognosticator, with a makeup containing courage and caution, directing him just where and when to dump his precious ballast.

In these days of speedy airplanes and of dirigible airships which circle the globe, we may lose sight of the free balloon's value. It is a worthy aid in training flyers, and valuable in the study of meteorology. From its easy-riding basket, free from vibration and noise, the most accurate observations of the upper air strata can be made. The balloon is useful in map making and for leisurely exploration over a period of time. In war it is still utilized for observation.

St. Louis has a particularly advantageous location for the start of a long-distance balloon race, since great mileages may be covered from this city without encountering the hazard of mountains or sea. The city has been host to the Bennett races twice: in 1907 and in 1910. The German balloon Pommern, which won the race in 1907, went to Asbury Park, N. J., 877 miles. The American balloon record was set in 1910 when A. R. Hawley and Augustus Post sailed 1172 miles, landing in the wilds of Quebec. The world's record is still something to shoot at, however. It dates back to 1914 when Hans Berliner, a German, traveled 1897 miles and landed in Russia, where he was promptly arrested and sent to prison, proving that the balloon pilot's life is never dull.

22 DAYS OF TRAVEL IN 21 DAYS.

The Graf Zeppelin's official time for its world flight is 21 days, but the ship's log by an anomaly shows 22 separate and distinct days of travel. The international date line, that arbitrary mark in the Pacific at the 180th meridian, where each day theoretically begins, is the explanation. On the outward voyage from Japan, Saturday midnight was approaching when the aircraft neared the mystic boundary. Then—zip!—it crossed the line and Saturday began all over again, although in the region behind the dirigible it was Sunday. Since the earth rotates from west to east and the Zeppelin went in the same direction, it gained on the sun at the rate of four minutes for each degree of longitude traversed. Each day thus was shorter than the normal, and this had to be made up somewhere so the Zeppelin's calendar would agree with that of the Western Hemisphere.

This mix-up of calendar and clock has endless possibilities. Suppose Dr. Eckener on Aug. 16 had confined a member of his crew to the brig for 10 days, setting his release for Aug. 26. The man would have had to serve 11 days. Suppose the commander had been paid by the day for his services. He would have received wages for 22 days on the 21-day trip, for he could have proved by the log that he was on the ship's bridge each day. Jules Verne uses the device in "Around the World in 80 Days." Phileas Fogg, the hero, arrives in London with notes for 81 days in his diary and laments losing the race, until a bright boy at his club reminds him of the international date line. Edgar Allan Poe makes the same idea the theme of his tale, "Three Sundays in a Week." Any youngster can appreciate a situation which makes possible two Christmases in a year, and immediately will gain respect for the science of geography.

MR. LEGGE—A GOOD EGG.

Mr. Hoover found a forthright man for chairman of the Farm Board when he persuaded Alexander Legge of Chicago to take the place. The country had not previously heard much about Mr. Legge, but what it learned then was refreshing and reassuring. That pleasant impression has been strengthened. The capital's social arbiters, it seems, did not quite know how to rate Mr. Legge. He has happily come to their aid by telling them to put him in the kitchen, and, if that is not convenient, he will gladly wait for a place at the second table.

Mr. Legge is no climber. He frankly admits that "when it comes to society I'm a dud." His type is rare in Washington, rare anywhere. But it is good to know that the type is not extinct. Not that we agree with him for a second that he is a social dud. A person of his ability, experience, accomplishment and philosophy is a wow, we'll wager, in any environment. He has revealed a wit that would grace almost any occasion—would be to many a harried hostess a veritable godsend.

After the Curtis-Gann tempest in the teapot, Mr. Legge's delicious raillery and sturdy common sense are delightful.

BEYOND THE JORDAN LIES INDIA.

Effects of China's Railway Seizure

Breaking of agreement as to Manchurian line is warning to other Powers that Nationalists recognize no treaties, English newspaper says; considers action excellent argument for keeping troops in Orient; Russian pacifism seems real and not assumed; Japan likely to view neighbor's tactics with disapproval.

From the Manchester Guardian.

IT is as impossible to congratulate the Chinese on their wisdom in taking high-handed action on the Chinese Eastern Railway as it is to condole with the Russians on this lamentable result of their prolonged effort to reconcile the opposing policies of the Third International and the Commissariat for Foreign Affairs. The Chinese, by this escapade, in which they have broken an agreement which was markedly favorable to themselves, have given a warning to all other Powers that their present rulers recognize no agreement that is not supported by force. They have provided an excellent argument for the indefinite retention of foreign warships on the Yangtze River, for the upkeep of garrisons of armed guards in the treaty ports, for the justification of the Shanghai Municipal Council in keeping a standing army, and for the postponement even by the friendliest foreign Powers of any change in the existing system of extra-territoriality.

Before the war the Chinese Eastern Railway was a Russian concern, protected by Cossacks in a wide strip of territory on which the Chinese had little if any authority. "The preservation of law and order on the lands assigned to the company and its appurtenances shall be confided to police agents appointed by the company." The railway was to pass automatically into China's possession after 80 years. Soviet Russia, in its anxiety to disclaim the intentions of "penetration," which under the old regime were sufficiently obvious, shortened the term of Russian ownership from 80 to 60 years, established the equality of China and Russia in the administration of the railway, disclaimed extraterritoriality for its citizens, and left the preservation of law and order to the Chinese.

The Commissariat of Foreign Affairs, no doubt, had an ulterior aim in this policy of ostentatious equality, hoping that the contrast between Russia's attitude and that of other Powers would sharpen Chinese resentment of "unequal treaties" and establish Russia in the position of China's only friend. The Chinese, by their recent action, have shown that when freely given a good many inches they are encouraged not merely to ask for but to take an ell. They have reversed this object-lesson. Nothing they have done during recent years has been better calculated to stiffen the attitude of those foreigners who still have privileges and properties in China to defend.

But the Russians need not blame the Chinese alone. Their revolution has created a large number of emigres who do not regard as treachery the service of a foreign Power against the interests of their native land, so that the Chinese in dismissing and deporting the Soviet-Russian officials of the railway can count on being able to replace them by others who are prepared to assist the Chinese in taking possession of Russian property. Further, the activities of the Third International, while they contributed materially to the initial success of the movement from Canton which in the end overran the whole of China, helped to bring into existence a threat of such social changes as are considered highly undesirable by the present leaders of that movement.

While the Commissariat of Foreign Affairs hoped to make of China a friendly and grateful neighbor, the Third International had wild dreams of a revolution, largely agrarian in character, which should make of China not merely a friend but a partner in a general reorganization of the world. The two aims were incompatible, clashed, and made extremely difficult even those ordinarily polite relations which may exist between parties neither friendly nor grateful to each other.

The Third International has succeeded in aligning China not with Russia against the so-called "imperialists," but with the "imperialists" against Russia. Foreigners in China, from whom the Chinese are apt to judge of the views of foreign governments, have been even more alarmed at the activities of the Third International than were at first the leaders of the Chinese. They have been able to point to the rupture of Russo-British relations by way of encouraging the Chinese to proceed to similar extremities. It is possible that if, as was generally expected, Mr. MacDonald had been able to announce on meeting Parliament that those relations had already been restored, the Chinese would have thought twice before taking action of a kind that, as the Russian ultimatum suggests, may jeopardize the peace of the world.

The Russians have more than once shown that their pacifism is real and not assumed. No other great Power would have submitted as tamely as they have to a long series of provocations on the part of the Chinese, such as, for example, invasion of consular and other buildings which by international law enjoy extraterritorial rights. It is possible that their submission to these outrages was sweetened by the thought that the Chinese would thenceforward have a precedent to encourage them in perpetrating similar outrages against other Powers. It is possible that the Commissariat was conscious that the Third International was largely to blame. It is possible that they were determined at all costs to keep the peace. It should be remembered that Russia and China are not alone in Manchuria. By the treaty of Portsmouth 1618 versts (1067 miles) of the Chinese Eastern Railway remained in Russian hands and 715 versts (472 miles) passed into Japanese. Disorder on one line affects the other, and there are already complaints in Japan.

It is inconceivable that at the present moment Chinese public opinion, weak as it is, is prepared to welcome an extension of Japanese influence. It is equally inconceivable that Japan, without such a prospect, can view with approval such Chinese behavior on a foreign-owned railway as that which has brought about the present crisis.

A LONG-FELT WANT.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Aug.

FAR out Pennsylvania avenue, where the Capital's most famous thoroughfare into Southern Maryland, lies a small of ground.

There is nothing about it to command attention. Somehow one gets the impression that it is there almost by accident. Certainly it is only the careful observer who detects the wooden marker that identifies the spot as:

"L'Enfant Square."

This is the only place, other than his grave, that the famous French architect who planned the national capital has in the plans of the city itself. Today the body of Maj. Pierre L'Enfant rests in historic Arlington. An honored grave and pomp are his.

But the little square in Anacostia is the only memorial in the city he planned. Congress has been asked to perpetuate his memory by erecting a monument, but [illegible] the bill has never been passed.

RECOGNITION of L'Enfant's genius by this country has been slow.

It was not until 20 years ago—[illegible] after his death—that the body of the famous architect was reclaimed from a lonely spot on the Riggs farm in Prince George County of Maryland and reinterred in Arlington National Cemetery

During all that time it was unmarked. Only a red cedar tree, planted at the time of his death, identified the grave. It was the sundry civil bill of 1908, authorizing an appropriation of $1000 by Congress "to remove and render accessible to the public the grave" that gave this country the opportunity to pay its debt of gratitude to the genius and patriotism of the great Frenchman.

Excerpts from an old report of the exhumation of the body aptly describe the occasion:

"A thunderstorm interrupted the operations for 20 minutes after the ground had been broken . . . the digging of the grave was continued, in silence, for an hour or more. . .

" . . . The casket was wrapped in 'Old Glory' . . . It lay in state in the rotunda of the Capitol from [illegible] until [illegible] o'clock. . . . Thousands passed around the catafalque on which reposed the casket. . ."

THE funeral procession to Arlington was almost a mile long. The streets were lined with spectators. Flags were displayed at half mast. A musician of the army engineers sounded "taps." L'Enfant was given a soldier's burial 80 years after he had died in poverty.

For more than 80 years L'Enfant's plans for the capital city of the United States were forgotten. But today his name [illegible] in all the civilized world.

Under the plans for expansion of the city of Washington, approved only recently by President Hoover, L'Enfant's original ideas are to be carried out.

The vistas and architectural gems that are even now under construction were conceived by him when he first planned the city.

SCOUTS BRING SNAKES FROM EUROPE TO ZOO

Reptiles Given to Boys in Exchange for Group They Took to England.

St. Louis Boy Scouts who took a number of American snakes to the annual scouts jamboree at Birkenhead, England, this summer, delivered 19 European snakes and 19 lizards to the Forest Park Zoo. The specimens were received yesterday in trade from the London Zoo, which received the American reptiles.

"Look," said R. Marlin Perkins, curator of reptiles, reaching into a small, moss-filled tin box. "A slow worm. It's a legless lizard. Notice the dark, extremely shiny skin, the lizard-like head. We received two of these.

"These are four-lined snakes. Light brown with four dark brown stripes. These are the biggest specimens in the consignment. Three and one-half or four feet long. They are similar to our chicken snakes."

From a receiving cage, he pulled a tangled handful of small reptiles and named them over rapidly. Ringelnatter, Aesculapian snake, Leopard snake, dark green snake, tessellated snake and others. Enthusiastically he pointed out delicate colors. "Notice the pale yellow of the belly scales. The beautiful red splotches on the Leopard snake. The black and orange in the belly of this one. The tiny, perfect head scales of that one."

"We traded them two timber rattlers, two cottonmouths, a variety of watersnakes, coachwhips, pilot blacks, blue and black racers, garters, ribbons, kings and several other varieties. We sent them over by the scouts in an old suitcase."

Moody Lentz, assistant herpetologist at the zoo, walked into the room bearing a large glass jar, as Perkins was returning the European snakes to their cages. In it were 16 baby copperheads born about 10 minutes before. Forty diamond-back water snakes were born yesterday morning, and a number of cottonmouths the day before.

"We're going to put all of the European snakes and lizards along the east wall of the reptile house and mark them with special cards describing the entire exhibit and the individual specimens."

Announcement also was made at the zoo yesterday that the new male sea elephant purchased to take the place of Mopi, who died of pneumonia July 22, will arrive in New York Sept. 22, will be shipped to St. Louis immediately, and will be on display in the sea lion pool about Sept. 25. The new animal, slightly larger than Mopi, was purchased from the Hagenback Zoological Gardens, Hamburg, Germany, for $6500.

FORTY ST. LOUIS BOY SCOUTS BACK FROM BUS TRIP IN WEST

Forty Boy Scouts, members of St. Louis troops, returned yesterday from a tour of the West in two motor busses. They disbanded at Kingshighway and Lindell boulevard, where they were met by their parents.

Under the direction of M. D. Shippey, field executive, the scouts camped for a week in the Black Hills of South Dakota, witnessed the Days of '76 roundup at Deadwood, S. D., camped 10 days in Yellowstone Park, made horseback trips into sections not frequented by tourists, visited the Shoshone Indians at Colorado Springs and climbed mountains in the vicinity of Pike's Peak The Continental Divide was crossed three times. Dr. C. E. Colgate, Webster Groves, accompanied the party.

406th Reserve Officers Returning.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEAVENWORTH, Kan., Aug. 30.—Forty-five officers of the 406th Infantry Reserve will return to their homes in St. Louis and vicinity on demobilization of the Citizens Military Training Camp here today. For the past 17 days the regiment has had charge of the camp, which numbers 2400 men and is the largest C. M. T. C. unit in the country. Col. E. L. Butts, Chief of Staff of the 102d Division, in an address to the regiment yesterday said the camp under Reservist control had proved a successful experiment and probably would be an annual occurrence.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.

THOUGHTS while strolling: What's become of that familiar old headline: "Bees Sting Keeper to Death?" Those women so precisely dressed a broken finger nail gives you the jumps. More "No Cover Charge" cabarets. Their last gasp.

Hatless boys with round hair cuts suggesting chrysanthemums. That little dried-up Marquis looking fellow you always see at first nights. Old harridans who parade white poodles Dick Berlin. The biggest nuisance and the greatest convenience of modern life—the telephone. Little Jane of the radio. And Uncle Bill.

Something amusing about colored fellows who wear eyeglasses with heavy black ribbons. Wonder who invented the shower bath, bless him! Carl Van Vechten, a Cedar Rapids, Ia., boy, who made good in the city. A cafe on Forty-seventh street features creole cooking. Japs who wear pink ties. Dorothy Stone.

Zipper raincoats. Taxicab full of revelers — Sweet Adeline-ists. Whoopee hats for little boys. Made of red felt. Bracelets are called "Joyces." Seedy characters who drift out of public parks after a shower. Interior decorating schools in every block. Dean Ray, rector of the famous Little Church Around the Corner.

Trembling old wrecks who scan gutters and make furtive grabs for snipes. And happy East Side families who drive in canopied carriages through the park—all grinning. Italians with rings in their ears still sell those statues in chalk from door to door.

Lampshade shops with romantic names. That dreary boarding house for widows of sea captains. Sign: "Wanted: Kennel Manager—$200 a Month and Board.' There's a career. Vendors of phoney French post cards who peddle pictures in the dark. And in the light they turn out to be reproductions of Eiffel Tower.

Could you go for it?

IN a play this season the real tense moment centers about two lady golfers putting on the eighteenth and deciding green. The heroine holes out successfully and if she failed the entire action of the play would go blooey. A magnet does the trick. It is said golf fans are attracted time after time in the hope of youknowwhat.

THE meanest person in the world is up to a new caper. In a little square uptown where lovers go after dark to sit on benches, the m. p. i. t. w. has sneaked in twice lately before dusk and coated several benches with fresh paint.

AND the longest kiss of dying summer is recorded by a bus conductor who noted the osculatory oddity began at Seventy-second street and ended at ninety-third. That's kissing.

A SLIGHTLY potted gentleman, unable to hail a taxi during a rain, teetered to a nearby corner where stood a block-long sightseeing bus. He paid the tariff of a full bus, gave the conductor and chauffeur $5 apiece, and was carried in state to a private home six blocks away.

A NEW YORK barber tells me the best jobs in America are in the cattle country of Wyoming. In the interior towns off the railroad cow men pay $1 for a haircut and 50 cents for a shave and tips are bigger than in the best shops in New York. Living prices, also, are extremely low. Several New York barbers have gone there and remained for a year or so, returning with enough capital to start in business for themselves.

A VICTIM of the Manhattan kitchenette-delicatessen life trumpets a gloat from his home town in the Middle West: "For the first time in years I have gone through a week without potato salad, mixed pickles and a rotisserie chicken."

BUT we bet a cookie he has had his fill of currant jelly.

HARRY G. WHELAN RECEIVES HONORARY RANK FROM POPE

He Is Made Knight of the Holy Sepulchre; First St. Louisan to Receive Degree.

The honorary rank of Knight of the Holy Sepulchre has been conferred by Pope Pius XI upon Harry G. Whelan, attorney and organizer of many Knights of Columbus councils.

Ceremonies of investiture in the lay confraternity, which dates back to the Crusades, will be held soon in St. Margaret's Church. The degree is held by only 25 persons in the United States and Whelan is the first St. Louisan to receive the honor. In Rome it carries the privilege of marching in papal processions directly following the Pope.

Whelan established Marquette Council of the Knights of Columbus, the second organized west of the Mississippi river. For five years following he instituted councils in Texas, Arizona, Colorado and Missouri. He is active in Catholic charitable work, has held many offices in the Knights of Columbus and is a member of the Catholic High School Board. He resides at 3653 De Tonty street.

25 Years a Nun.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of Sister M. Dorothea's admittance into the order of the Sisters of St. Joseph, was commemorated this week at St. Leo's Catholic Church. Sister Dorothea has been a teacher in the parish school there for 15 years. Mass attended by former pupils and friends was celebrated Sunday by the pastor, the Rev. J. T. Coffey, and was followed by breakfast for those attending.

F. D. COMERFORD, CHICAGO SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE, DIES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Ag. 30.—Judge Frank D. Comerford of the Cook County Superior Court, once known as the boy orator of the Legislature, died suddenly last night. He was 49 years old.

As a 24-year-old State representative he created a stir by charging wholesale corruption among the lawmakers. He said members bought liquor at the expense of the State, and he mentioned names. He was expelled from the House. At a special election to fill the vacancy, he was re-elected.

In 1914 Judge Comerford, a Democrat, announced himself a candidate for United States Senator, challenging the party dictatorship of Roger Sullivan. Democratic factions united behind Sullivan, and Comerford withdrew.

STUNT DAY AT HYDE PARK

Children Under 13 Give Acrobatic Dance in Theater.

Stunt Day at Hyde Park playground yesterday attracted a crowd of about [illegible],000 spectators for an acrobatic exhibition by 25 children of the playground, all less than 13 years old. Special prizes were awarded to Marian Gazda and Norman Stockho for their performances and emblems donated by the North St. Louis Business Men's Association were given to several groups.

Legacy Built Up by Mark Hopkins, Rail Pioneer, Once Valued at $25,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Arthur T. Walker, who inherited the bulk of the estate of Edward F. Searles, wealthy recluse of Methuen, Mass., left a net estate of $8,317,766, a transfer tax appraisal disclosed yesterday.

Walker, confidential secretary to Searles, obtained the estate only after extended litigation. Searles had, in turn, acquired the property from his wife, who was the widow of Mark Hopkins, multi-millionaire railroad builder and California pioneer.

The estate was said to have amounted to between $25,000,000 and $70,000,000 when Searles obtained it, and to more than $15,000,000 when it came into Walker's possession.

J. S. KINGSLEY, SCIENTIST, DIES

Succumbs to Heart Attack While on World Tour.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30. — Word has been received here of the death at sea Wednesday of John Sterling Kingsley, 76 years old, noted scientist, of Berkeley, Cal., from a heart attack on the liner President Taft. With his daughter, Mary E. Kingsley, he was on a trip around the world. The Taft was three days out of Yokohama and burial was at sea.

The scientist was born in Cincinnatus, N. Y. He served as curator of the Worcester Natural History Society, professor of zoology at Indiana University and professor of biology at the University of Nebraska, and was a member of a large number of international scientific organizations, as well as author of several books on the vertebrates.

NEW TUBERCULOSIS WARD FOR EXPECTANT MOTHERS

Special Treatment Is Arranged at Kock Hospital by Dr. Howard H. Bell

A special ward for expectant mothers suffering from tuberculosis has been established at Koch Hospital. Previously expectant mothers have been unable to gain admittance to the hospital in time to receive full advantage of the treatment because of the long waiting list.

Pointing out that tuberculosis may be inherited but that treatment of tubercular expectant mothers may offset the inheritance, Dr. Howard H. Bell, tuberculosis controller, urged that all tubercular expectant mothers apply at once for admission to Koch Hospital.

Philadelphia Symphony on Radio.
By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, returned from Europe last night on the Reliance. He announced that this fall, for the first time, the orchestra would broadcast its programs, the first Oct. 6, the second Nov. 3, and a third Dec. 8.

3000 Dimes for Church Furnace.

The first payment on the new heating plant at the Markham Memorial Presbyterian Church, 1614 Menard Street, consisting of 3000 dimes, has been collected, Dr. George Wales King, pastor, announced yesterday. A Labor Day service will be held at the church Sunday and a campaign for a second 3000 dimes will be launched next month, to meet the second payment.

SUMMER PLAYGROUNDS TO CLOSE TOMORROW

Summer playgrounds maintained by the Board of Education at 69 public schools will close tomorrow after a season of 11 weeks.

Attendance at the playgrounds this year averaged close to 25,000 a day, and the results are regarded as the most satisfactory since 1919, when school playgrounds were opened for supervised play for the first time. In that year the six playgrounds opened had an average total daily attendance of 400 children.

Under the direction of Rodowe H. Abeken, a staff of 370 trained supervisors this year directed the children through a program of varied activities, ranging from basket making and folk dancing to strenuous athletic contests

Each playground was equipped with slides, swings, parallel bars, sand boxes and other types of play apparatus. Wading pools were installed in some. Quieter terms of recreation were provided for in the dancing classes, story-telling hours, and periods of instruction in which children were taught to make useful articles.

Tournaments in baseball, handball, horseshoe pitching, volley ball, checkers and other games brought the playgrounds into competition with each other and championships were determined in contests that aroused widespread interest among the children

High lights of the season were the model airplane tournament, the radio track meet and the festival held last Saturday at the Public School Stadium.

In the model airplane tournament about 2000 miniature airplanes were built on the playgrounds, and from the participants Charles Herr and George Ruwisch of Buder playground and Carl Ehrhardt of Dewey playground were the winners. They will be sent to Louisville, Ky. in October to compete in a national meet.

The radio track meet was held Aug. 10, with teams from St. Louis competing with groups from eight other cities. Each team performed in its own city, the results being broadcast and compared later. St. Louis was fourth in the meeting, which was won by St. Paul.

At the festival there was an exhibition of articles made by children of the playgrounds, final meetings in the athletic tournaments were held and a pageant, built around Mother Goose nursery rhymes, was presented by a cast of 3600 children in costume.

CAPT. LUNDIN, INVENTOR, DIES

His Lifeboat Used on Many Ocean Liners.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. — Capt. Andreas Petrus Lundin, inventor of the Lundin lifeboat with which many ocean liners and steamships are equipped, died of heart disease yesterday at his home in Flushing. He was 60 years old.

Born in Sweden, Capt. Lundin, after years at sea, settled down to a career of marine engineering in this country and was a designer of lifesaving equipment for all types of vessels. His widow, the former Martha Gottig, daughter of the late Lawrence Gottig, president of the German Savings and Loan Society of San Francisco, and two sons survive.

learning for hundreds of years and the principal center of Jewish mysticism, having produced the greatest Jewish authorities on Caballa.

The Jewish population of Safed is mainly orthodox and has not been known to be in sympathy with the modern Zionists.

The colony of Telpioth between Jerusalem and Bethlehem was attacked by Arabs also but were driven off by a platoon of British troops.

A grave situation also was reported to have developed in Tiberias where the Arabs were restless.

Today, the Moslem Sabbath, started in an atmosphere of tenseness. Several new attacks on the Jewish quarters of Jerusalem were made last night but were repelled by British troops. The tenseness was increased around the Mosque of Omar district by the knowledge that it was just a week ago today that the disorders started in the neighborhood of the historic Wailing Wall.

The secretary of the Palestine Arab executive told the correspondent for the Jewish Telegraphic Agency that the executive and the Moslem Supreme Council have dispatched pacifying messages to the villagers in the vicinity of Jerusalem asking the villagers not to come to the city.

The Palestine Arab executive announced this morning that it would present certain demands to Sir John Chancellor, the high commissioner, as follows:

(1) Establishment of a parliament in Palestine.

(2) The revocation of the Balfour declaration pledging the British Government to facilitate establishment of the Jewish national home in Palestine.

(3) Non-admission of Zionists into Palestine.

Looters caught in the act were ordered shot forthwith by court-martial. The Felaheen—the Arab peasantry—who fear the wild Bedouins almost as much as do the Jews brought their children as hostages of peace to the Jewish labor settlement, Kiryath Anavian.

1500 Bedouins Dispersed.

A Government communique said civil authorities had dispersed 1500 Bedouins who had been massing quietly at Solith. Seventy Arabs were captured at Calonia after repeated attacks on the Jewish colony at Motza.

Two Arabs were killed in an attack on the Jewish settlement at Kalandia. A Jewish girl and a small child were wounded on the road between Ludd and Tel Aviv. Later two Jewish men were killed on the same road. An Arab was assassinated on a street in Jerusalem and three more houses were burned in the old city.

Dr. Korkidi, physician, was shot and wounded by a sniper while operating upon a patient in the hospital Misgab L'Dach in Jerusalem. He had attended the sick continuously throughout the troubles performing operations despite the dangers.

In the course of the disturbance the famous orange plantation named "Ganchayim" or "Garden of Chayim," named in honor of Dr. Chayim Weizmann, president of the world Zionist organization, was attacked by Arabs. Considerable agricultural machinery and part of the plantation were destroyed.

Sir John Chancellor, high commissioner, received a delegation of Jews headed by Isaac Ben Zvi, labor leader and head of the Jewish defense corps, immediately after he arrived from England and assured them he was taking the situation firmly in hand.

A British colonial office communique said the total casualties to Aug. 28, including those previously listed as killed or dead from wounds, were Moslems 52; Christians 4; Jews 96; total 152. Wounded in hospitals, Moslems 103; Christians 9; Jews 151; total 263.

14 Americans in Danger on Student Bicycle Trip.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 30 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency) — Fourteen Americans are among a group of 29 Jewish students of the Haifa Secondary High School, who are in grave danger in the Jewish colony Metulah, near the Syrian frontier, according to advices received today by the American Consul Paul Knabenshue. The students started a week ago on a bicycle trip to Syria. Efforts have been made by the consular authorities to arrange for their transportation to safety.

Several American Jewish families are leaving Palestine today embarking on a steamer for Canada.

Vatican Informed Palestine Feeling Is Still Tense.

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 30.—News from Palestine received at the Vatican tends to confirm the gravity of the situation in the Holy Land.

The patriarch of Jerusalem, who gave the Pope first warning of the trouble even before the outbreaks occurred, has sent another message pointing out that the menace is still great owing to the intense feeling of the Arabs against the Jews.

It is unlikely in view of this that pilgrimages to the Holy Land contemplated this year in thanksgiving for reconciliation of church and state in Italy will be made for some time.

Demonstrations in Damascus, Beirut, Tripoli and Tyr Reported.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 30.—Excitement over the Moslem-Jewish controversy in Palestine continued today in neighboring districts.

Rioters and police clashed in Damascus yesterday and a number of persons were injured, while further demonstrations took place last night in Beirut, Tripoli and Tyr. At Beirut shops are still closed and a manifesto was issued calling for another demonstration after prayers today.

Trade is dead in Palestine and Syria and prices are soaring. The supreme Isclamic County of Syria has issued a manifesto urging that shops be opened and business resumed on a normal basis.

HOOVER'S MESSAGE READ AT MEETING

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—More than 23,000 persons last night filled Madison Square Garden for a public demonstration agains the Arab outrages in Palestine and demanded immediate steps to restore law and order.

President Hoover, in a message read at the meeting, expressed the conviction that the riots would result in "greater security and greater safeguard for the future, under which the steady rehabilitation of Palestine as a true homeland will be ever more assured."

Senator Borah, of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, declared that "this catastrophe was the result of carelessness or stupidity or both." He said that only time would reveal whose carelessness it was and added that the time had come to decide whether Palestine was to be "national home or an international shambles." The homeland undertaking he called one which had not been adequately measured and asserted that it would require the greatest statesmanship and skill.

The government contention is that this will admit no additional flood waters and no right to compensation under the flood control act.

The landowners within the floodways contend that they are damaged by being placed between the guide levees, the purpose of which is to protect 52.3 per cent of the Atchafalaya Basin and 59.4 per cent of the Boeuf Basin. Discarding of the "fuse-plugs" also has been urged in favor of controlled spillways, like that at Bonnet Carre, which will admit additional flood waters.

When Floodways Can Be Used.

The flood control act provides that all protective works within the floodways must be completed before the floodways can be called into use. The setback levee in Southeast Missouri to protect about 111 square miles of the Birds Point-New Madrid basin which have been flooded in the past, must be completed before the river bank levee can be lowered to create the "fuse-plug."

Contracts let, with the bid recommended here this week, cover a little more than 28½ miles of the setback levee, all but the five miles which has been under backwater. The three sections already under contract include two for which $186,000 each is available now, with $200,000 in prospect for each next year, and one on which $220,480 is to be spent this year and $280,000 to be asked for next year.

Whatever happens in the Boeuf and Atchafalaya projects, engineers stated, the legal delays to the Southeast Missouri and Bonnet Carre floodways probably have not been long enough to dangerously postpone completion of the work. The main river levees are the "first line of defense" in the great undertaking to control the Mississippi, and, as the strengthened levees demonstrated this summer, can defeat moderate floods of the type expected to recur about one year in five.

Organization of America, was as follows:

"I have your request for a statement that may be presented at the meeting this evening in New York.

"I am glad of the opportunity to express my profound sympathy with those who have been bereaved and who have suffered through these disturbances. Good citizens in every country deplore these outbreaks and this loss of life. Our Government is deeply concerned not only in this broader sense but in the narrower sense of the protection of the lives of American citizens.

"Our advices are that the vigorous action taken by the British Government has restored a large measure of protection, although that Government is still faced with great burdens from this outbreak of fanaticism. I know the whole world acknowledges the fine spirit shown by the British Government in accepting the mandate of Palestine in order that there might, under this protection be established a homeland so long desired by the Jews.

"Great progress has been made in this inspiring enterprise over these last ten years, and to this progress the American Jews have made enormous contribution. They have demonstrated not only the fine sentiment and ideals which inspire their activities but its practical possibility.

"I am confident out of these tragic events will come greater security and greater safeguards for the future, under which the steady rehabilitation of the Palestine as a true homeland will be even more assured. An immediate and pressing question is the relief to those who are suffering. The fine sympathy of the American people is already evidencing itself in this purpose and it should receive a most generous support."

The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution demanding immediate steps to restore law and order in Palestine; investigation of causes leading to the Arab outbreaks; dismissal of lax and incompetent officials; inclusion of a large percentage of Jews on the police force of Palestine; compensation for victims or their families; opening of the doors of Palestine to increased immigration; settlement of the Wailing Wall problem, and a complete public restatement of the British Government's policy in regard to the Balfour declaration and the Palestine mandate.

BOY'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENT

A Coroner's verdict of accident was returned today in the death of Norman Henderson, 8-year-old son of Edward Henderson, 502 Talcott avenue, who died at City Hospital Wednesday of injuries suffered in an automobile accident Aug. 8.

Testimony was that the boy ran into the path of a car driven by Leo Vogt, a carpenter of Portage des Sioux, Mo.

Did You See the Big Parade of 49,109 Used Cars....Inviting You to Select Yours?

THAT number of Classified Automobile advertisements appeared in the Post-Dispatch Classified Columns during the first six months of 1929—49,109.

And the number of separate advertisements in the Post-Dispatch during the first half of 1929 was 12,432 more than appeared in all the other St. Louis Newspapers combined.

COMMENT OF BRITISH PRESS ON PALESTINE

Daily News Warns Against Ignoring Signs of Further Arabic Outbreaks.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—With more reassuring news from Palestine, many British newspapers today devoted their attention chiefly to an analysis of the situation confronting Great Britain in the Near East and in the Moslem world generally since the danger of Arab-Jewish fighting had been minimized by the presence of troops in Palestine.

The liberal Daily News, in a leading article, expresses the opinion that while Palestine is momentarily safe from further outbreaks and indiscriminate pillaging, the wider danger to British interests is unfortunately still as real as it is incalculable. The newspaper remarks that there is great excitement over the Palestine situation in many parts of the Arab world. One rumor is that the famous Druse chief, Sultan El Atrache, is assembling large forces in Syria for an attack on Palestine through Trans-Jordania.

Arabs Calling for Unity.

Although Trans-Jordania itself has been reported quiet, the Daily News finds that the Arab excitement is expressing itself widely in vehement demonstrations and call for "unity" in Arab countries under the kingship of Ibn Saud, King of the Herjas and Sultan of Nejd.

The Daily News declares that to ignore these signs would be "to lend ourselves to the combustible elements of Arab nature and the possibilities of a senseless holy war emerging from the sudden racial flareup in Palestine."

It is of the utmost importance that the British Government should possess itself of vital information upon all Arab movements outside of Palestine, above all that the British Government should get in friendly touch with Ibn Saud.

"It is within his power to keep peace or break it. He exercises immense influence over a wide expanse of Arab territory."

Referring to the recent breakdown of negotiations between the British Government and Ibn Saud over various outstanding questions, the Daily News declares that to come to a proper understanding with the famous Arab leader would be to reduce the difficulties of the British task in Palestine and remove a far-reaching menace.

Daily Mail Opposes Mandate.

The Daily Mail considers there is no excuse for Great Britain going on with the mandate, saying:

"We want nothing out of Palestine, and get nothing but annoyance and expense. We should return our mandate to the League of Nations and recall our troops and civil officials."

The Daily Chronicle thinks otherwise, holding the occasion is one for assertion by the British Government that it will in nowise be deflected from the principles laid down in the Balfour declaration and the text of the British mandate.

"It ought to be clearly re-affirmed that Great Britain stands on the mandate. The whole mandate and nothing but the mandate," it says.

The Conservative Morning Post suggests the troubles in Palestine are partly the result of British policy toward Egypt and says the dismissal of Lord Lloyd, British High Commissioner to Egypt, must have profoundly impressed the Arab world as an indication British rule is weakening. For the moment, it adds, Great Britain is facing a challenge that this rule must end.

FOUR PILOTS IN OHIO DERBY AT CLEVELAND RACES

Efficiency Contest, Scheduled Today, Postponed—Plane in Solo Endurance Effort Still Up.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—Four pilots took off from the National Air Race field here today on the rim of Ohio Derby.

J. O. Donaldson of Newark, N. J., left at 2:24; H. L. Atkinson, New York, followed at 2:25; W. J. Barrows, San Francisco, at 2:25:30, and Lorin W. Mendell of Los Angeles at 2:26.

The race goes to Toledo, Dayton and Cincinnati, where the pilots will spend the night, and then to Marietta and back to Cleveland tomorrow.

It was announced at the airport that the Buffalo efficiency race, which had been scheduled for today, has been postponed.

The Emsco plane, piloted by Thomas G. Reid of Downey, Cal., in an effort to break the world's solo endurance record, was going strong at 2:45 p. m., having been in the air 27 hours and 41 minutes.

He is attempting to break the record set by Herbert Fahy of Burbank, Cal., at the Los Angeles airport, May 25, 1929. Fahy flew 36 hours, 56 minutes and 36 seconds.

Lieut. W. E. Arnold speeding 100 miles around the 10-lap course with an average of 127.58 miles an hour today won a race for 18 planes of "Fighting One,' the Navy's first pursuit squadron from the airplane carrier Saratoga. Ensign C. G. Ironmonger was second at 126.97 miles an hour, and Lieut. F. C. Sutton, third, at 126.5. Their commander, Lieut. H. C. Wick, was not among the leaders.

Officials announced that Roscoe Turnr, Hnry J. Brown and John P. Wood, ntrants in the Los Angeles to Cleveland non-stop derby, would take off at midnight within a few minutes of each other for the flight to Cleveland.

Clarence Chamberlin of New York won the second section of the 50-mile race for light planes. He made a speed of 114.8 miles an hour. I. W. Brown of New York was second. There were 11 planes in the race. The first section of the same event was run yesterday and Verne L. Roberts of Moline, Ill., won with a speed of 129.18 miles an hour.

E. B. Heath of Chicago won a 50-mile race for civilian planes of less than 300 cubic inches piston displacement with an average speed of 109.46 miles an hour. H. A. Speer, Marshall, Mo., was second, and Lewis Love, Richmond, Ind., third.

Three flight lieutenants of the Royal Canadian Flying Corps F. E. Beamish, D. A. Harding and G. R. Howson, gave an exhibition of stunt flying that was one of the most thrilling spectacles of the week. Flying their all-metal Siskin pursuit planes, they dived within 25 feet of the heads of the crowd as hundreds of women screamed.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and two Navy pilots from the first pursuit squadron at San Diego, took the air for their third exhibition in as many days and exceeded their former spectacular and daring efforts, looping in formation and flying upside down in a group. Six Marine Corp Curtiss Hawks from Quantico, Va., went aloft for the first time since Sunday and simulated a three-way dog fight.

Hubert St. Martin of Montreal won the non-stop Toronto-to-Cleveland race for commercial planes in two hours ten minutes and 24 seconds, winning $2000 in prize money

Bids of seven cities for the 1930 national air races were in the hands of the National Aeronautical Association here today. Cleveland invited a return for next year. Other cities bidding for the event were Chicago, Miami, Fla.; Portland, Ore.; San Antonio, Tex.; St. Louis, and Washington.

CHARGED WITH VIOLATING LAW THAT TOOK EFFECT WEDNESDAY

The first prosecution here under statutes passed at the last session of the Legislature was instituted yesterday when warrants charging mislabeling and offering for sale bedding containing discarded materials were issued against Benjamin Chodorovsky, president of the Acme Bedding Co., 4131 Olive Street. The law, making the offense a misdemeanor, became effective Wednesday.

The statute requires that if discarded materials are used, they must be sterilized by an approved method and the bedding labeled accordingly.

Wife Divorces Arnold Licklider.

RECIPES FOR DISHES IN WEEK'S MENUS

The filet is tne tenderloin of beef, and is a solid piece of meat costing from 85 cents to a dollar a pound. Individual filets are made from thick slices of the whole filet. The butcher will cut them and skewer them in shape. Have them not less than an inch thick and a strip of bacon rolled around each. A pound and a half will make six good sized filets. They should be cooked quite rare, allowing about six minutes broiling on each side. Arrange on a hot platter and pour a rich, brown mushroom sauce over them. This is made from three tablespoons of the fat that cooks out in the broiling pan, four tablespoons flour, a teaspoon minced onion, one cup of fresh mushrooms, or one can of the button mushrooms and one and one-half cups of water. Very often these individual filets are served on rounds of toast cut the same size as the filet.

Melon Ball Cocktails.

Use honey-dew or honey ball melon or pink cantaloupe for this. Chill the melon, cut in half, remove the seeds and then cut the pulp with a small vegetable ball cutter. These cutters in several sizes are very useful bits of equipment and can be bought for about 10 cents each. A small and a medium sized one will be found useful in cutting vegetables for salads, potato balls, fruits, etc. To get back to the melon cocktail, allow eight balls for a serving. Put them in a bowl and pour over them the juice of one small orange and one fresh lime and one teaspoon powdered sugar. Let stand 20 minutes, arrange in glasses, sprinkle with a teaspoon of crushed ice and some finely chopped mint.

Apricot Ice Cream.

Wash a dozen fresh, ripe apricots, cut in half, remove the pit and rub the fruit through a coarse strainer. Add the juice of one lemon and one cup of granulated sugar. Mix and cover. Mix two cups of thin cream with one cup of undiluted evaporated milk and three-fourths cup of sugar. Scald and chill. Add the apricot pulp and freeze in a freezer until the mixture thickens, then add the beaten whites of two eggs and continue freezing until stiff. If you wish to freeze the ice cream in a mechanical refrigerator, add one tablespoon of gelatine to the milk and stir the mixture several times during freezing, which will take about four hours. Makes about a quart of ice cream.

Scrambled Eggs.

A nice dish is scrambled eggs and tomatoes. Take the yolks of six eggs and whites of three, one tablespoon butter, one cup top or rich sweet milk and one-half teaspoon salt. Put ingredients into a buttered pan and stir quickly over a slow heat until a soft, creamy mass. Put slices of raw tomatoes on strips of dry toast and pour the eggs over toast and tomatoes.

STYLES IN EATING CHANGE AS WELL AS DRESS STYLES

Use of Salads and Raw Foods Has More Than Doubled in Past Decade.

Styles in eating change just as surely as do styles in clothing—not so rapidly or so often, but a glance through any old cook book or a talk with one who kept house 50 years ago even, will prove that our habits of eating today are quite different from those of our grandparents.

Then every meal had to include several meat dishes and usually some kind of game or fish as well. Few salads or green vegetables were used in comparison with the quantities of these that we use today. The use of salads and raw foods has more than doubled in ten years' time.

Reducing diets have brought about a smaller consumption of bread, pastries and potatoes and have increased the amounts of fruits, both fresh and canned, vegetables, eggs and milk.

SIMPLE WAFFLE RECIPE

Almost Every Housewife Has a Favorite Recipe of Her Own.

When eggs are scarce, why not try making one-egg waffles. Use one and one-half cups flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one and three-fourths cups milk, one egg and two tablespoons melted butter.

Mix dry ingredients, add milk slowly, egg beaten very light and the melted butter. Beat batter for two minutes and drop by spoonfuls on well greased, hot waffle iron.

WHAT OTHERS SAY
"I have used
Blanke's Faust Coffee
for over 20 years. I realize it costs more, but it is well worth it. If I want my cup of coffee to cost less, I use BLANKE'S WHOLESOME. A one-pound can will make as many cups as 3 pounds of ordinary coffee and a much better cup than can be made out of a cheap straight coffee." Ask your dealer.

All the full-flavored juice of sun-ripened tomatoes, blended with piquant, savory spices, with just a dash of appetizing tabasco flavor. That's Brooks Catsup flavored with tabasco peppers—On the grocer's shelves in the distinctive tapered bottle. Order a bottle today.

TEMPTING DESSERTS ARE EASY TO MAKE

Majority of Them Combinations of Fruit and Other Types of Food.

Busy days do not afford much time for the preparation of desserts; yet desserts are quite essential to form the proper ending for dinner. Men particularly like desserts.

Here are several any one of which requires not more than 10 minutes time spent in actual preparation.

Several which require no cooking are very appropriate for a raw food or reducing diet, while they also are most desirable to help in the digestion of a substantial dinner.

Chocolate Surprise.

Take one-quarter pound dipping chocolate or one-half pound sweet chocolate and two tablespoons of cold water, six rounds sponge cake and six slices pineapple.

Melt chocolate over hot water and remove from fire. Drain pineapple well and dip one slice at a time into chocolate. Place on rounds of cake slightly larger than the fruit. Fill centers with whipped cream.

Chartreuse of Jelly.

Cut out the center of a round stale sponge cake, leaving the bottom and sides thick enough to hold a quart of jelly. Prepare a lemon, orange, strawberry or any fruit jelly, and when it is cold and just ready to form, turn into the cake and set aside in a cool place or in ice. When ready to serve cover the top with the chilled, sweetened and flavored whipped cream, or whipped evaporated milk.

Peacharoon.

Heat sliced peaches in their own sauce with two slices of orange, and let simmer about 5 minutes. Pour one-third the amount out in a serving dish, then lay in a layer of broken macaroons and finish with peaches. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Peach Melba.

A simple way of making this dish is to place in the bottom of a sherbet glass half a peach. Put a scoopful of vanilla ice cream on this, with another peach half on top. A little whipped cream should be added and then the peach syrup. A few pieces of candied cherries may be used to garnish.

PLAZA MOLD IS A NAME FOR AN ICE CREAM DISH

Any Family Cook Interested in Meringues Can Make This Dish.

Plaza mold is made with ice cream and baked apples. First, bake the apples according to these directions: Take six apples, one cup sugar and red coloring or cinnamon redhot candies and six cups water.

To water, add cinnamon candies and sugar; bring to a boil and stir until dissolved.

Drop apples into syrup and cook gently (do not boil) until tender, about 15 minutes, turning carefully with wooden spoon; remove to platter to cool. Boil syrup until it drops off spoon like jelly; chill.

Scoop center from the cooked apples and fill with ice cream. Cover with a meringue made by whipping two egg whites until dry and folding in six tablespoons sugar gradually. Place apples in hot oven, about 400 degrees, until meringue is delicately brown. Serve on small plates with the syrup from the apples as a sauce.

TRY THIS CHOCOLATE DESSERT

A Dainty Dessert Which Appeals To Feminine Appetites.

Chocolate custard makes a dainty dessert for a family meal. To make it take one quart milk, two eggs, two and one-half heaping tablespoons cornstarch, two heaping tablespoons grated chocolate, six tablespoons sugar.

Heat milk in double boiler. When at boiling point add eggs well beaten with cornstarch, then add sugar, a pinch of salt. Stir mixture constantly until it is about of the consistence of custard. Then take from fire, add one teaspoon vanilla extract. Cool.

Pour into sherbet glasses and serve with a portion of whipped cream on top of each glass.

NUTS ARE VALUABLE FOOD

They Should Have an Important Place in the Diet.

Nuts supply a good form of vegetable protein and should have an important place in the diet.

They are readily digested if they are ground or finely chopped, and in this form may be used in a number of combinations with rice or other cereals, with vegetables or fruits.

Peanut butter offers a very convenient form of making use of ground nuts and it may be either made at home, though the commercial varieties are excellent, are well blended and inexpensive.

Many nut dishes, such as loaves, croquettes and salad mixtures, are fine for the summer diets.

FASCINATING TAFFY APPLES

These Are the Variety That Are Served for Dessert.

Two cups light brown sugar, quarter cup molasses, two tablespoons vinegar, two tablespoons vanilla, two tablespoons water, quarter teaspoon salt and quarter cup butter.

Boil sugar, molasses, vinegar, water and salt until it forms a brittle ball when tried in cold water. When brittle remove from fire, add butter and just before turning into pan add vanilla. Have the apples washed and dried. Dip into this mixture on the end of a little stick or fork. Cook on a buttered pan.

QUALITY & ECONOMY — NATION-WIDE SERVICE GROCERS — SERVICE AND SATISFACTION

PLANNING MENUS FOR THE COMING WEEK

Seek to Avoid Monotony by Using New Combinations and Flavors.

Sunday's meals this week have been planned with a view to those special guests whom we wish to entertain with a particularly nice dinner and an appetizing but simpler supper. At the same time we want to fit the meal to the weather and to serve foods that are light but satisfying.

A well chilled melon ball cocktail is sufficiently 'different" to have a place on a company menu, and it forms the first course in the dinner planned.

Make the balls from the little ripe honey ball melons as the flavor is very delicate However, a nice pink fleshed cantaloupe adds an attractive note of color, or the regular honey-dew melon may be used. Fresh lime juice and chopped mint are the secrets of the mixture and the things that give it such a delightful, refreshing flavor.

Of course, any fruit cocktail mixture might be substituted for this if you do not care for the melon, but remember to keep it tart in flavor, harmonious in color and to serve it well chilled.

Instead of the more commonplace roast, select broiled filets of beef for the meat course These are a bit of an extravagance but are well worth the cost, and a less expensive meat meal can be planned for some other day.

Since there will be no left-overs in the meat line from Sunday, it will perhaps be desirable to use a roast on Monday. In this instance either a leg or shoulder of lamb with mint sauce and pan browned potatoes will be a good buy and provide an appetizing meal. There will be cold lamb for one other dinner and a hash for lunch, thus solving three meals' meat question at once.

Swiss chard is an excellent summer green and deserves to be more used. It is appearing more often in our markets now and is usually sold in bunches. It does not cook down as much as spinach, so that two bunches generally makes five good servings. Choose those having medium sized leaves. Wash them and break or cut in pieces, retaining the white midribs. In large chard these midribs may be cut in pieces and cooked separately, then served with a butter sauce or creamed like asparagus. The green leaves are cooked in boiling, salted water for 20 minutes, drained, chopped and seasoned with butter, salt and pepper. A few drops of lemon juice is a good addition.

Simple desserts are the best for this time of year—fresh fruits are so plentiful and in such variety that it is a good plan to use them as often as possible. Gelatine desserts using fresh fruits or fruit juices are attractive and a easily digested, while at the same time they satisfy the desire for a sweet of some kind at the end of the meal.

MAKE A SPAGHETTI RING FILLED WITH SHRIMPS

Very Attractive One-Dish Meal for Informal Company Luncheon.

Take one-half package spaghetti, one tablespoon butter, one-half small onion, one-half teaspoon green peppers, minced, one-half teaspoon salt, two eggs, one-half cup cheese, one-half cup canned mushrooms, one-fourth cup milk, one-half cup tomato puree and one-half teaspoon thyme.

Drop spaghetti into boiling salted water and cook until tender, then drain. Put butter into a saucepan. When hot add minced onion and pepper with mushrooms and let simmer a few minutes. Beat egg yolks and mix with milk; add to onion, pepper and mushrooms. Then add tomato puree, salt, thyme, grated cheese and spaghetti. Mix thoroughly. Lastly fold in beaten egg whites, pour into a ring form set in hot water and bake in a moderate oven until firm, about 45 minutes.

SMALL PICKLED ONIONS

Very Convenient to Have a Supply on Hand for Next Winter.

Use smallest "button" onions and pour over boiling water to remove skins.

Make a brine of ½ cup salt to one quart boiling water, scald the onions in it and let stand 24 hours; drain; pack in sterilized glass jars, adding a little white mustard seed and thin slices of red peppers to each jar; pour over boiling tarragon vinegar; add one tablespoon olive oil to top of each jar and seal when cold; if onions are desired spiced (this will darken them), add one-half ounce each of allspice, peppercorns, mustard seed and mace to each four quarts of vinegar.

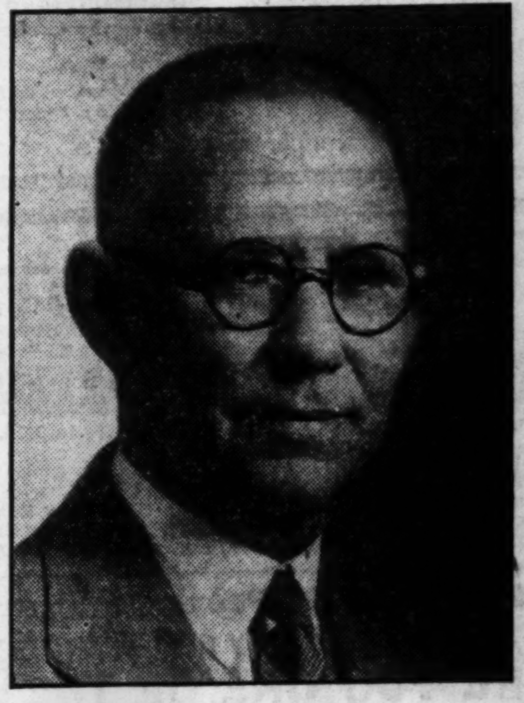
Canned Tomatoes by Cold Pack Method.

Scald tomatoes three minutes. Remove skin and blossom end. Pack whole or cut in halves. Fill jars to neck with tomato juice. Add one teaspoon salt and one tablespoon sugar to quarts, or half for pints. Place scalded new rubber in position, adjust lid loosely and process 2 minutes. Tighten covers immediately.

If oven method is used, place jars in pan, set pan on rack in oven, which is in the same position as for baking; then set regulator at 250 degrees, light oven and process 1 hour for quarts, 40 minutes for pints. Remove from oven and seal immediately.

"A LOAF OF YOUR BEST BREAD"
MEANS BOND IN THIS STORE

"They want the best so I send BOND"



JOHN F. LUEBKE
"The finest, with service" is the slogan of his store at 706 DeMunBlvd. He's had 30 years' experience. Those who "Phone for Food" call PArkview 7070.

Housewives who order "a loaf of bread" without naming the brand show confidence in my judgment. My understanding in such cases is that the housewife wants the best I have. Therefore I fill all these orders with Bond Bread. Long experience has demonstrated the soundness of this policy. Once really known, home-like Bond Bread is always used.

TOMATO PRESERVES FOR NEXT WINTER

Perhaps the Conserve Has a Stronger Appeal Than the Jelly or Jam.

Of all our summer vegetables tomatoes easily are the most versatile, as they may be served raw, cooked, as a vegetable, pickled, jellied and preserved.

It is mainly in regard to making tomato condiments and relishes that we are concerned today, the making of tomato jelly, preserves and marmalade.

For marmalade use four quarts ripe tomatoes, six lemons one cup seeded raisins and four pounds sugar.

Peel tomatoes and cut in thin slices. Wash lemons and slice very thin. Put all ingredients in sauce pan and cook slowly for about one and one-half hours, or until mixture is of the consistency of marmalade. Turn into sterilized glasses or jars and seal at once.

Tomato Jelly

Cut ripe (but not overripe) tomatoes in quarters or thick slices; let cook in a double boiler or sauce pan over slow fire until soft throughout. Then drain in jelly-bag; do not squeeze bag or too much pulp for a clear jelly will be taken.

For each quart of juice add thinly sliced rind and juice of a lemon. Let boil 20 minutes then add three-fourths cup sugar for each cup juice and let cook until a little of the mixture jellies on a cold saucer.

Turn into hot sterilized jars or jelly glasses and when cold cover with melted paraffin and lid.

Sliced Tomato Conserve.

Use the small, ripe, egg-shaped yellow tomatoes. Weigh out three pounds, wash, drain and cut in half.

Put in a kettle with two pounds of brown sugar, one cup of vinegar, two cups of seedless raisins and the peel of one lemon cut in very fine shreds, the juice of a lemon and the same amount of spice as is used in the preceding recipe. Mix these and boil all together about an hour or until as thick as jam.

Pour into jars and seal while hot or cover with melted paraffine. If you would like recipes for a few other pickles, write me, inclosing a stamp for reply.

GREEN TOMATOES MAKE A SIMPLY DELICIOUS PIE

This Vegetable is Available From Now on Until Frost Comes.

One of the delicious pies that the rural cooks make is green tomato pie. It is considered a real delicacy and coming, as it does, when the summer fruits and berries have ended their seasons, green tomato pie is a much appreciated dessert.

Green Tomato Pie

Take two cups of green tomatoes after they have been chopped fine and the water squeezed out. Add six apples chopped fine, two cups sugar, one-half cup of vinegar, one-half cup of molasses, one cup of raisins, spices to taste. Cook all together slowly and when done add a little salt and a spoonful of flour, which has been made smooth in a little water.

Bake with two crusts the same as you would mince pie. It filling is packed in a jar it will keep for several days.

Recipe No. 2.

Slice green tomatoes into a tin lined with pastry Sprinkle with the juice of one-half lemon and about three-quarter cup sugar and a few grains of salt. Dot with one tablespoon butter. Cover with pastry and cook in a rather quick oven.

MACARONI AND OLIVE SAUCE

One of the Nicest Ways to Prepare This Popular Food Product.

One-half pound marcaroni, three tablespoons butter or shortening, two cups canned tomatoes, one-quarter cup sliced onion, one-quarter cup diced celery, one-third cup sliced stuffed olives.

Boil the macaroni until tender, drain and rinse with cold water. Melt the butter, add the onion and cook slowly for five minutes. Add the tomatoes and season to taste with salt and pepper. Reheat to the boiling point and simmer for ten minutes.

Thicken with a tablespoon of flour and add the olives.

Pour the sauce over the macaroni and let stand on the back of the stove or over a very low flame for five minutes to thoroughly heat the macaroni, and allow the sauce to flavor it.

ANOTHER STEP IN MARKETING

Fresh Meats Sold in Branded Packages Like Other Package Foods.

One of the interesting developments in the marketing of meat is the announcement that certain cuts of fresh meat, such as lamb and pork chops and other preferred cuts of quality pork and lamb, may now be purchased in a cellophane wrapped package branded definitely as to contents and quality.

The packages are small, the chops being ready cut and trimmed, so that they may be popped into the broiler at once.

Coffee Custard.

Scald two cups milk with two tablespoons ground coffee and strain. Beat four eggs lightly and add one-fourth cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon vanilla and the milk. Strain in pan of hot water and bake until firm.

Kidney Beans and Bacon.

Wash and soak two cups kidney beans in cold water over night; drain, cover with boiling water, add ¼ pound bacon, boil until beans are tender, and drain. Season beans with salt and pepper to taste. Brown thin slices of bacon in frying pan, and serve over beans.

"Look, John, It's HAN-DEE BREAD Sliced Ready to Serve!"

Rarely, indeed, has there been a new idea in the packaging of foods that has met with the quick success accorded HAN-DEE BREAD—sliced ready to serve.

To thousands upon thousands of homes, HAN-DEE BREAD has brought convenience, economy, cleanliness, and safety.

No breadboard to get out and no breadknife to hunt up. Every slice as much like the other as two peas in a pod—none thin, none thick—each just right. No crumbs to make work. No knife to risk cuts.

It is the first time in the centuries of bread making that bread sliced in the bakery has been distributed through the grocer to the households of his customers, arriving there as fresh as unsliced bread, and, in addition, holding its freshness longer.

Gustav C. Papendick's invention of the Papendick Sliced Bread Tray made the packaging sanitary and successful. His discovery that slicing and wrapping distributed the moisture content throughout the loaf explains why HAN-DEE BREAD maintains its freshness and deliciouness for so long a time.

No better bread is made than HAN-DEE BREAD. It abounds in easily digestible nutritive properties, developed by scientific baking, and is of a fascinating natural wheat flavor. HAN-DEE BREAD—sliced ready to serve—is today the most popular bread in this city.

HAN-DEE BREAD is uniform in quality. The pleasure it gave your neighbor yesterday, may be yours today. Do not hesitate to order it. We promise you the happiest bread experience you ever enjoyed.

STUFFED BREAST OF VEAL

Savory Way of Cooking This Favorite Cut of Meat.

Purchase about a four-pound breast of veal and have the butcher bone the meat and make a pocket in it.

For the stuffing take three cups soft bread crumbs, one cup seeded raisins, one apple, four tablespoons bacon fat, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon pepper.

Bone veal and make pocket. Mix stuffing in order given. Stuff cavity and sew firmly but loosely. Dust with one-fourth cup flour; place in hot oven and sear thoroughly 15 to 20 minutes; reduce heat to 325 degrees and add one and one-half cups water; cover and bake 1 and one-half hours.

OMELET IS ONE OF THE VERY VERSATILE TYPES OF FOOD

This Dish May Be Made With Fruit, Vegetables, Fish or Meat.

Omelet is a versatile dish, for it may be served either as a main dish, or else dressed up a bit, and used as a dessert.

For instance, there is corn omelet. It makes a fine main dish for a family meal; and then, there is peach omelet, which partakes of dessert characteristics, and is often used as a sweet a the conclusion of a very light meal.

A nice corn omelet may be made according to this recipe: Select five small ears of plump corn and score the rows and scrape out the pulp. Beat five eggs until light and fluffy. Add one teaspoon of cream and pepper and salt to taste. Heat a buttered iron frying pan until red-hot. Pour in mixture and shake or tilt pan until omelet is evenly cooked. When nicely browned, roll and serve on hot platter.

Peach Omelet.

Make a delicious peach omelet with four eggs. Beat yolks and whites separately, adding four tablespoons cold water to yolks, also a pinch of salt. Melt two tablespoons butter in frying pan and pour in the omelet mixture. Bake in a moderate oven about 20 minutes or until eggs are firm.

When cooked, cut through the center and put one cup pared and drained fresh peaches and one tablespoon butter in center of one of the halves. Fold omelet and turn onto a hot platter. Sprinkle with powdered sugar and arrange sliced peaches around the omelet for a sauce.

Cut Dishwashing Time in half

this test shows how

SUPER SUDS

Make this amazing test!

Put a teaspoonful of Super Suds in a glass; a teaspoonful of any chip or flake in another. Now fill both glasses with water cool enough to be comfortable for hands.

Instantly, every bit of Super Suds rushes into suds all through the water. Instantly every drop of water in the glass becomes creamy with soapiness. While in the other glass, gummy chips float about, dissolving very slowly.

YOU can save from 4 to 6 hours of dishwashing time each week. You can have beautifully clean dishes with half the time and labor. For a wonderful new soap has been invented that dissolves instantly—completely. A soap that cuts dishwashing time in 3 important ways.

No waiting for suds. In hard water, even in water cool enough to keep hands soft and white, Super Suds always gives instant rich suds. No time wasted coaxing, stirring, waiting, as with chips or flakes.

Dishwiping no longer necessary. Every trace of Super Suds rinses away in one hot rinse. Dishes drain sparkling dry, without wiping.

Super Suds
BEADS OF SOAP

Why Super Suds is different

Super Suds is not a chip. Not a powder. It is soap in tiny "beads"—made by spraying melted soap from high steel towers. As the soap falls it forms naturally into millions of tiny hollow beads. Incredibly thin. Instant dissolving!

Get Super Suds today for dishwashing tonight. Use it for laundry too. Your grocer has Super Suds.

TOMATOES WITH SAUERKRAUT

This Is An Appetizing and Very Wholesome Luncheon Dish.

Wash six large, firm, ripe tomatoes, cut a slice from the top of each and scoop out most of the inside. This may be used to make a jellied tomato bouillon or salad.

Drain the juice from the sauerkraut and stuff each tomato with the kraut. Place in a baking pan, put strips of bacon across the top of each tomato, and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes or until the tomatoes are tender.

Remove carefully to thin slices of toast, add a teaspoon of flour to the juice in the baking pan and then stir in three-fourths cup of milk. Let boil up, season with a dash of Worcestershire sauce and pour over the tomatoes. Serve hot.

White Banner Malt Extract

ALWAYS THE SAME—YES ALWAYS!

PUT UP GRAPE JUICE AND MARMALADE

Make Haste Because in a Few Days the Grape Season Will Be Over.

When making grape jelly or grape juice, make one extraction only, and do not squeeze bag so that the pulp may be used for making grape butter

Grape Juice.

Wash thoroughly ripe grapes, remove from stems. Put into kettle, mash and heat slowly. Cook until soft. Strain through jelly bag without squeezing. Measure juice, add one cup of sugar for each cup of juice. Bring to boiling point and boil five minutes. Turn into sterilized bottles or jars and seal while hot.

Grape Butter

Grape butter is made of two cups grape pulp, two cups apple pulp, two cups water, two cups brown sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon mace and one-fourth teaspoon cloves.

To grape and apple pulp add water; cover and simmer 20 minutes, using a low flame. Press through a sieve, rejecting seeds and skins. Add sugar and spices and cook slowly until thick, about 30 minutes.

Grape Conserve.

For grape conserve take two quarts grapes, two oranges, one pound seeded raisins, one pound English walnut meats and two and one-half pounds sugar.

Wash grapes, remove stems and separate pulp and skins. Place half the skins in a small amount of water and cook for five minutes. Throw away the rest of the skins as the conserve is too strong if all the skins are used. Cook the pulp slowly until it is soft. Put through colander orcoarse sieve. Add pulp and rind of oranges, sugar, raisins and grape skins. Boil the mixture for five minutes. Add chopped nuts; turn into sterilized jars and seal.

Grape Marmalade.

Stem the grapes and measure them, allowing a cup of sugar for each half pint. Pulp the grapes, keeping the skins for further use. Extract the seeds by boiling the pulp until tender, then rubbing it through a fine colander. Put the pulp, juice and skins over the fire in a preserving kettle and add the sugar. Boil until very thick. Pour into jars and seal.

PRESERVED CITRON MELLON IS A DAINTY SPICED SWEET

Put It Up Now as It Is Very Useful for Holiday Cookery.

Cut the citron in quarters, scrape out the seeds and the soft center, cut in strips and then into fancy shapes as desired. Weigh the fruit and to six pounds allow six pounds of sugar, four lemons, and one-fourth pound of green ginger root. Wash the ginger root thoroughly, cut in pieces, tie in a piece of cheesecloth and boil in one and one-half quarts of water for about half an hour.

Remove the ginger, add to the water the sugar, lemon juice and the grated lemon rind. If desired the lemon rind may be cut in very thin strips instead of grating. Stir over a slow fire until the sugar is dissolved; add the citron and cook slowly until the citron is clear, golden in color, and tender enough to pierce easily with a fork. This will take anywhere from one to two hours. Stir frequently to avoid scorching.

When done, seal in small sterilized jars.

CURRY OF CHICKEN

Cut up a small chicken as for fricassee and boil in enough water to cover it until fowl is tender. Salt to taste.

When chicken is tender, drain off liquor in bowl. Put two onions, sliced in a frying pan with a piece of butter and fry until vegetables are brown.

Add the chicken and fry three minutes. Sprinkle two teaspoons curry powder over fowl and add chicken liquor. Cook for five minutes and thicken with one tablespoon of flour wet in a little water. Stir in beaten yolk of one egg.

Chipped Beef for Gravy.

Pour boiling water over two cups shredded, chipped beef; let stand five minutes; drain thoroughly. Melt two tablespoons butter, browning it slightly; blend it with two tablespoons flour; add three-quarters cup cold water gradually. Cook until smooth, stirring constantly. Place over hot water, add one-half teaspoon beef extract or one bouillon cube, salt and pepper to taste. If the bouillon cube is used, little additional seasoning is necessary. Then stir in the prepared beef. Serve with hot baked potatoes. Left-over meat gravy may be utilized in preparing this dish.

Another Plum Jelly.

For plum jelly select tart sour plums. Wash, cut in halves and cover plums with cold water; boil gently until soft; strain through cheesecloth; measure juice. To each cup of juice add three-fourths cup of sugar. Cook juice and sugar together about five or eight minutes, or until it jells, on saucer or sheets off a spoon. The sweeter plums need Certo or apple juice to make them jell.

Another Grape Salad.

Dice grapefruit and orange pulp and mix with grapes which have been cut in halves and seeded. Serve with four tablespoons boiled dressing to which has been added four tablespoons whipped cream.

EX-CONVICT SOUGHT FOR MISSOURI KILLING, SURRENDERS

Prisoner Denies Shooting Man in Auto and Wounding Woman and Others.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 30.—Jim Cropper, ex-convict of Ozark County, sought for the ambush killing of Arvil Shipley, 21 years old, Fairfax (Mo.) farmer, last Wednesday, surrendered to Sheriff L. S. Stephens at Gainesville today.

Cropper was placed in jail and bound over wtihout bond to the November term of court. Although Cropper denied any part in the shooting, he was identified by Edgar Hurd, brother-in-law of the slain man, as the person he saw fleeing after two shots were fired at the Shipley car on the highway near Sycamore.

Cropper has been the object of a hunt by posses and bloodhounds, but he declared this morning he did not learn he was sought until yesterday afternoon.

A Coroner's jury returned a verdict indicating Shipley met death "from shotgun wounds from a gun in the hands of Jim Cropper." Cropper is said to have accused Shipley of having "tipped off" officers as to the whereabouts of a still they found on his farm some time ago.

In the ambuscade, Mrs. Shipley, her 14-month-old baby and Edgar Hurd, her brother, were injured by shotgun slugs.

REVOLUTION COST MEXICAN GOVERNMENT $11,400,000

Chief Loss by Gen Escobar's Outbreak Was in Damage to Property.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 30.—The Mexican revolution, headed by Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar last spring, cost the Federal Government approximately $11,400,000. Figures published by the Treasury Department yesterday contained this estimate. At the same time the Department announced its expectation that the cost would have been entirely made up by the end of this year.

Besides about $7,000,000 worth of repairs to property damage during the hostilities, of costs of mobilizing and maintaining an army and of purchasing military equipment, the Government's income diminished $3,500,000 through temporary rebel occupation of certain parts of Mexico. Approximately $900,000 more was stolen from branches of the National Bank of Mexico by rebel raiders, according to the official estimate. One of the greatest economies was effected in the army by reduction of its personnel.

MEXICAN 'DIVORCE MILL' UNDER INQUIRY, NEWSPAPER SAYS

U. S. Embassy, However, Denies Making Representations That Caused Investigation.

By the Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 30.—The Mexican Foreign Office has ordered complete investigation of a "divorce mill" at Cuernavaca, capital of Morelos, patronized in recent years by numerous Americans, according to the newspaper, La Prensa.

La Prensa says the investigation which may lead to annulments was ordered as the result of representations made by the American embassy folowing a complaint from an American woman who alleged her husband obtained a divorce without notifying her. The embassy denied making any such representations.

SALESMAN
Experienced Upholstered Furniture Man

National organization wants a salesman for Chicago to handle a special chemical now being used by many of the best stores in St. Louis, Grand Rapids and practically all large cities. It is the only chemical recognized by the furniture manufacturers and dealers nationally to take care of the moth, tow bug and tobacco beetle problem. Must have car; straight commission basis; compensation on established trade of the best stores in the city. Proposition worth from three to five thousand a year. Address KEYSTONE CHEMICAL CO., Inc., Cleveland, O. (c5)

SALESMEN

We have additional openings in the outside organization of our washing machine department for salesmen to arrange demonstrations and follow up sales prospects.

More than half of our outside salesmen have been in this department over one year, many of them for two years. Few straight commission propositions can make such a showing.

An attractive year-around proposition is offered to men who have had electrical sales experience and who can give evidence of ability to represent us with distinction in the homes of our customers.

FAMOUS-BARR CO. (c5)

HAWAIIAN PINEAPPLE STOCK DIVIDEND OF 20 PER CENT

By the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, Aug. 30.—Directors of the Hawaiian Pineapple Co., Ltd., have voted to recommend to the stockholders the issuance of a 20 per cent stock dividend amounting to approximately 125,000 shares valued at $2,500,000. The stock would be issued Jan. 1, 1930, to stock of record Nov. 15, 1929. If stockholders approve at their meeting, Oct. 11, the directors will continue the present regular dividend of $2 a share on the new capitalization.

Otis Steel Dividend.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Otis Steel Co. of Cleveland has placed the common stock on a $1.50 annual basis through the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents, the first to be paid on the common since the recapitalization of the company in 1926. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 was declared on the preferred stock. Both dividends are payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 19. An extra dividend of 50 cents was declared today on the common stock of the Bohn Aluminum & Brass Corporation, in addition to the regular quarterly disbursement of 75 cents. Both are payable Oct. 1, to stock of record Sept. 14.

Utility Stock Acquired.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The American Commonwealth's Power Corporation has acquired virtually the entire capital stock of the National Gas and Power Corporation and Lowell Gas and Light Company. The acquisition of these two systems adds considerably to the holdings of the company which controls the Community Power and Light Company, the General Public Utilities Company, the American Community Power Co., Union Gas Utilities and has holdings in Electric Investors Inc., United Light & Power Corporation and Long Island Lighting Co.

National Gas and Power operates chiefly in Michigan and Ohio, but has subsidiaries which serve Wisconsin, Colorado, the Carolinas, Virginia, Missouri and Alabama. Recently the company took over natural gas property in Newark, O. The present management will continue. Lowell Gas Light serves Lowell, Mass. and adjacent territory. It is an old established company, having been formed in 1850.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER ON NEW YORK MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The cotton market showed increasing strength and activity today owing to continued bullish crop advices and the failure of the weather map to show any relief from drouthy conditions in the Southwest. A private report making the condition of the crop 57.3 against 68.9 last month no doubt contributed to the advance which sent prices well above the 19 cent mark for October contracts. The buying then tapered off somewhat, and the mid-afternoon market was quieter at moderate reactions but still showed net gains of aobut 14 to 17 points.

Futures closed firm, 13 to 23 points higher; October, 19.06-08c; December, 19.40-43c; January 19.46-47c; March, 19.62-64c; May, 19.68-70c. Spot quiet; middling, 19.25c.

The market opened steady at advance of from two to eight points in response to steady Liverpool cables, the reported absence of further rains in the dry sections of the Southwest, the bullish private crop advices.

The advance met considerable realizing which caused slight reactions shortly after the opening, but the buying continued and before session had advanced far, active months were selling about 10 to 13 points above yesterday's closing quotations. December sold up to 19.30c and March to 19.57c. Cable advice from Liverpool said the market there had been influenced by fair trade calling, covering and local buying.

The market showed increasing activity and strength later in the morning. The buying became somewhat more general after the publication of the forecast for generally fair weather in Texas save for showers on the coast. Prices made new high ground for the movement. By midday, December had advanced to 19.38c and March to 19.64c, or 17 to 22 points net higher.

Vote Cotton Delivery Rules.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Members of the New York Cotton Exchange have adopted a number of amendments to the by-laws which will permit the actual setting up of the machinery to handle deliveries at five southern points—Norfolk, Charleston, Houston, Galveston and New Orleans—in addition to New York. Inspection agencies will be established at these points, and will use the official United States cotton standards that are used at New York.

CONVERTIBLE BONDS FEATURE OF TRADE

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 30. — The convertible list was well supported in today's before the holiday session in the bond market. The leaders held around their year's best prices. The Rails were the active features, continuing their advance of yesterday.

Money was unchanged and the large increase in brokers' loans seemed to be offset by the favorable sentiment created by the peaceful settlement reached at The Hague conference.

The rails again were the leaders and the more active issues added materially to their gains of yesterday. St. Paul adjustment 5s and Atchison convertible 4½s held around their year's peak prices. Canadian National Railway 4½s advanced more than a point and Chicago & Great Western 4s were strong. Union Pacific 4s were inclined to heaviness.

The telephone issues were turned over in good volume at advancing prices. International Telephone convertible 4½s got above 218 and American Telephone convertible 4½s moved above 220. In the speculative group American International 5½s gained ground.

WHEAT CLOSES FIRM ON CHICAGO BOARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Wheat traders paid passing notice to bear news today and the market assumed a stronger tone. The pit was chiefly attracted by the Argentine moisture situation. A late advance at Liverpool was attributed to American buying. Corn and other grains were strong, too, as another day brought fresh bullish observations

Wheat finished firm, unchanged to 7c higher, and corn firm ⅜c to ⅞c up; oats oats were strong, closing 1⅛@1¼c 1⅝@1½c higher and provisions weak, to 35 cents lower.*

Yesterday's buyers returned to the pits today and gave another lift to rgain futures prices.

Although there were weak moments at the start, wheat soon climbed 1½ cents over yesterday's finish. The opening was ⅛ cent higher to 1 cent lower, while corn started ⅛ cent lower, to ¾ cent higher with a firm undertone. Oats were ¼ cent to ⅞ cent higher and provisions irregular, 5 cents higher to 12 cents lower.

There were soft spots in the wheat market at the outset today, ascribed to early weakness from dull demand at Liverpool. One element in the situation was the Bank of Montreal report that wheat in the prairie provinces is yielding slightly better than expected, with fair grade threshed. The key to the market situation, however, seemed to be the varying reports from the Argentine. These were largely bullish and wheat here responded quickly to rest around a cent above yesterday's close. While early news told of rains in Argentina, later reports were that only light showers fell over the northern part of the country in an area unimportant agriculturally. A flurry of buying accompanied one report from New York that Argentina had suffered a frost, but this rumor was not confirmed. Argentine weather remains cold and dry, however, with chances of a good crop if a general rain comes soon.

Commission-house buying of late deliveries of corn lent strength to that market and December crossed $1.01 for the firt time in the present movement. Dry weather and diminished crop prospects were the main influence.

UTILITIES STRONG FEATURES ON CURB

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Under the stimulus of a revival of aggressive bullish activity in the utilities, the curb market displayed the greatest strength of the week today. Pre-holiday liquidation was for the most part easily absorbed, and while a few soft spots cropped out, the movement was overwhelmingly upward.

Electric Bond and Share was turned over in huge volume, rising about 8 points to a new high record at 184, to the accompaniment of rumors.

American Superpower, American and Foreign Power Warrants, American Light and Traction, Allied Power, United Gas Improvement, Insull Utility, and others made wide gains. Montreal Light, Heat and Power, a comparatively inactive issue, jumped 95 points to a new peak at 150.

Electric investors was under pressure for a time, dropping more than five points, but it rallied and closed fairly steady. The recently strong natural gas stocks were generally firm. Although natural fuel gas slipped off a couple of points.

Several industrials and specialties, notably food shares were in good demand. Carnation Milk, City Machine Tool, L'Air Liquide, Libbey McNeil, Crocker Wheeler, F. G. Shattuck (new), Swift & Co., and Standard Screw were among issues rising 2 to 5 points to record levels. Dubilier Condenser was again under accumulation. Aluminum Co. surged forward nearly 15 points.

Several of the recently prominent Investment Trust Co. stocks were under moderate pressure, but new leaders in the group were brought forward, selected industries and Haygart Corp. Reflecting buying, while Cord Corp. again reached new record levels. Insurance issues were mixed, American Salamandra rising a couple of points to a new peak, while American casualty declined more than 10 points to a new 1929 low.

Some of the mines developed strength in the late trading. Roan Antelope moved up 4 points to within 2 points of its record, reflecting strength of the issue on the London market, and firmness of copper prices. Newmont overcame early heaviness and closed a few points higher. Noranda, however, eased.

Oils turned irregular, Standard of Indiana and Humble sagged under profit taking, while Gulf and Ohio were firm.

Warner Brothers Offer.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Common stockholders of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., are offered the right to subscribe to optional 6 per cent convertible debentures, series due 1939, in a letter mailed by Harry M. Turner, president of the company.

The offering is on the basis of the $500 debenture, priced at $525, for each 68 shares of common stock held. Holders of common stock of record at the close of business on Sept. 9, 1929, are eligible. The company expects to obtain approximately $20,000,000 through the offering.

To Vote on Sugar Exchange Rule.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Members of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange will vote on Sept. 6 to an amendment providing for trading in all foreign sugars on which the United States duty has been paid. The trading contract used exclusively thus far is based only on Cuban raw sugar in bond in New York. The exchange regulations already permit trading in duty free sugars which includes American, Porto Rican, Hawaiian and Philippine, but thus far no business has been done in duty free sugar.

NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Rubber futures opened quiet. September 19.70c; December 20.90c; March 21.50c.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Rubber futures closed firm: September, 19.90; December, 29.90; March 21.50.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—There were no sales in the raw sugar market early today, but the undertone was steady and there were further buyers at last paid prices of 3.83c for Cuban, duty paid, for October shipment, with holders asking fractionally higher.

Except for September, which was lower under liquidation, as a result of the circulation of 567 notices, haw sugar futures were steadier on covering and buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections, with prices at midday 2 points lower to 2 points net higher. The steadiness of the spot market and expectations of a renewed buying movement in refined after the holidays seemed responsible for the better feeling.

Trading was not very active and there was a good deal of evening-up for over the three-day adjournment. A prominent European crop authority estimated the beet sugar crop of Europe, including Russia at 8,575,000 metric tons, or 115,000 tons above the previous crop.

In refined, second-hand sugars are meeting with a better inquiry an dprices were firmer, with holders now asking from 5.25c to 5.30c for fine granulated. Refiners' quotations were unchanged at 5.50c.

Sugar futures closed steady. Approximated sales, 56,000 tons. September, $2.06; December, $2.17; January, $2.18; March, $2.23; May, $22.9; July, $2.36.

EARNINGS, AND DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Standard Oil of New York, the largest distributor in New York territory, has announced a 3-cent cut in tank wagon prices in the metropolitan district, new prices being 14 cents for regular and 17 cents for special gasoline. Although some shading of prices are usual during fall period, this cut was earlier and more drastic than was anticipated. Simultaneously "The Lamp," official publication of Standard of New Jersey, published an analysis pointing out that crude production of country this year would run 60,000,000 barrels, or 5,000,000 barrels per month, above consumption requirements. It declared further that until this excessive output was curtailed the full benefit of a steady increase in consumption could not be obtained.

Stock Exchange Topics

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.

A declining trend in call money rates from the high averages of July is reflected in the fact that the average renewal rate for August is found today to have been 8.193 per cent. This compares with an average of 9.06 for July when for seven days the renewal charge ranged between 10 and 15 per cent. Tthe average rate for August was, however, nearly 1½ per cent higher than in the corresponding months of last year when the renewal average was 6.774 per cent. Owing chiefly to the lack of demand the renewal rate at the end of August was held down to 9 per cent, though a high charge had been predicted due to heavy calls for additional currency over Labor day.

The extent to which investment companies are dominating the new financing is disclosed by the fact that new issues by those companies in August have aggregated more than $340,000,000. This is believed to be a record amount of financing by these companies for any one month and to bring their total financing for the first eight months of this year close to $1,500,000,000. A considerable percentage of their funds is either temporarily or permanently employed in the call money market.

COMMERCIAL BULLETIN WEEKLY WOOL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say "demand for wool this week has been fairly good, especially in view of the fact that this has been the last week of August. Prices have been well maintained throughout the list and the market is still in favor of the seller.

"The goods market are all reported healthy and the openings of fancy worsteds and woolens by many of the mills have been well received in all branches of the trade and have been encouraging, especially as stabilization of the market seems even better assured.

"Western operations have been negligible.

"Foreign markets are dull and weak and disposed to wait the opening of the new season in Australia next week at Adelaide.

"Mohair is still rather slow but nominally steady.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1929 to August 29, 1929 inclusive were 117,486,700 pounds against 106,077,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1929 to August 29, 1929 inclusive were 239,107,485 pounds aganist 256,027,900 pounds for the same period last year."

MODERATE GAIN IN AUGUST BUSINESS

Warm Weather Stimulates Sale of Seasonable Goods, Bank Report Says.

Moderate improvement in general business conditions in the Eighth Federal Reserve District during August is reported by the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis in its monthly review issued today.

"Production and distribution of merchandise continued on a large scale, and purchasing of a broad variety of commodities for future delivery was in heavier volume than was the case during the past several months," the review said. "Stimulated by warmer weather, the movement of seasonal merchandise in late July and early August picked up substantially, with improvement most marked in retail channels.

"Wholesalers in the chief distributing centers reported that the market season during the first two weeks of August brought an unusually large number of visiting merchants and the character and volume of their buying indicated a considerable degree of confidence in prospects for fall and early winter trade."

Activity in the iron and steel industry was said to have been maintained at or close to the high levels which have prevailed since early in the spring. Production and distribution of automobiles fell off in July and there was a sharp decline in building activity. Department store sales in July were 9.6 per cent greater than in July, 1928.

Prospects for good crops were brighter during the past six weeks, the review said, than during any like period this year. Delayed farm work in the district has been well caught up and farm implement manufacturers report increasing orders.

AL ST. JOHN TO ROCK PILE FOR FAILURE TO PAY ALIMONY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 30.—Al St. John, motion picture comedian, was sentenced to the county rock pile by Judge Charles Burnell yesterday for failure to pay alimony.

St. John was ordered to pay Mrs. Lillian St. John, his first wife, $1600 back alimony. He said he was supporting his parents, his present wife, Mrs. June St. John, and their child, and, because he had been out of work during the recent "Equity strike," could not make the payments.

Judge Burnell said St. John could "stay on the rock pile until he pays, even if its the rest of his natural life."

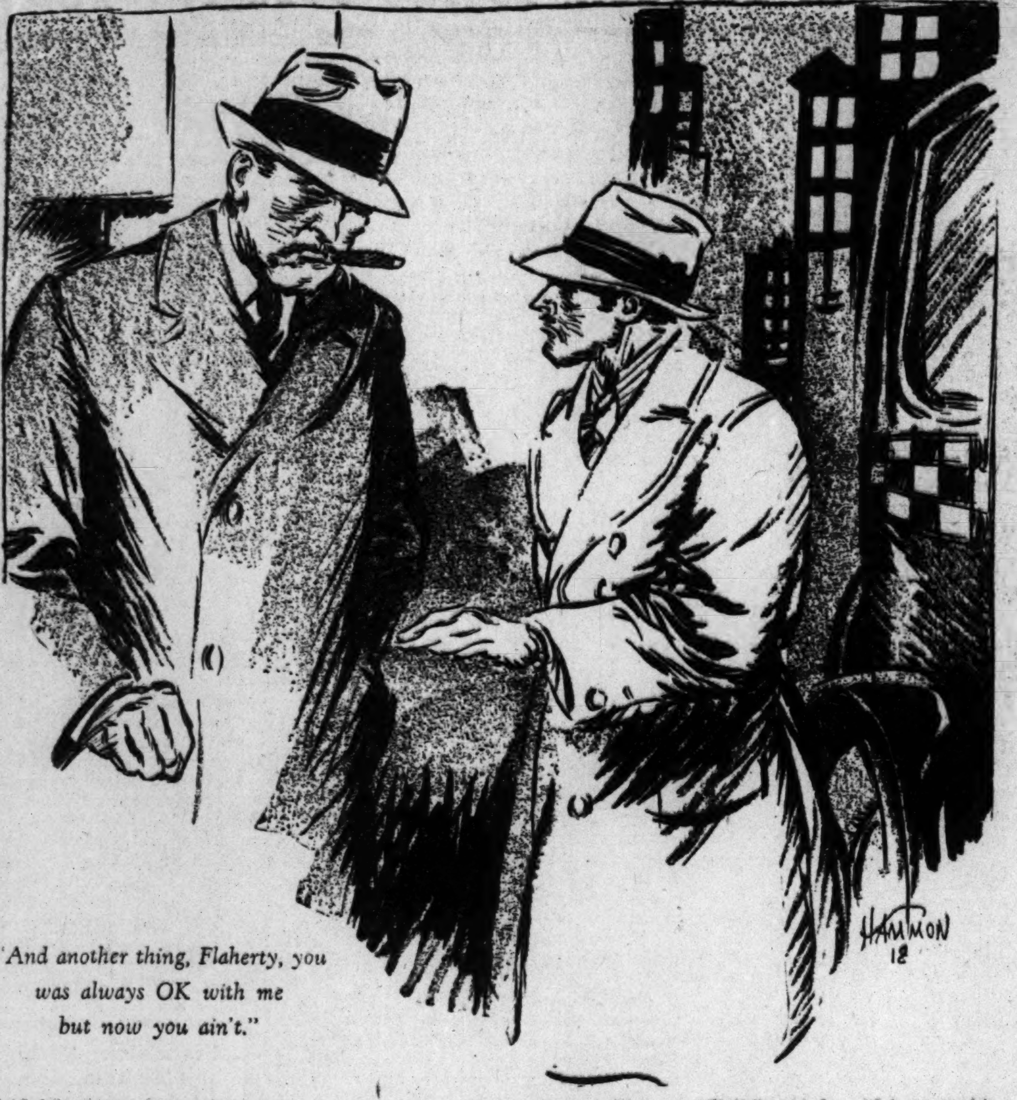
"LITTLE CAESAR" --By W. R. Burnett

The Most Thrilling Story of the Underworld Ever Written

What Has Happened Before

In a hold-up of the Casa Alvarado, Captain Courtney of the Chicago detective force is shot and killed by Rico gang lieutenant. Sam Vettori, leader of the gang, fearing for his neck, berates Rico for the "gunplay." Rico promptly usurps Sam's position with the approval of the gangsters. In the uproar that follows the murder, the gangsters keep in hiding until Tony Passa, ex-choir boy, loses his nerve and leaves to inform his parish priest. He is killed on the church steps by Rico's bullets. Rico, with Vettori, Otero and others of the gang, visit Tony's home to view the body. Detective Flaherty arrives and questions Rico, who is defiant. Sam Vettori resents Rico's rise to power, but he must now bow to his wishes. The gang gives a banquet for Rico. The "Big Boy," political power, attends, but Joe Massara, dude member of the gang, who took part in the hold-up, fails to come. Rico resents his absence. Rico, in right as a powerful Little Italy gang chief, takes Blondy Belle away from Little Arnie and also levies tribute on Arnie's gambling house. Blondy Belle tells Rico Little Arnie is cheating him on the split.

Now Go on With the Story.



"And another thing, Flaherty, you was always OK with me but now you ain't."

CHAPTER XVII.

RICO found the door of his apartment unlocked. Before entering he unbuttoned his overcoat and took out his automatic. Only one person had a key to his apartment except himself: Otero. If Otero wasn't in there then whoever was in there was in trouble. Rico opened the door slowly. Otero was sitting with his chair tipped back against the wall, smoking a cigarette and dozing.

"Otero!"

Otero opened his eyes.

"Hello, boss."

Rico locked the door behind him.

"Listen, don't you know better than to leave that door open?"

"I forgot, Rico."

Rico took off his overcoat and hat.

"You better keep your head working, boy," said Rico, "or you'll get your neck stretched. What you doing here, anyway?"

"I want money."

Rico looked at him.

"I'm broke, boss. I ain't got a cent."

Rico laughed. Otero seemed so helpless.

"You mean to tell me you ain't got a cent out of that Casa Alvarado split?"

Otero shrugged.

"What in hell did you do with it?"

"Well Seal she spends money, spends money. I take it out of my pocket till I ain't got any more." Otero shrugged and rolled a fresh cigarette.

Otero smiled.

"That's all the same to me, boss."

He was speaking the truth. He hadn't the slightest conception of the value of money. He spent till what he had was gone, then he asked Rico for more. Rico shook his head.

"Listen, Otero, ain't you never gonna get no sense! You got over a grand and a half out of that Casa Alvarado stand. And here you are broke. Why some guys work a whole year for less than that."

Otero shrugged.

"I have worked for two pesos a week."

Rico took some small change out of his pocket and handed it to Otero.

"Go down to the corner and get a couple of Tribunes. Get three."

"Three of the same kind?"

"Sure."

Otero went out. Rico opened the window a few inches and sat down beside it. There was a touch of spring in the air and it made him feel restless. He wanted to be doing things. In a week or less, he'd have Little Arnie's big gambling joint. That meant dough and plenty of it. He'd turn it over to Sam Vettori and let him run it. Sam was looking for something to do. Then maybe he could muscle in on the North Side graft. That wasn't easy. Pete Montana was a wise bird and he had the North Side tied up. Well, maybe the Big Boy could help him there. Rico jumped to his feet and began to pace up and down.

Otero came in with the papers. Rico took them from him and tore one of them apart till he came to the magazine section. There it was. Big type proclaimed:

ITALIAN UNDERWORLD
CHIEF GIVEN BIG FEED

Otero, looking over Rico's shoulder, saw the flashlight picture. In his excitement he pushed Rico aside and placing his finger on a section of the picture, cried:

"There I am!"

Rico took the other two papers apart and got out the magazine sections. Then he put the three sections side by side and compared them.

"All too dark," he said.

Nevertheless, having chosen the clearest one of the three, he took his scissors and cut it out.

"I want one too," said Otero.

"All right," said Rico, "help yourself."

DeVoss was standing in the lobby when Rico came in. DeVoss looked him over thoroughly, positive that he was out of his element in an atmosphere as exclusive as that of The Bronze Peacock. Not that Rico looked the least bit shabby. If anything, he was dressed more carefully than usual, from his modish derby to his fawn-colored spats. The big ulster he was wearing hid the loud striped suit and a plain dark muffler hid the loud striped tie. Sartorially Rico could pass at The Bronze Peacock. But there was something vulgar and predatory about him that did not escape DeVoss.

"That's a bad one there," he told himself.

Rico glanced about the lobby, taking everything in from habit. It was not a good plant but it could be worked. Not that he had any intention of working it, but you never know. He came up to DeVoss and said:

"Excuse me, but where'll I find the manager of this place."

DeVoss looked at him coldly.

"I'm the manager."

Rico grinned.

"Well," he said, "I guess we got a mutual friend. The Big Boy tells me you and him does business together."

DeVoss' manner changed abruptly.

"Oh, yes. You're one of his friends, are you? What can I do for you?"

"I want to see Joe Massara."

"That's easy," said DeVoss, "he's back in his dressing room. I'll take you back."

Rico followed DeVoss and they went up a few steps at the end of the lobby and came out into the club proper. It was empty except for a couple of electricians who were working on the stage spotlights.

"So, you're one of the Big Boy's friends," said DeVoss, curious.

"I'm Rico."

DeVoss looked at him, startled.

"Oh," he said, "you're Rico."

All the way up the rear corridor DeVoss kept looking sideways at Rico. One of Little Arnie's men had told him about the new Vettori gang chief. Dangerous as dynamite! He congratulated himself on his acumen. By God, he kept repeating to himself, I knew he was a bad one.

DeVoss knocked at Joe's door. Someone called "come in." DeVoss opened the door and Rico followed him into the room. Joe was sitting in his shirt sleeves, his vest off, displaying a pair of fancy suspenders. (Rico made a mental note of the suspenders. His taste ran more to fancy sleeve garters. But if men like Joe were wearing fancy suspenders, why, he'd have to get himself a pair.) Olga Stassoff, in a black, red and gold Japanese kimono was lying on a lounge, holding a Pekingese on her chest and rubbing his face against her own. A big man in evening clothes was standing with his back to the door. When Joe saw Rico he got to his feet in a hurry and stood smiling a little uneasily. The big man turned around.

"Mr. Rico wants to see you, Joe." said DeVoss; then he put his hand on Rico's arm and said: "When you get done with Joe, why, come up to the office and we'll have a little drink."

"Sorry," said Rico, "I don't use it. But thanks just the same."

DeVoss's eyebrows rose.

"You mean you don't drink!"

"Rico drinks milk," said Joe, trying to be funny.

But Rico didn't even smile.

"Yeah," he said, "sometimes I drink milk."

"Well, drop in anyway on your way out," said DeVoss.

DeVoss closed the door. Rico noticed that the girl in the Japanese kimono was staring at him. She didn't look like much to him; too skinny; all the same he insolently ran his eyes over her. The big man said:

"I guess there's no use for us to offer you a drink."

Joe took Rico by the arm.

"Olga, I want you to meet Rico, Rico, this is Olga Stassoff."

"Pleased to meet you," said Rico.

Olga sat up and tried to smile, but was no use. Rico was repulsive to her, principally because she was certain that he had killed Joe's friend, Tony, but also because he stared at her insolently with his small, pale eyes.

"This boy here," said Joe, taking the big man familiarly by the arm, "is Mr. Willoughby, the millionaire."

"Why bring that up?" said Willoughby.

Rico had an instinctive respect for wealth. Money was power. He smiled affably and offered his hand.

"Pleased to meet you," he said.

Willoughby shook hands strenuously, then he inquired:

"Have you got some private business with Joe?"

"Yeah," said Rico, "but there ain't no hurry about it."

"That's all right," said Willoughby. "Olga and I'll go over next door. Eh, Olga? When you get through, why, give us a rap and we'll come back. Don't suppose I could persuade you to join us in a little supper before the show?"

Rico was flattered.

"Well," he said, "I might."

"Good," said Willoughby; then, taking Olga by the hand, he pulled her to her feet. But Olga hesitated and stood looking from Joe to Rico.

"Run along, baby," said Joe.

"Well, don't take all night about it," said Olga.

"I won't keep him long," Rico put in.

CHAPTER XVIII.

WHEN Olga and Willoughby had gone Rico said:

"Flying pretty high, ain't you, Joe?"

"Willoughby's just one of Olga's fish. He's gonna back her in a big show."

"Yeah? Well, if that bird's got a million bucks you both better clamp onto him. Nice little Jane you got, Joe."

"Olga's O K," said Joe.

Rico unbuttoned his ulster to display his finery. He had on one of his striped suits. It was dead black with a narrow pink stripe. The color scheme was further complicated by a pale blue shirt and an orange and white striped tie adorned with the ruby pin.

Joe stared at him.

"All lit up, ain't you, Rico?" he said.

Rico nodded, pleased.

"Yeah, I kind of got it into my head I ought to dress up now."

"They tell me you crowded Sam out," said Joe.

Rico looked at him.

"Didn't nobody tell you the boys was giving a banquet for me?"

"Yeah, they told me," said Joe, hurriedly, "but it was on at the wrong time for me."

"I ain't seen you since the big stand."

"No," said Joe, looking at the floor. "I been laying low. They had me scared."

Rico banged his fist on the arm of his chair.

"Damn it, Joe, what you got up your sleeve?"

Joe looked startled. He sat silent and from time to time raised his eyes to glance at Rico, who was staring at him.

"Spill it, Joe," said Rico.

"Well," said Joe, "I been making pretty good money with my dancing. Olga and me has got a turn together that's going over big. They want to put us in a show. Listen, Rico, I got enough of the racket. This last stand damn near fixed me. We was lucky."

"We ain't out yet," said Rico, "and we don't want no softies spoiling things."

"You ain't dumb, Joe," said Rico, "what the devil! You mean to tell me you're gonna quit the racket. Why, boy, you ain't seen nothing yet. In a couple of weeks I'm gonna take over Little Arnie's joint. The Big Boy even wants to be declared in. Listen, Joe, you're a smart boy and I can use you. To hell with that dancing stuff. As a front it's O K but no man's gonna make his living that way."

Joe slumped down in his chair.

"I got your number, Joe," Rico went on, "it's that damn skirt. She's making a softie of you, Joe."

"Lord, Rico," said Joe, "can't a guy quit? I ain't gonna spill nothing. You think I want to get my neck stretched?"

"Yeah? Look at Tony. He turned soft and they patted him with a spade. Once a guy turns soft he ain't no good in this world. Didn't Humpy get soft on Red Gus and turn State's? Yeah! Who got the neck stretching? Red Gus. Humpy got 15 years and he'll be out in a half of that."

Joe slumped further down in his chair.

"Rico you know I ain't yellow."

"All right," said Rico, "if that's the dope, I can use you. Ottavio and me has been figuring on a little stand that won't be half bad. I need a good inside man, Joe. A cut will be worth two grand at least."

Someone knocked at the door. It was DeVoss. He came over to Rico and said:

"Mr. Rico, there's a couple of dicks out in the lobby. When I asked them what they wanted, they said they was just looking around."

Rico said:

"Two bits it's Flaherty. All right, Mr. DeVoss, thanks."

DeVoss went out. Joe got to his feet and turned agonized eyes on Rico.

"What did you have to come clear across town for, Rico? Can't you let me alone?"

Rico paid no attention to him.

"There's one Irishman," he said, "that ain't long for this world."

"Rico," said Joe, "for God's sake stay over in your own end of town. I don't want the bulls coming here."

"Listen," said Rico, his eyes glowing, "if I hear any more of this softie stuff I'll only be back once more."

Willoughby and Olga came in.

"Didn't you rap for us?" asked Willoughby.

"No, that was DeVoss," said Rico, "but we're done. Say, Mr. Willoughby, I sure am sorry but I got to pass up that invitation of yours. I got some important business with a couple of guys."

"Sorry," said Willoughby.

"Yes, we're sorry," said Olga, trying to be affable on Joe's account.

Rico shook hands with Joe.

"I'll be seeing you."

"All right, Rico," said Joe.

When Rico emerged he saw DeVoss coming down the corridor. He looked somewhat agitated.

"They're sure enough looking for you, Mr. Rico. For Lord's sake don't cause no trouble in my place."

Rico grinned.

"There won't be no trouble unless them damn dummies out there start it."

Rico followed DeVoss back through the club. On the stage the orchestra was tuning up and a few early couples were sitting at the tables. When they got to the lobby Rico saw Flaherty and another detective. Flaherty came over to him.

"Well, Rico," he said, "kind of out of your territory, ain't you?"

"What the hell of it?"

"Oh, nothing. Don't you remember I told you I was keeping an eye on you? Sure thing. I'm interested in young guys that want to get up in the world."

"Aw, can that," said Rico.

He noticed that people were coming into the place; in the club the orchestra had begun to play. He remembered what the Big Boy had said about DeVoss.

"Let's get the hell out of here," he said, "no use causing DeVoss no trouble. You bulls got about as much regard for a guy as a couple of hyenas."

"You're long on regard yourself, ain't you, Rico?" said Flaherty, laughing.

Rico nodded to DeVoss and went out. Flaherty and the other detective followed him. Rico was standing at the curb under the canvas marquee. They came up to him. He stared at Flaherty.

"Listen, Flaherty," he said, "did you ever stop to think how you'd look with a lily in your hand?"

"I never did," said Flaherty, with a sneer. "I been at this game for 25 years and I've got better guys than you hung, and I never got a scratch."

Rico took out a cigar and lit it. A taxi drew up at the curb.

"Well, here's my wagon," said Rico, "want to take a ride?"

"No," said Flaherty, "when we take a ride together I'll have the cuffs on you."

"No Irish cop'll ever put no cuff on Rico!"

Flaherty's face got red, but he turned on his heel and was about to go when Rico said:

"And another thing, Flaherty, you was always O K with me, see, but now you ain't. You ain't got nothing on me and you ain't got no business trailing me every place I go. Take a tip. Sam and me're getting tired of seeing you guys climb the stairs. The first floor's open to anybody, they even allow cops in there, but the upstairs is private."

"Yeah?" said Flaherty, who had succeeded in controlling his temper.

"Yeah. Some day one of you wise dicks is gonna make a one way trip up them stairs."

"Getting up in the world, ain't you, Rico?" said Flaherty, "maybe you better run for Mayor."

Rico slammed the door of the cab. Flaherty turned to the man with him and said:

"I'll get that swell-headed Dago if it's the last thing I ever do."

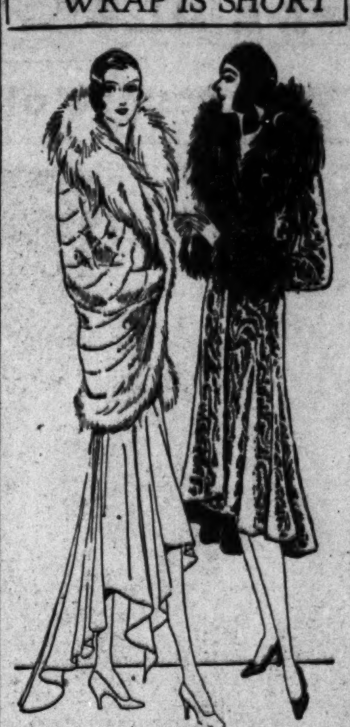
SMART EVENING WRAP IS SHORT



WHEN so many changes are appearing in fur coats and wraps by reason of more interesting sleeves, luxurious collars, flares and dipping skirt lengths, it is interesting to note that the smartest new evening wrap of fur is short.

And no less a wrap than the dolman in a modern version is the form it takes. Fine white ermine skins fashion the soft little garment with a border and large collar of white fox, the model at the left being one sponsored by a New York shop.

Steaming Silk Garments

SILK is more or less elastic, so many silk garments excepting those with pleats may be steamed instead of pressed and this is especially convenient for the vacationist.

The process is simple and no task at all. Just hang the garment in the bathroom, turn on the hot water in the tub and close door and windows to retain the steam.

The garment should be on a hanger. If you have none, roll up a newspaper or magazine and tie it in the middle, leaving a loop for hanging up, then suspend garment directly over the tub, making sure it hangs firmly and does not touch the wall.

Steaming is not only less labor than pressing but it is really beneficial to the silk as it adds moisture, which is so necessary to the life of the silk, and which pressing is quite apt to destroy.

Sending Flowers

Perhaps you want to send a few choice flowers to a distant friend. These can be transported in perfect safety if the stems are inserted in slits cut in potatoes. Make sure they are firmly fastened and they can be sent any distance. Flowers thus inserted in potatoes have been known to keep fresh for two weeks in a moderate temperature.

POLICING AGAINST MOUTH PERILS

THERE is more than one good reason for guarding one's mouth. The danger lies not only in what we may let slip out during an unguarded moment but in what may slip in at all hours of the day and night. Health authorities tell us that more than 91 per cent of all deaths from communicable diseases in this country during a single year were due to organisms which enter or leave the body by way of the mouth. The term "mouth," we may assume, is used in a broad sense to include the nose and the throat.

These dangerous organisms may be in the air we breathe, and in our food and water. Sometimes they are conveyed to our mouths by unclean hands. Since the mouth is open so frequently for both necessary and unnecessary reasons, it is a simple matter for these unseen organisms to get into it. Some people think that policing the mouth is merely a matter of brushing the teeth daily and keeping them in good repair. Do that by all means. But it is far more important to guard against these microscopic forms of life which enter our bodies and cause disease.

Certain definite precautions are necessary for the sake of others as well as ourselves. There is no excuse for coughing or sneezing in people's faces. Hold a clean handkerchief over your mouth and avoid others who spray the air. Wash your hands frequently and thoroughly, especially after the toilet and before eating. Keep your fingers away from your mouth and nose. Select clean eating places. If you have any symptoms of skin, respiratory, or intestinal disorders, double the watch over your cleanliness practices. Whenever an opportunity presents itself, advocate cleanliness to others.

These precautions are especially important because persons in the best of health may be "carriers" of disease germs to which they are immune. Therefore, consideration of others as well as self-protection demands that we observe these carefully.

A Piece of Her Mind

By Elsie McCormick.

RAISING CHILDREN.

I USED to think that books on how to raise little ones were rather recent products, my impression having been that the old-time father faced this responsibility with no other equipment than a Bible and a carpet slipper.

Not long ago, however, I came across an instructive volume called The Mother, which was published in 1846. It was written by one T. S. Arthur, and its purpose was to instruct parents in the art of bringing up such pious children that only the angels could stand their company.

The style of this book is quite different from that of Dr. Holt or any of our modern authorities on pedagogy. The first paragraph is a weather report which bears no relation to the subject, but which sets the tone for all the beautiful verbiage that is to follow.

"Summer had passed away, and autumn had verged on toward winter," it says. "Instead of a brief, sultry twilight, there were long evenings and pleasant gatherings of the family circle. Care looked more cheerful; there was a light on the wan cheek of Sickness; and Labor sung merrily as she turned her wheel."

All this, however, merely leads up to a conversation between a mother and father. "She is a sweet child," said one parent, speaking of their 2-year-old daughter. "A sweeter one cannot be found," is the reply. "But our child is born with an evil and perverse will—a will thoroughly depraved." The other parent agrees with this rather surprising pronouncement, and the rest of the book consists of the reform of that will, as well as of other little wills which are added at regular intervals to the family circle.

The family's greatest triumph is in the case of Clarence. All of the little ones of this family seem to be born with evil traits which are hard to reconcile with their pious heredity, and which can only be attributed to original sin. Clarence, however, was the worst of the lot. Much of the book is devoted to the long sermons preached to him by the family, to the angry prayers constantly rumbled over his head, and to the sad, rebuking looks cast at him by his genteel mother.

Still, all these efforts led at last to a triumphant conclusion, and Clarence more than justified the pains taken with his upbringing. At college he discovers that many of the wild youngster set are determined to revolt if the time for morning chapel is not changed from six to seven.

"If the hour is changed to seven, well and good," one of his classmates tells him. "But if not, our next course will be to attend regularly at six and scrape the chaplain down." (The text explains that this means scraping the feet so that the chaplain can't be heard—not scraping him off the platform.)

"You are certainly beside yourself, James," said the erstwhile depraved Clarence. "I cannot believe that you would do so wrong a deed. In this you would not only insult the institution, but heaven."

"Oh, no; heaven doesn't have much to do with the 6 o'clock prayers of college students."

"You speak with unbecoming levity, James," said our sophomore severely.

As the result of Clarence's noble example, the rebellion dribbled to nothing, and the everlasting skies were not jarred by the terrific effect of getting the boys' petitions an hour later than usual.

"So much for the influence of a single well-ordered, honest mind," remarks the author. "Had the natural disposition of Clarence been unchecked and had no counterbalancing principles been stored up in his mind, he would have been as eager for the rebellion as the most thoughtless. What evil results might have followed cannot be told."

We leave the fond and happy parents weeping with joy over their son's stand on the chapel question, and exchanging the pious wall mottoes which passed in this home for conversation.

It is an interesting book, even to people who do not entertain the ambition of raising a son like Clarence.

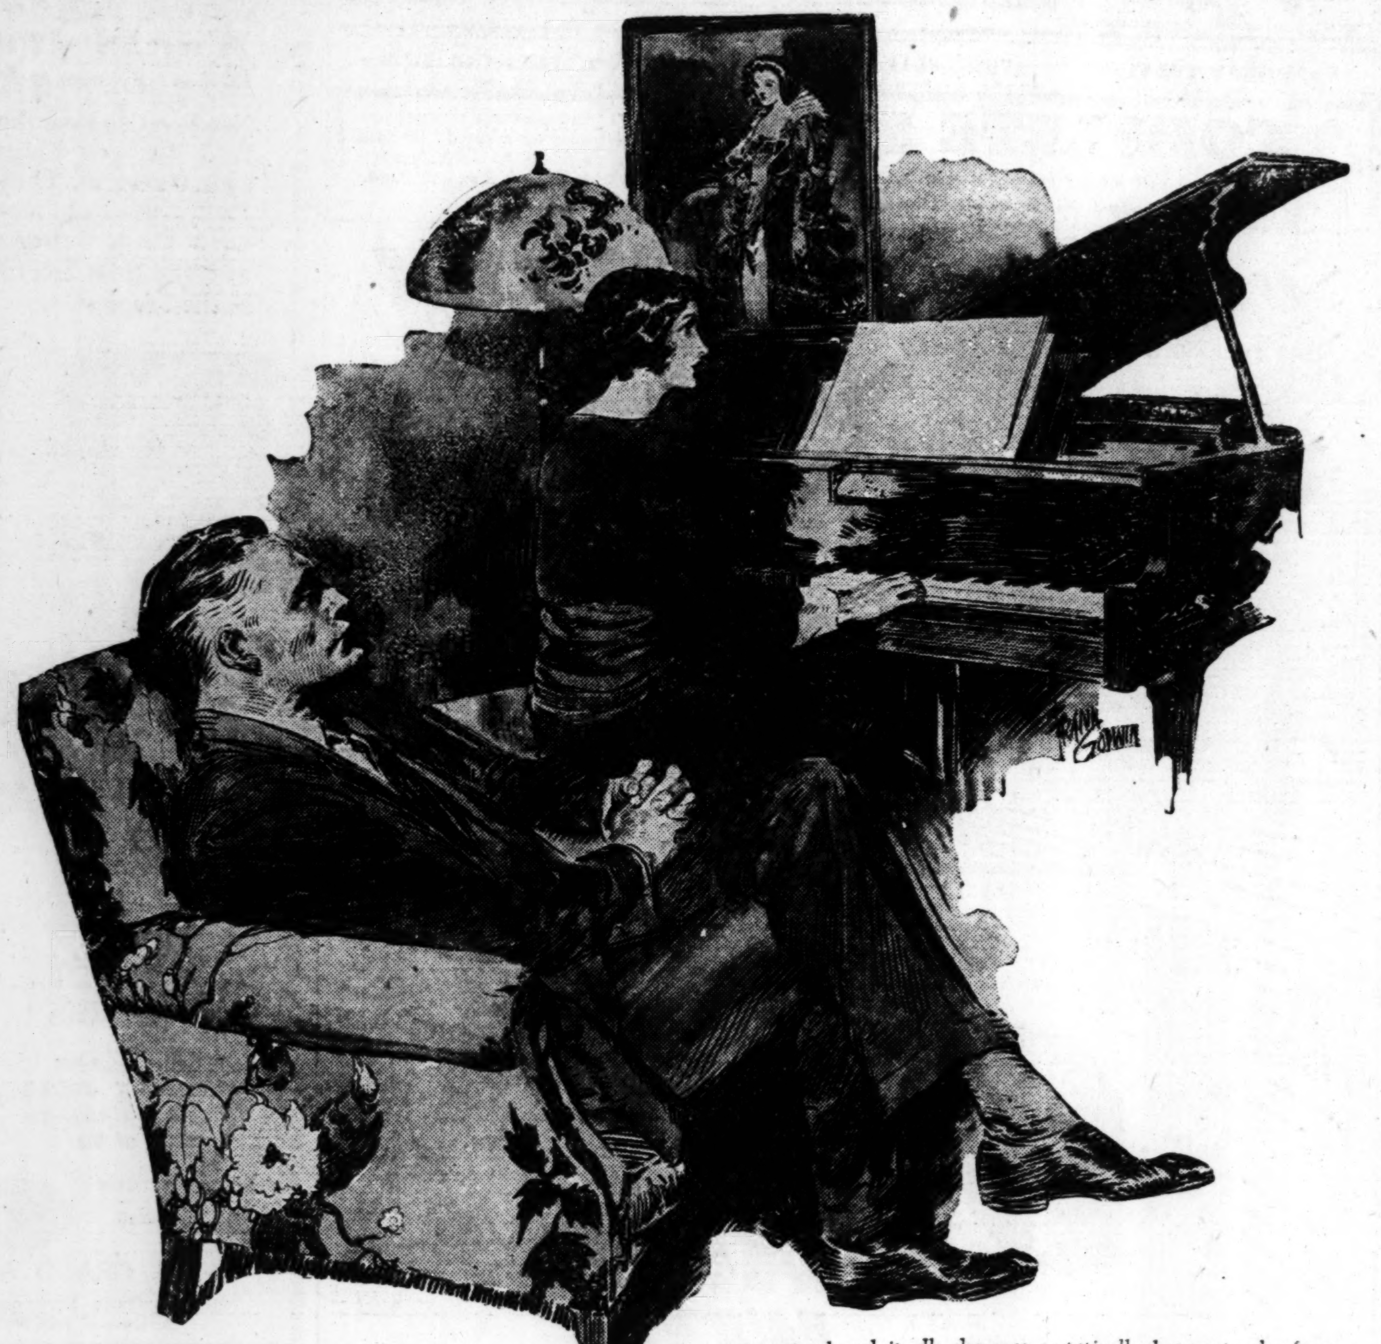
THE MAKE-BELIEVE WIFE—By Kathleen Norris

A Romance of Modern Life



Beatrice loved it all; she was ecstatically happy in the freer, simpler life and in Hugh's presence.

CHAPTER 13.

HE WAS looking at her concentratedly; he did not hear her.

"Isn't what, dear?"

"The book, Hugh!" she exclaimed reprovingly.

Hugh smiled luxuriously.

"You are wonderful, I know that. Bee, I wonder if any man in the world ever had a place like this to come back to, and a woman like you to cure him of all the hurts and stupidities of life?"

Her gray-green eyes widened into a smile.

"Isn't that marriage, Hugh?"

"Ought to be."

She was watching the kitten. She forced his small black head down, with a sudden gentle pressure, into the saucer of cream, and laughed at the picking and sneezing that followed.

"Bee—" Hugh began, and paused.

"Milord?"

"Bee, if you should ever stop caring for me, dear-no, don't laugh, I'm serious," Hugh said, catching her hand again. "If you should find—well, that you loved someone else more, or—or in a different way," he went on quickly, almost incoherently, "you'd tell me, wouldn't you?"

Without releasing her hand, she slid to her knees beside the couch and gathered both his hands against her breast.

He studied her face gravely, anxiously, for a few seconds. Then he laughed.

"It is nonsense!" he exclaimed in relief.

"Well—" she said in a brisk, sensible tone, withdrawing, and occupying herself with the tray once more. The kitten rocketed away to a distant lair under the bookcases, but neither Beatrice nor Hugh had eyes for him.

They had taken possession of the big drawing desk and had littered it once more with T-squares, sheets of squared paper and pencils. Beatrice had clipped from an architectural magazine half a dozen little photographs of arches, steps, grills, doorways; she displayed them eagerly.

She toiled on busily, absorbedly, without interruption. While they worked sometimes her hand touched Hugh's hand, or her bright hair brushed for a moment against his face. And whenever that happened he stopped short and looked at her for a moment quietly, without speaking, without interrupting the labors of the sharp pencil and the soft eraser and the little silver ruler he had got her, of which she was so proud.

In June they moved to the shingled cabin on Spy Lake that had been the Challoners' summer camp for 20 years. It was an airy, piny place, only three miles away from the fashionable resort of Sentinel Beach, near the new golf club, near the yacht club, and with its own lovely tennis court and old-fashioned garden.

Hugh's mother had the adjoining house, a square, white, colonial house, with green shutters, and Hugh's sisters, Mrs. White and Mrs. Carey, their own unpretentious places farther up the lake. All about the summer homes of old friends and long-tested neighbors were scattered; the fish man and the milkman and the man who repaired the boats and the man who brought the mail knew the Challoners and welcomed into their ranks the new member of the family.

There was a needle-carpeted steep descent of ground through the woods, below the cabin, reaching to the ripples of the lake. A boathouse and a few tethered rowboats were there, and hammocks for warm afternoons. The hotel was out of sight, beyond a long wooded point of land, but the hotel yachts and launches often came into view, as well as the patient steamer that crossed the blue stretch of water twice a day. The air at the lake was sweet and aromatic and sleepy and at sunset the hills turned a clear deep blue, and fish plopped in the mirror of the water, and flies buzzed in columns in the sunshiny spaces in the woods.

Beatrice loved it all; she was ecstatically happy in the freer, simpler life and in Hugh's presence for he almost always spent a long week-end, from Friday afternoon until Monday noon, there, and sometimes made the 30-mile run from town on a week night as well.

She went swimming with the young Whites and Careys in the dreamy blue mornings, when dragon flies flitted and twinkled on the hot rocky shale of their own particular little bathing cove. The morning sun brought a clean resinous smell from the hemlocks and pines; squirrels flashed and chattered in the near-by woods, where the winter's fallen timber had been heaped into stacks incredibly picturesque, up and down the forest aisles.

Often old Mrs. Challoner was wheeled down to the pier, and sat there basking under her great sun umbrella, with the dripping children and the murmuring elders at her feet. Harriet Challoner Carey had a daughter of Beatrice's age, and Minnie Challoner White was only three years younger, and the three girls chattered and laughed together, in and out of the satiny blue water, in and out of the open cabins, all day long.

"And how are the Memorial plans, Beatrice?"

"Oh, they are coming on marvelously. We're perfectly fascinated by them! We're getting all the details together, and Hugh is going to stay home all Friday and Saturday too this week, and put both mornings in on them!"

"No swimming for you then, Bee!" little Mary Randall protested resentfully.

"Oh, yes, I'll swim—we won't work that hard! But really I get as much fun out of it as Hugh does," Beatrice said.

"Lucky boy, Hugh Challoner," his mother's deep voice would say boomingly. And at that Beatrice always gave her happiest and most youthful laugh, in sheer content.

When Bert was at Spy Lake he always stayed with his grandmother, so that Beatrice felt no responsibility for him. He spent his Monday-to-Friday intervals in the city, but usually put in an appearance at the lake on Saturday afternoons, expectant of tennis.

Sometimes Hugh would play, and they would find two other men for a hard session of doubles. More often Beatrice played with her husband, with Bert and one of his young cousins for opponents. Young Tom Carey, Harriet junior, or Mary or Pauline White all played well, and the other members of the family would gather as audience in the shaded chairs on the south side of the court.

Beatrice, who had made an early beginning with tennis in the long-ago days of Miss Roberts' school, when Mummy had taught music and Marcia the upper grades, was enormously in demand as a partner. But it was not so much because she was a good player—they were all good players—as because of the elements she brought to the game; fire and excitement and enthusiasm that gave it new life.

Her face grew red as she played, her hair wild; she fought desperately for every point, lost hard, and fairly danced with triumph when she won. "Oh, Hugh, Hugh, take it!" she would shriek in a tone that brought tears of laughter even to dignified old Mrs. Challoner's eyes.

"That's exactly what she is, a child, Mother."

"Well, all the better," his mother said. "Eh?" she added, a little sharply, twisting her head to see his face, as if something in his expression surprised her. "After all, she's only 20, Hugh."

"Twenty-one. Yes. But many girls of 21 aren't as young as Bee," he offered, a little uncertainly.

"She's quite remarkable with her French, Harriet says," her mother-in-law defended her "and she's a good manager and very sensible with the girls—as far as that goes, she seems eight years instead of eight months older than little Harriet. And she's certainly been a help with your prize plans Hugh."

"Oh, yes, all that, all that!" he conceded almost impatiently. "But it's not natural to have her settle down here among all of us, who are so much older"——

"Yes, but she's not one of them; she's 'Mrs.' Challoner," he said. "There's a great difference. The trades people—the employes down at the office—make much of her. It makes no impression—she's just a child. I've put money to her account, of course, but she doesn't spend it as most girls do—now and then she sends her mother or sister a present; that's all. A child about money, too. She isn't always after furs or hats or jewelry. I took her to Cate's the other day tried to find a ring or a chain she wanted. She liked them all!—and didn't want any."

Mrs Coolidge Can Sew, but She Admits She Isn't Much of a Cook

THE sewing needle is a compass needle that can keep the housewife to the course, is the opinion of Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, expresed in her first published article in the American Magazine. She believes that all girls should be taught to sew, not so much for economic reasons as for the effect that needlework has on the mind.

While expressing her pride in her skill as a needlewoman, Mrs. Coolidge humorously admits that she was never a great success at cooking and that her efforts sometimes caused her husband to "take his daily toll of humor" in the not-like-mother-used-to-make fashion common to most husbands.

"But I could sew," Mrs. Coolidge continues, "and I have always taken great delight in all forms of this domestic art, preferring that pastime to playing bridge, and when my friends had card parties they invited me to come and bring my sewing. Every girl should be taught to sew not merely for the sake of making something but as an accomplishment that may prove a stabilizer in time of perplexity or distress. Many a time when I have needed to hold myself firmly I have taken up my needle; it might be a sewing needle, knitting needles or a crochet hook—whatever its form or purpose, it often proved to be as the needle of the compass, keeping me to the course.

"I look for a revival of the homey household arts." Such a revival may not bring about the peace of nations, but I firmly believe it will aid in bringing peace within our homes, and this will be more far-reaching than we realize."

Mrs. Coolidge relates how, when Coolidge was Governor of Massachusetts, the cook who had been with the family for nine years became ill and the housework fell upon Mrs. Coolidge. "I could cook a little," she says, "but I must confess it, I was never a great success at this, although some of my 'favorite recipes' are spread abroad in the nation."

In a burst of enthusiasm one day Mrs. Coolidge attempted an apple pie. Its appearance was all that could be expected, she relates, but, while there were no family comments at the time, she realized that the crust was tough. In the evening as some friends were departing after a call, Coolidge invited them into the dining room and suggested that they have a piece of Mrs. Coolidge's apple pie.

After they had all partaken devotedly Coolidge asked gravely, "Don't you think the Road Commissioner would pay my wife something for her recipe for pie-crust?"

Mrs. Coolidge found housekeeping in the White House almost the same as elsewhere. Although a housekeeper was provided to attend to details. Mrs. Coolidge says that she felt it her duty to exercise general supervision.

There were 18 domestic servants, including a chef, second cook, kitchen maid, kitchen boy, butler, second man and pantryman. Three cleaning men were used on the main floor and the floor below and two men on the second floor did cleaning and valet duty for guests. There were two chamber maids and a personal valet for the President and a personal maid for his wife. Another maid assisted with the cleaning and did some of the mending. All these servants were on the Government payroll but their food was provided by the Coolidges.

All menus for the day were submitted in a book to Mrs. Coolidge every morning on her breakfast tray and she either approved or changed them. The housekeeper usually went to market personally to select foodstuffs.

Breakfasts were served at 7:45 but guests were served at any hour in their rooms. Luncheon was at 1 o'clock and dinner at 7. These meals were served in the large State dining room, at the request of Coolidge, although Mrs. Coolidge preferred a small private dining room on the north side of the house.

Velvet Evening Gowns

Forecasting the mode for autumn, one shop is showing distinguished evening gowns of velvet in dull luster and exquisite colors. Since velvets of the present day are almost as sheer and cool as chiffon, these frocks are very wearable for the late summer. They are draped with long svelt lines and trailing skirts particularly flattering to the older woman.

Sunstroke Not Same Thing as Prostration

SUNSTROKE and heat prostration are two different ailments and yet one is often mistaken for the other, although the symptoms are not at all alike.

In sunstroke the skin is moist and often quite cool, breathing is rapid, there is little fever and the temperature may even be subnormal. A severe headache often is a warning of sunstroke.

Heat prostration comes on suddenly (sometimes at night), a slight nausea often being the only warning. The skin is flushed and hot, breath short, pulse may be feeble or rapid and there may be high fever.

In either case a physician should be summoned without delay. Following are a few causes of heat exhaustion—the wise person will avoid them.

Violent exercise.

Indulging in iced drinks and not drinking sufficient pure cold (not iced) water.

Failing to keep the blood and body surface cool by tub baths and sponge, shower and plunge baths.

Wearing tight and heavy clothing.

Exposure to the sun instead of selecting shady spots for walking or outdoor recreations.

Failing to relax and rest properly.

An All-Occasion Fur

Accordingly as it is detailed as to shirring, flared lines and the like, lapin becomes a coat of formal or informal mien for early season wear. This fur is shown in very interesting models including the short coat for wear with tweed frocks, the full length coat designed on swagger lines or of the more dressy type, and also in the short evening wrap.

"—makes any salad taste delicious"

"I have used Hellmann's Mayonnaise for nine years. In the first place, there's the flavor—it makes any salad the most delicious food you ever put in your mouth. It is so good—I'm sure Hellmann's must be made from best eggs and finest oil."—Clara Hankh

Clara Hankh, cook for Fannie Hurst of New York

"Such flavor means FINE MATERIALS"
SAY FAMOUS COOKS

CRITICAL cooks know that even their fine fruits and vegetables are made or marred by the salad dressing. That's why they depend on the true flavor, the purity, and freshness of Hellmann's.

Blended after a famous old recipe, Hellmann's Mayonnaise is made from fine eggs, delicate salad oil, pure vinegar, rare spices. Each of these ingredients is carefully selected and tested for the deliciousness it will bring to the mayonnaise. And nothing else goes into it.

Order a jar of Hellmann's Mayonnaise from your grocer today. The popular family size is ½ pint—25¢. Other sizes, 3½ ounce, pint, and quart jars.

FOR AN ALLURING SUN-KISSED SKIN
Oriental-Tan is Better---

BECAUSE water will not affect the fascinating, realistic complexion it renders. You need not be a "beach flower" when you use ORIENTAL-TAN as water improves, rather than mars the attractiveness.

BECAUSE it renders a beautiful, lasting finish for "stockingless legs". It will not streak, spot, rub off, or look chalky. You will be amazed how quickly and easily it can be applied.

GOURAUD'S
ORIENTAL CREAM
In the ORIENTAL-TAN Shade

How to Guide A Little Child

By Agnes Lyne.

PROLONGED PUNISHMENT.

THE law does not allow an offender to be punished more than once for the same crime, yet children are frequently punished again and again for a single misdeed

Janet at the age of 6 took a quarter from her mother's purse and bought candy. Both the buying of candy and the taking of money had been strictly forbidden. The candy made her sick. She was whipped and put to bed and for six whole weeks was allowed no candy whatsoever.

Her offense was mentioned again and again whenever she did some little thing which displeased her mother. It was evident that she was regarded as a potential thief.

The child's first concern over her transgression soon turned to resentment. She became sullen, morose and ill tempered.

Most mothers would have been willing to accept Janet's illness as sufficient punishment. Some of us may think that the child deserved to be whipped as well, but no one can doubt that the added penalties were unfair and actually harmful.

To know that a grudge was held against her was to foster a sense of injury, to feel that the black marks on her name were ineradicable was to discourage further efforts toward good behavior and to undermine her self respect.

When the child is punished physically or otherwise there should be no aftermath of disapproval, nor any withholding of parental love. The punishment should be immediate, short and effective; that is sufficiently unpleasant to act as a barrier to the repetition of the act. It should wipe out all scores. The little child should feel that each day, each hour, represents a fresh chance for achievement and approval.

Raises the Spirits.

When buying house dresses select gay, cheery patterns and not ugly drab ones, just because they are going to be used for work. You will feel more like working in a becoming, cheery house dress.

The Hot Weather Meals

A hearty salad such as chicken house salad, jellied chicken, fish or vegetable salad served with whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, a simple fruit dessert and hot or iced coffee will make a satisfying meal on a hot day. Potato chips may be added to this menu. Frozen tomatoes and cream cheese salad is another pleasing summer salad.

YOU'RE SCORTCHIN' THEM PANTS—LET ME DO THAT
SO YOU'RE WELCOME AT JUDGE BOWER'S HOME AGAIN!.... BE SURE TO SEAT THE LADIES AT THE TABLE AND DONT LEAVE YOUR SPOON IN YOUR COFFEE CUP—
I'LL BUY LULU'S MOTHER SOME FLOWERS TO SWEETEN HER UP, AND SHOW HER I'M NOT MAD BECAUSE THE WAY SHE ACTED WHEN I HAD THAT TROUBLE—
HAVEN'T BEEN ALL DRESSED UP FOR SO LONG I FEEL LIKE A DUDE! WON'T LULU BE SURPRISED!

HA, MORE REMINDERS OF THE WONDERFUL FRIENDS YOU HAD AT THIS HOUSE WHILE I WAS AWAY HALF A FISH SANDWICH IN THE PIANO AND....
MOTHER MR GOOBER IS AT THE DOOR. HE BROUGHT BACK A HANDKERCHIEF WE LEFT IN THE PLANE.
WELL, WELL. JOSEPHINE. AND MISS PEGGY. HOW ARE YOU? SORRY TO BREAK IN ON YOUR LITTLE FAMILY CIRCLE BUT.......AH THIS, I BELIEVE IS.....?
GEORGE THIS IS ROLLO GOOBER. YOU REMEMBER ME TELLING YOU ABOUT HIM.
McNaught Syndicate, Inc., N Y
AND ANOTHER IDEA I HAD FOR MAKING AEROPLANES LAND SAFELY IN SMALL PLACES IS TO HAVE ONE WHEEL SMALLER THAN THE OTHER. SO THAT WHEN THE PLANE HITS THE GROUND IT WILL RUN IN A CIRCLE AND....
GEORGE! GEORGE, ROLLO WANTS TO SAY SOMETHING.
AH I'M SORRY FOLKS BUT IT'S LATE. I MUST RUN ON.
ONE WHEEL SMALLER THAN THE OTHER. TALKING SUCH POPPYCOCK TO A MAN WHO OWNS SIX PLANES. THAT WINDBAG. AND CALLING ME ROLLO. MY NAME TO RIFFRAFF LIKE THAT BUNGLE IS MISTER GOOBER, ESQ. OH JOSEPHINE, TO THINK THAT YOU REFUSED ME TO MARRY THAT NUMSKULL. IT DOESN'T SEEM TRUE I MUST BE DREAMING.
